Hot? You bet, but not record

By SKIP TAGGART
Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Although the heat and humidity have been virtually unbearable for the past week, a spokesman for the National Weather Service in Avoca said no new record high temperatures for the season have been established.

He said reports of the mercury reaching the 100 mark in the Stroudsburg area were "interesting" but stated that for an accurate reading the thermometer should be in a grassy, shaded area and well ventilated.

The highest verified temperature on record for this area was recorded in 1930 when the thermometer climbed to 99 degrees in the shade.

Friday did prove to be the hottest day of the year so far with a reading of 91 recorded in East Stroudsburg by area weatherman Ben Gelber. On the preceding two days 90 degrees was the registered high.

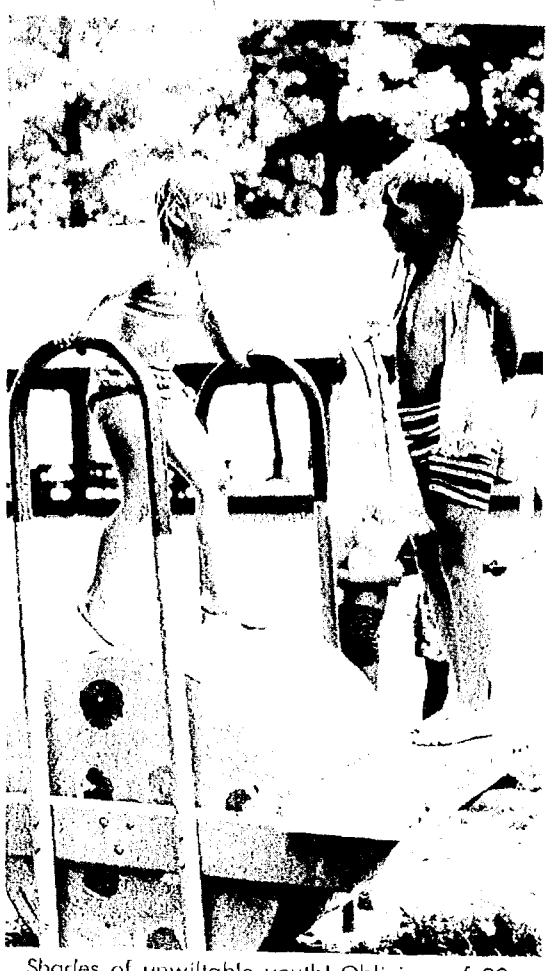

Gelber said the temperatures were possibly higher in the downtown area since breezes are blocked from the area and the concrete surfaces reflect the heat and magnify its intensity.

"I've been keeping records since 1970 and this is definitely the warmest it's been for the last couple of years," said Gelber.

It looks as though the longest and hottest heat wave in recent years is on it's way out, according to the long range forecast from the government men in Avoca. After one of the biggest booms in air conditioner sales this area has ever seen, many appliance dealers may hate to see it go.

The forecast for today is calling for temperatures in the mid to upper 80's with a marked decrease in humidity. Overnight 'low' temperatures should begin to fall back into the upper 50's to low 60's by Saturday night.

Sunday and Monday are predicted to have fair skies with continued warm temperatures accompanied by a 20 per cent chance of rain throughout the weekend.

Shades of unwilltable youth! Oblivious of 90-degree temperatures, Cindy and Robert McMasters take turns on treadmill at East Stroudsburg's Dansbury Park, within splashing distance of swimming pool.

Inflation hits 6 1/2-year low; economy booms

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The U.S. economy boomed and inflation declined during the second quarter to annual levels unmatched in 6 1-2 years, the government reported Friday. President Nixon's economists were described as "exuberant" over the news.

In a separate report, expected advances in supermarket food prices pushed the cost of living upward in June by 0.2 per cent. But the increase in the Consumer Price Index for any 12-month period fell below 3 per cent last month for the first time since November, 1967, to 2.9 per cent.

Both reports clearly elated the White House, which called them "very encouraging news," and Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, who said it was "the best combination of economic statistics released in this decade."

Assistant Commerce Secretary Harold C. Passer announced that the economy grew at "a prodigious rate" in the three months ended June 30, as measured by the Gross National Product (GNP), a comprehensive economic indicator representing the total value of all goods and services produced in the country.

Discounting the effects of inflation, the GNP grew in "real" terms by 8.9 per cent in April, May and June at an annual rate, the highest since the fourth quarter of 1965.

At the same time, the annual rate on inflation dropped to 2.1 per cent —the lowest since the fourth quarter of 1965.

With real growth and inflation taken together, the GNP rose by $30 billion in the second quarter to an annual, seasonally adjusted rate of $1,139 billion, or $1.139 trillion.

Said Passer: "The prospects are excellent for exceeding the administration's forecast of a 6 per cent gain in real GNP in 1972 (and) the forecast of a 3.25 per cent increase in prices in 1972 is within reach."

The GNP inflation factor covers all prices —including raw industrial products — compared to the consumer prices which rose by about the same annual rate in the second quarter —2.2 per cent. This was substantially below the 3.6 per cent annual rate of the first quarter and comfortably lower than Nixon's goal of reducing inflationary growth to a level between 2.5 and 3 per cent by the end of the year.

Food prices rose last month by 0.6 per cent, led by meats, fresh fruits and vegetables, the Labor Department said. Used cars and homes also shot up, while prices dropped for clothing, gasoline, new cars, alcoholic beverages.

But even though the Consumer Price Index jumped to an even 125 (meaning it cost $12.50 in June to buy the same goods and services that cost $10 in 1967), rank and file production workers found that their take-home pay more than kept up with the cost of living.

Their average weekly earnings, after deductions for taxes and Social Security, rose by $1.72 in June to $120.49. After adjustments for the higher cost of living, the real purchasing power of their take-home pay rose 1.2 per cent over May and stood 4 per cent higher than a year earlier.

Stein, the President's chief economic adviser, said the administration was "exuberant" over both reports, which he termed "enormously encouraging" in the battle to stimulate economic growth while curbing inflation.

Stein predicted further strong economic expansion through the end of the year, continuing declines in unemployment, a leveling off if not an actual decline in meat prices, and workers' "real" earnings outpacing inflation.

Although there was no likelihood the administration would lift or ease its wage-price controls in the near future, Stein said, the prospects of this happening later had improved. "We're not going to relax, but we are encouraged," he said.

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said consumer prices rose by only 0.1 per cent, and food prices by 0.2 per cent, when seasonal factors such as weather and supply were taken into account.

The annual rate of inflation has dropped from 6.1 per cent in 1969 to 2.2 per cent in the second quarter this year, he noted. "The ball game may not be over, but we certainly are improving our score inning by inning," he said.

Chairman Herbert Stein of the President's Council of Economic Advisers seems to be peering into the future as he announces lowest cost-of-living increase in six and a half years.

Hot polluted air hits Ohio River industry

By United Press International

Major industries in the Ohio Valley were ordered Friday to curb air emissions when a stagnant mass of hot, humid air swept inland from the East Coast and trapped pollutants at dangerously high levels.

Record temperatures throughout the Eastern United States aggravated the pollution crisis, centered over Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, and the weather bureau said the condition would last through next Tuesday.

Ninety degree temperatures and high humidity in New York City formed an "extremely stifling condition," the weather bureau said. In Washington, D.C., air pollution headed for record levels. A "first stage" air alert was in effect in Pittsburgh, and pavement on the Edens Expressway in Chicago buckled because of the heat.

Baltimore was in its fifth straight day of an air pollution alert and two men who apparently couldn't stand the 90 degree temperatures were arrested for stealing a large air conditioner. Police said they stole it from a first floor window of a home and were hauling it on a street when they were caught.

C. Raymond Marvin, assistant Ohio attorney general and head of the state's environmental strike force, obtained temporary restraining orders against 20 heavy industries to force them to halt air pollution production.

He also said he was prepared to seek injunctions against an additional 100 firms in the highly industrialized Ohio Valley in the Steubenville area.

Flood relief call for legislature?

HARRISBURG (UPI)—Gov. Milton J. Shapp told legislators Friday he would know within the "next week to 10 days" whether he will recall them from recess to act on a flood relief program.

Shapp told the a special hearing of the House Business and Commerce Committee that much of his planning on flood relief depended on what the federal government does in the area flood relief during that time.

Shapp said he hopes Congress moves to change the 1968 federal Housing Act and restore the relocation costs paid by the federal government to the pre-July 1 figure of 100 per cent. The relocation costs paid by the federal government dropped from 100 to 66 per cent on that date.

The governor said the federal government should also appropriate sufficent funds to enable the Housing and Urban Development Department to condemn large tracts of flood damaged property and rebuild them as urban renewal projects.

This would allow the local, state and federal agencies to develop major programs that would be greatly superior to house by house or business by business replacement, he said.

He said another hold up in his decision on flood aid has been the federal Small Business Administration (SBA).

Court upholds federal meat check takeover

HARRISBURG (UPI) — A U. S. District Court judge refused Friday to grant a bitterly argued state request to stop the federal takeover of Pennsylvania's meat inspection program.

Judge R. Dixon Herman said the state failed to prove that U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz had "abused his discretion" in ordering the takeover or that it would do "irreparable harm" to Pennsylvania consumers.

"This has been an unfortunate case," Herman said in his ruling from the bench.

"I feel the Commonwealth has attempted to do a good job in its meat inspection program. Unfortunately, the matter before me was whether or not the secretary of agriculture abused his discretion."

He said, however, the testimony indicated that — contrary to the state's arguments — Butz had made his decision on the basis of evidence that the state's programs were not "equal to" the federal program.

"There is harm to the Commonwealth and to the state's inspectors," Herman said, but when you balance this against the intent of the law -to provide good, wholesome meat — then it does not become irreparable harm."

Ed Weintraub, deputy state attorney general, argued that federal inspectors had rigged the final review of the state's meat plant so that Butz would have no other choice than to order the takeover.

"Suddenly, in the 11th hour, when the state has made a last ditch effort to save its meat inspection program, the USDA substitutes a sham and harassment for its regular inspection system."

Spain train crash kills 76

SEVILLE, Spain (UPI)— Seventy-six persons were killed early Friday when a high-speed express collided headon with a local shuttle that sped past a red light after it was errantly switched onto the main Madrid-Cadiz line.

Another 125 persons were injured, many of them seriously, in the crash which took place about 50 miles south of here at 7:30 a.m., railway officials said.

The railway spokesmen said there were about 500 passengers on Madrid-Cadiz express. There were about 200, including Spanish Marines on leave and countryfolk, in the four-car local. Two of the cars were completely destroyed.

U.S. Navy Seabees joined other rescue teams in searching through the crumpled wreckage for victims and survivors.

Massive IRA bombing kills 13, devastates Belfast

BELFAST (UPI)—The Irish Republican Army set off at least 26 bombs Friday in shattering blasts which reverberated through Belfast for more than an hour and turned the strife-torn capital of northern Ireland into a "disaster area" of blood and destruction. The army said at least 13 persons were killed, 11 civilians and two British soldiers. More than 130 persons were injured.

Another civilian was killed and five persons wounded later Friday in a gun battle between snipers and troops in the central part of the capital.

The IRA's militant Provisional wing issued a statement Friday night saying it was responsible for the bombings.

The bombs exploded within a period of 81 minutes in the late afternoon, catching shoppers and workers returning home.

"This day has been Ulster's worst day of carnage in three years," said a police spokesman. "Other days have claimed more dead, but none has done more damage or spilled more blood.

The 14 deaths raised to 168 the number of persons killed in three years of political and sectarian violence in northern Ireland. Of those, 58 have died since the IRA called off a brief cease-fire 12 days ago.

The police spokesman accused the IRA of attempting to provoke a civil war between the Roman Catholic minority and the Protestant majority of this British province with the 17,000 British troops here between them.

A militant Protestant spokesman demanded tougher actions by the British Security forces. Capt John Brooke, chief whip of the Unionist Party, said "violence must not pay and must be seen not to pay."

Shopping housewives, children, store employes, office workers and others became hysterical as one blast followed another. Several big fires broke out and a heavy pall of smoke hung over the downtown area, adding to the terror.

School aid act stricken

PHILADELPHIA — In a ruling which was a formality, a panel of judges in the federal district and appeals courts here Friday ruled that Pennsylvania's Parents' Reimbursement Act was unconstitutional. The ruling strikes down aid to parents of children in non-public schools in the Commonwealth.

Egypt restructures policy

CAIRO — Egyptian leaders were reported Friday to have started a series of meetings to determine future policy following President Anwar Sadat's ouster of thousands of Soviet military advisers. Cairo newspapers said Sadat met Thursday with Egyptian editors and heads of information departments and outlined the conditions under which he made his decision.

Poverty compromise reached

WASHINGTON — House and Senate conferees agreed Friday on a $6 billion two-year extension of federal antipoverty programs, including a provision for a new Legal Services Corporation that could invite another Presidential veto. The conferees, in two days of meetings, agreed that a 19-member board of directors should run the free legal services program for the poor which is now part of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Floods kill 242

MANILA — Six U.S. Army disaster relief squads arrived at Clark Air Force Base Friday to help Philippine relief workers locate and feed survivors of typhoon-spawned flooding that killed at least 242 persons on the island of Luzon.

LOUISIANA, Mo. (UPI)—The Missouri Monster smells like rotten eggs and has a head shaped like a pumpkin and glowing orange eyes.

The "International Unidentified Flying Object Bureau" thinks it's either a troglodyte or a Giant Hairy Biped (GHP) from outer space.

The monster, whatever it is, has been scaring people for the last 10 days—since a 15-year-old girl first reported sighting it. Others say they saw it at various times carrying off a dog and lifting up a small foreign car.

The UFO "bureau's" director, Hayden C. Hewes, believes the monster is a Giant Hairy Biped because that is one of the four categories the bureau has for creatures from outer space.

On the other hand, Hewes said in Oklahoma City Friday, it might be a trogdolyte — an ancient cave-dwelling creature. Louisiana is downriver from Hannibal, Mo., boyhood home of Mark Twain, and the area is dotted with caves.

Hewes said he and a team of researchers would come to Louisiana today to investigate.

He said descriptions of the monster, which residents have named "Momo," are similar to that of hairy beasts he said have been sighted in the Florida Everglades and near Vader, Wash., in 1971.

"Momo" is described as being six to 12 feet tall, covered with hair, walking erect, and emitting a foul sulphuric odor. The beast has a large pumpkin-shaped head, glowing orange eyes, an ape-like growth of hair, large feet, clawed hands and arms that reach to the knee.

Hewes' UFO bureau describes hairy bipeds as ranging in height from about two feet to seven feet. They react violently if disturbed by humans and probably have the intelligence of a chimpanzee, he said.

Hewes said more than 300 GHP's have been seen in recent years. Some people think they are experimental animals sent to earth by their masters on another planet to carry out robot-type duties.

The Missouri Monster was first seen July 12 by Doris Harrison, 15, in a wooded area near her rural home. Since then others have reported the creature crossing a highway.

Fla. cape Canaveral again

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate approved without dissent Friday a bill to restore the name Cape Canaveral to the geographic area surrounding the Kennedy Space Center in Florida.

The bill, passed by a voice vote without debate, is aimed at nullifying an order by President Lyndon B. Johnson changing the name shortly after the assassination of John F. Kennedy. Johnson later said that he did so at the suggestion of Kennedy's widow.

The legislation does not involve the name of the Space Center which Johnson also changed from Canaveral at the time he changed the name of the geographic area.

The Senate Interior Committee, after stalling on the bill for years, approved it last March with a note that Cape Canaveral is acknowledged by the Interior Department to be the "oldest continuously used place name on the American Atlantic Coast line."

But won't out-Agnew Agnew

Eagleton law, order man

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton said Friday he will emphasize law and order and urban problems as the Democratic vice presidential candidate this fall, but vowed he would not "out-Agnew Agnew" no matter how rough the campaign gets.

Sitting in his shirt sleeves behind a cluttered desk, the 42-year-old Missouri lawmaker told United Press International in an exclusive interview that his views vary in both "substance and tone" from those of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

"Agnew's pitch is bombastic, frightening, often times divisive," Eagleton said. "From my point of view, rational and meaningful commentary can be made without resorting to inflammatory rhetoric.

Handpicked by George S. McGovern to round out the Democratic ticket, Eagleton said he would concentrate on law and order and the urban crisis as issues; conceded he and McGovern differ on some major points; disclosed he will campaign heaviest in the South and states and cities with smaller populations; and admitted he has to overcome being "Tom, who?"

Eagleton predicted two factors could be decisive in the election—the issue of credibility and the registration of the young and black.

Leaning back in his chair, Eagleton freely acknowledged that he and McGovern differ on some issues, but added "this is healthy" and would add to the credibility of the ticket.

As an example, Eagleton cited his opposition to an all-volunteer Army during wartime. "The risk of death must be borne equally across the board, rich or poor, black and white," he said.

Eagleton also said he supported development of the multipurpose F15 jet fighter which McGovern wants cut out of the military budget. (McDonnell-Douglas, headquartered in Eagleton's home of St. Louis, would build the plane.)

Eagleton said McGovern has asked him in the campaign "to emphasize issues relating to law and order, issues relating to urban problems."

His credentials in the field include being a former district attorney and state attorney general and a native of St. Louis which he said has all the problems of New York, Los Angeles, Chicago, or any large city.

Three tries washed out

Pentagon admits fire plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Defense Department acknowledged Friday that it made three unsuccessful attempts in 1965-67 to destroy Communist jungle cover in South Vietnam by starting fires.

But Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim denied the project was ever secret or that it was intended to produce devastating "fire storms" of the kind that ravaged World War II aerial targets in Germany and Japan.

The experiment was dropped after the third and final attempt in 1967 because even in the dry season, South Vietnam's dense forests were simply too wet to burn.

Friedheim commented on reports of attempted creation of fire storms in some of South Vietnam's lushest timberlands, published simultaneously Friday in The New York Times and Science, the weekly journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The journal said the purpose was to burn out treetops already defoliated by chemicals to make air reconnaissance more effective, and to destroy ground cover used by Communist troops for camouflage against U.S. air and ground attacks.

Science quoted one unidentified ARPA official as saying that "this was clearly one of those ideas that should have been given the very quietest funeral. It really was a nutty idea to begin with."

The target was described as the timber-rich Mekong terrace region of the Central Highlands northwest of Saigon. Science said the area contained Viet Cong supply depots and base camps but no "permanent type villages" populated by civilians.

Fischer ecstatic following win

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI) —Challenger Bobby Fischer was "feeling on top of the world" Friday following his second win over world chess champion Boris Spassky of Russia. One chessmaster said the American could virtually wrap up the championship with one more win.

"Spassky is kaput" said Boris Najdorf of Argentina. "Bobby gave him two games in advance by objecting to the cameras yet he slaughtered him in game three and five. Another win for him and Spassky might just as well go home."

Yugoslavia's Svetozar Gligoric, the senior and most merited grandmaster attending the championship match said Spassky's loss of the fourth game Thursday was due to an uncharacteristic mistake, and that the Russian champion should not be counted out yet.

"The mistake Spassky made in his 27th move was terrible and he has not been playing well. But do not underestimate him," Gligoric said.

Fischer's win over Spassky Thursday evened the two men at 2.5 points each going into Sunday's sixth game, scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. EDT.

Spassky needs 12 points to retain his title and Fischer needs 12.5 points to take it away.

Fischer was in fine spirits for the game and would personally supervise placement of television cameras in the contest hall so it could be televised in the United States,an aide said Friday.

Nixon welfare program stalls

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Republican congressional leaders told President Nixon Friday that his welfare reform plan cannot be passed before the Nov. 7 election.

House Republican Leader Gerald Ford told reporters that GOP lawmakers believe there was no realistic chance of passage of any of Nixon's "New American Revolution" program with the possible exception of his revenue sharing proposal.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler insisted the administration had not given up on the controversial welfare plan, but he conceded that the outlook for Senate passage was bleak. The bill was passed earlier by the House.

"It appears that the net result when we adjourn will be revenue sharing at the most — very regrettably," Ford said after assessing Nixon's domestic legislative goals at a two-hour breakfast meeting.

Clark MacGregor, chairman of Nixon's campaign organization, attended the White House meeting which Ziegler described as a strategy session to lay plans for dealing with Congress in the 10 weeks before the expected October adjournment.

Nixon also instructed Cabinet members and his congressional supporters at the breakfast meeting to oppose any Democratic-sponsored increases in spending programs. Ford hinted that Nixon would veto any bills that included major increases in the budget.

"If the Democratic Congress continues to inflate some of these appropriation bills, the result would be either a need for more taxes or inflation which all Americans oppose very strongly," Ford said.

Nursing home care ombudsman created

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Creation of the first ombudsmen offices to handle complaints about nursing home care was announced Friday by the Health Education and Welfare Department (HEW). Grants totaling $561,800 were awarded for projects in Idaho, Michigan, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Wisconsin and the District of Columbia.

HEW said the program was in response to President Nixon's promise of "investigative units which will respond in a responsible and constructive way to complaints made by or on behalf of individual patients."

The largest grant, $175,000, was awarded to the National Council of Senior Citizens to test the ombudsman approach in the District of Columbia and Detroit, Lansing and the Upper Peninsula in Michigan.

State contracts in Idaho, Pennsylvania, South Carolina and Wisconsin call for an ombudsman in or near a government office and a closely linked local unit, said Marie Callender, HEW special assistant for nursing home affairs.

The local units will be staffed by professionals and trained volunteers who will receive and resolve complaints or refer them to the state ombudsman, she said. They will seek out nursing home patients who have no one to speak in their behalf, will act as consultants and mediators and will work with local organizations.

The state ombudsman will work with state and federal agencies to investigate and resolve nursing home complaints "and to assure prompt reporting of the outcome of investigations," Mrs. Callender said.

The Pennsylvania contract was for $108,000.

Berlin wall to move

BERLIN (UPI)—East Germany agreed Friday to move back the Berlin wall at a main city square and carry out other border corrections for the sake of making life more bearable in both halves of the divided city.

It said it was ready to exchange enclaves and "other small pieces of territory" with West Berlin in line with the Big Four agreement of June 3 to lessen tension here.

Dietrich Hinkefuss, an aid to West Berlin Mayor Kaus Schuetz, and Dr. Walter Mueller of the East German foreign office, signed an agreement in East Berlin to move the wall back a bit at a main city square to improve the West Berlin highway system.

U.S.-Soviet resources deal set

MOSCOW (UPI)—American cooperation in exploitation of Russia's natural resources was high on the agenda Friday of the first meeting of the new joint U.S.-Soviet Trade Commission.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said the commission will investigate the opportunities for such cooperation as part of their consideration of the whole complex of Soviet-American trade relations.

An American announcement said the two sides agreed to establish five task force groups to prepare an overall trade agreement. This contract would include provisions for settlement of Russia's lend-lease debt, licenses, patents and related matters, joint economic projects and maritime agreements.

Nikolai S. Patolichev, Soviet minister for foreign trade, presided over the commission's first meeting at The House of Receptions high in the Lenin hills overlooking Moscow.

LOUISIANA, Mo. (UPI)—The Missouri Monster smells like rotten eggs and has a head shaped like a pumpkin and glowing orange eyes.

The "International Unidentified Flying Object Bureau" thinks it's either a troglodyte or a Giant Hairy Biped (GHP) from outer space.

The monster, whatever it is, has been scaring people for the last 10 days—since a 15-year-old girl first reported sighting it. Others say they saw it at various times carrying off a dog and lifting up a small foreign car.

The UFO "bureau's" director, Hayden C. Hewes, believes the monster is a Giant Hairy Biped because that is one of the four categories the bureau has for creatures from outer space.

On the other hand, Hewes said in Oklahoma City Friday, it might be a trogdolyte — an ancient cave-dwelling creature. Louisiana is downriver from Hannibal, Mo., boyhood home of Mark Twain, and the area is dotted with caves.

Hewes said he and a team of researchers would come to Louisiana today to investigate.

He said descriptions of the monster, which residents have named "Momo," are similar to that of hairy beasts he said have been sighted in the Florida Everglades and near Vader, Wash., in 1971.

"Momo" is described as being six to 12 feet tall, covered with hair, walking erect, and emitting a foul sulphuric odor. The beast has a large pumpkin-shaped head, glowing orange eyes, an ape-like growth of hair, large feet, clawed hands and arms that reach to the knee.

Hewes' UFO bureau describes hairy bipeds as ranging in height from about two feet to seven feet. They react violently if disturbed by humans and probably have the intelligence of a chimpanzee, he said.

Hewes said more than 300 GHP's have been seen in recent years. Some people think they are experimental animals sent to earth by their masters on another planet to carry out robot-type duties.

The Missouri Monster was first seen July 12 by Doris Harrison, 15, in a wooded area near her rural home. Since then others have reported the creature crossing a highway.

Fla. cape Canaveral again

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate approved without dissent Friday a bill to restore the name Cape Canaveral to the geographic area surrounding the Kennedy Space Center in Florida.

The bill, passed by a voice vote without debate, is aimed at nullifying an order by President Lyndon B. Johnson changing the name shortly after the assassination of John F. Kennedy. Johnson later said that he did so at the suggestion of Kennedy's widow.

The legislation does not involve the name of the Space Center which Johnson also changed from Canaveral at the time he changed the name of the geographic area.

The Senate Interior Committee, after stalling on the bill for years, approved it last March with a note that Cape Canaveral is acknowledged by the Interior Department to be the "oldest continuously used place name on the American Atlantic Coast line."

But won't out-Agnew Agnew

Eagleton law, order man

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton said Friday he will emphasize law and order and urban problems as the Democratic vice presidential candidate this fall, but vowed he would not "out-Agnew Agnew" no matter how rough the campaign gets.

Sitting in his shirt sleeves behind a cluttered desk, the 42-year-old Missouri lawmaker told United Press International in an exclusive interview that his views vary in both "substance and tone" from those of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

"Agnew's pitch is bombastic, frightening, often times divisive," Eagleton said. "From my point of view, rational and meaningful commentary can be made without resorting to inflammatory rhetoric.

Handpicked by George S. McGovern to round out the Democratic ticket, Eagleton said he would concentrate on law and order and the urban crisis as issues; conceded he and McGovern differ on some major points; disclosed he will campaign heaviest in the South and states and cities with smaller populations; and admitted he has to overcome being "Tom, who?"

Eagleton predicted two factors could be decisive in the election—the issue of credibility and the registration of the young and black.

Leaning back in his chair, Eagleton freely acknowledged that he and McGovern differ on some issues, but added "this is healthy" and would add to the credibility of the ticket.

As an example, Eagleton cited his opposition to an all-volunteer Army during wartime. "The risk of death must be borne equally across the board, rich or poor, black and white," he said.

West End Fair director gives poultry entry tips

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth in a series of articles that will be run throughout the summer on preparing for the West End Fair).

By MAUREEN RUFE
Pocono Record Reporter

KUNKLETOWN — One young West End chick named Sonya must hold the world's record for sitting under a hair dryer. Apparently in sheer ecstasy over the experience, Sonya can sit under the "hot hat" for hours and never mind a bit.

The thing that is particularly strange about the experience is that Sonya is a chicken, a buff cochin belong to Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Smith of Kunkletown.

Before a major poultry show, Sonya, along with many other varieties of foul, is given a bath and put under a hair dryer to give her that extra fluff for a first prize.

Although Smith said that this year, he and his wife Janet probably wouldn't be bathing their foul for the West End Fair, he did comment on some extra tips for prospective exhibitors in the division.

"One of the most important things for people to remember when they enter at the fair is, above all, not to transport their birds in a draft," said Smith, who is a fair director in charge of entering poultry, rabbits and dogs.

"Birds can stand the coldest and the hotest weather, but if they are in a draft they will catch a cold very easily."

Really, according to Smith, it takes about eight weeks to get a bird in top condition to enter. He stressed the fact that since the weather has changed drastically during the last few months, all the foul this year will probably suffer in quality.

When entering larger fairs, many exhibitors, according to the owner of Stoney Ledge, force their birds to molt by not giving them food and water for three days. He didn't think anybody at the West End Fair, however, would use the technique to get the birds to peak feather condition.

A mandatory prerequisite for anybody who wants to enter the poultry division, according to Mrs. Smith, is to have their birds blood tested. According to state fair requirements, no bird will be entered unless it has the proper blood certificate to accompany it.

The tests cost from one and a half to two cents per bird and can be obtained by phoning Kendall Merritt at Chapman Lake in Jermym, Pa., 717-254-9558. Merritt will make an appointment to come to the resident's house for the tests, which according to the Smiths, only take a few minutes.

The young director stressed the fact that the birds should get the proper vitamins and their cages should be cleaned at least once a month.

He said because it takes at least a day for foul to settle down and get used to their cages, he registers his entries as early as possible at the fair.

He mentioned the fact that there is no entry fee at the West End Fair and said the association takes care of feeding and watering for the animals' five-day stay.

He said that more entries were welcomed; he would like to see everybody in Monroe County who has birds enter them this year.

One problem at the fair, which hopefully will not come up again this year, is spectators pulling the all important tail feathers out of prime birds. Smith stressed that many entries would go to fairs in September and shouldn't be abused.

Persons wishing to enter any foul in the fair this year should know the variety of birds they have and they should pre-register their entries with the Smiths by phoning them at 381-3612.

They should indicate if the birds are young or old, how many there are and who is showing them.

KUNKLETOWN — When a man starts giving his chickens a bath, you know he must be an expert at handling foul!.

Together with lots of tender loving care, Boyd Smith of Kunkletown feeds, pampers, and even baths some of his more than 300 birds, before they go to some of the four major fairs he and his wife exhibit in each year.

Travelling all over the state for large shows, Smith and his wife Janet enter as many as 60 to 80 birds at a time. It takes approximately eight hours a day to care for the more than 300 geese, ducks, chickens and turkeys that Smith maintains as a hobby at his preserve, Stone Ledge, in Kunkletown.

Although having won grand prize ribbons all over the state, Smith is most well known in the West End for his large white Embdem geese and the many prizes he wins each year at the West End fair.

At their four-acre preserve in Kunkletown the Smiths maintain 12 bantams, seven types of standard chickens, four kinds of ducks, two varieties of turkeys and one type of geese. In addition, they have two horses, a dog and 26 cats.

"I've raised birds all my life and I'm 28, said Smith. "My wife has always liked animals but before we got married she thought chickens were just chickens to eat. Now she thinks differently."

Primarily entering the big shows to advertize his stock, Smith has sold birds to people in New York, Maryland, Rhode Island, and Connecticut.

His birds consume an average of 200 pounds of feed a day and more or less run loose or swim free on a creek at the Stoney Ledge property.

Both the Smiths agreed that tending so many animals meant they were tied down, but they said they would rather have the animals.

The young West End Fair director stressed that his birds were all locked in separate pens when they were breeding to prevent crossed hatching.

He commended enthusiastically about the West End Fair and said he was anxious to enter his birds there each year because it was a local show and was so close to home.

Rep. Foster asks Shapp for vote on salary increase

HARRISBURG — State Rep. William W. Foster has requested Gov. Shapp to call a special session of the General Assembly to vote on the salary increase announced by the State Compensation Commission.

In his request, Foster, who represents Wayne, Pike and Monroe Counties, said, "With economic conditions and taxes already at an all-time high in the Commonwealth, it is my opinion that the commission recommendations are excessive."

Foster told the Governor that, "I am extremely concerned and disturbed, and feel I must protest the adjournment of the General Assembly at 4:45 a.m. July 7 for the summer recess, because to recess in such a manner prohibited the calling up of the many resolutions, one of which I co-sponsored, requiring a vote by the legislators to either accept or reject the recent report of the Compensation Commission."

Foster strongly urged the Governor to recall the General Assembly for a special session before Aug. 21 so that the members of both houses would have an opportunity to register their vote accepting or rejecting the contents of the Commission Report.

In June the commission recommended a $25,200 annual money package for each of Pennsylvania's 253 lawmakers. The finding proposed to give each legislator an annual salary of $19,200 and an expense account of $6,000.

The lawmakers currently receive a $7,200 salary plus $8,400 in expenses, but they don't have to account for their expenses.

The commission would require them to give an accounting of how they spend the $6,000 expense money.

The commission revealed its recommendations on June 21 and they would become law in 60 days unless the legislature changed them.

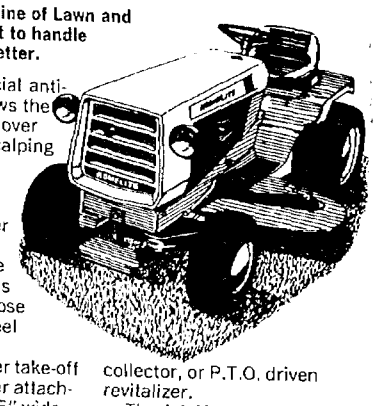

The 60 days will expire Aug. 21 and no action has been taken on the commission's recommendations to this point.

The members of the five-man commission were appointed last November by Gov. Shapp.

GILBERT — An impressive silver trophy and a total of 18 cash awards have been added by private contributors to the list of prizes that will be distributed in the poultry division at the West End Fair this year.

In an attempt to improve the poultry division, Harold Everett of Effort and Boyd Smith of Kunkletown have provided the trophy to be awarded to the exhibitor showing the best old pair and young pair of birds in the same breed.

The birds will be judged in accordance with American Standard of Perfection.

Contributors offering additional $5 cash prizes are as follows:

Scotty's Fashions for best cock bantam, Krome Chevrolet for best cockerel bantam, Plastic Mart for best hen bantam, Snyder Milling Company for best pullet bantam and the Northampton Farm Bureau Co-op Association for best cock standard.

Also, Albert M. Toth Plumbing and Heating for best hen standard, the Stehly Sign Company for best cockerel standard, Pocono Mountain Dairies for best pullet standard, Lehigh Valley Co-op Farmers for best bantam or standard barred rock, and W & S Industries, Inc. for best duck.

Also, the William H. Kresge Funeral Home for best goose, Daniel G. Warner, funeral director, for best all-around waterfoul, ASPEC Corp. for the best display of bantams (six of one breed), Shea's Hardware, Inc. for best display of standards (six of one breed) and the Pen Argyl National Bank for the best display of waterfoul (six of one breed).

Also, the First National Bank of Palmerton for the best buck (rabbit), the Effort Diner for the best doe (rabbit) and Mrs. Elwood H. Borger and Mrs. Richard W. Kennedy for the best display of rabbits (six of one breed).

Donated to the West End Fair Association for the improvement of the poultry division, this impressive trophy will be awarded for the first time this year to the exhibitor with both the best old pair and young pair of birds in a single breed.

Emergency housing available

WHITE HAVEN — The Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Pennsylvania has made emergency housing available to the physically and multiple handicapped except those suffering from uncontrollable seizures.

The society, since the flood, has provided a resident and day care program to handicapped flood victims to help relieve the anxiety of the families in caring for these members.

The Pennsylvania Easter Seal Society operates four summer resident camps and presently flood victims have been placed at Camp Daddy Allen, Hickory Run State Park, White Haven; Camp Harmony Hall, Middletown and Camp Easter Seal, near Somerset.

Any handicapped individual who is in need of assistance may contact their local Easter Seal Society.

Up Milford way

By NORMAN B. LEHDE

On Tuesday evening, Dr. Robert Nuss, Professor of Ornamental Horticulture at Penn State, met with members of Milford's Tree Study Committee to take a look at some of the trees in the borough and make some recommendations.

Standing on Broad Street with the professor, the group who accompanied him on a brief walking tour, were very much aware that the modern world of macadam and asphalt had changed Milford's main streets. Changed them in such a way that, if trees are to survive, an entirely new system of planting and care must be instituted.

Large maples, planted in a day when Broad Street was part of the "Great Shale Highway" from Port Jervis to Stroudsburg, are dying.

Perhaps there are elements of irony in a situation in which Milford stands to lose the trees on her main streets at a time when other communities, for a variety of reasons, are breaking the concrete deserts of their streets with oases of trees.

The day of the giant maple on Main Street, whose leaves once shaded the stroll of the Gibson Girl, appears ended. No merchant is likely to ever again build a store front roof around a tree as was once done at the Brown Building.

An era passes. Memories of the surrey with the fringe on top were dissolved in the happy possession of a merry Oldsmobile. Times change and happiness is flight from a scrubbing board to a coin slot in the laundramat.

But Broad and Harford Streets without trees? West End Fair director gives poultry entry tips

By MAUREEN RUFE
Pocono Record Reporter

KUNKLETOWN — One young West End chick named Sonya must hold the world's record for sitting under a hair dryer. Apparently in sheer ecstasy over the experience, Sonya can sit under the "hot hat" for hours and never mind a bit.

The thing that is particularly strange about the experience is that Sonya is a chicken, a buff cochin belong to Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Smith of Kunkletown.

Before a major poultry show, Sonya, along with many other varieties of foul, is given a bath and put under a hair dryer to give her that extra fluff for a first prize.

Although Smith said that this year, he and his wife Janet probably wouldn't be bathing their foul for the West End Fair, he did comment on some extra tips for prospective exhibitors in the division.

"One of the most important things for people to remember when they enter at the fair is, above all, not to transport their birds in a draft," said Smith, who is a fair director in charge of entering poultry, rabbits and dogs.

"Birds can stand the coldest and the hotest weather, but if they are in a draft they will catch a cold very easily."

Really, according to Smith, it takes about eight weeks to get a bird in top condition to enter. He stressed the fact that since the weather has changed drastically during the last few months, all the foul this year will probably suffer in quality.

When entering larger fairs, many exhibitors, according to the owner of Stoney Ledge, force their birds to molt by not giving them food and water for three days. He didn't think anybody at the West End Fair, however, would use the technique to get the birds to peak feather condition.

A mandatory prerequisite for anybody who wants to enter the poultry division, according to Mrs. Smith, is to have their birds blood tested. According to state fair requirements, no bird will be entered unless it has the proper blood certificate to accompany it.

The tests cost from one and a half to two cents per bird and can be obtained by phoning Kendall Merritt at Chapman Lake in Jermym, Pa., 717-254-9558. Merritt will make an appointment to come to the resident's house for the tests, which according to the Smiths, only take a few minutes.

The young director stressed the fact that the birds should get the proper vitamins and their cages should be cleaned at least once a month.

He said because it takes at least a day for foul to settle down and get used to their cages, he registers his entries as early as possible at the fair.

He mentioned the fact that there is no entry fee at the West End Fair and said the association takes care of feeding and watering for the animals' five-day stay.

He said that more entries were welcomed; he would like to see everybody in Monroe County who has birds enter them this year.

One problem at the fair, which hopefully will not come up again this year, is spectators pulling the all important tail feathers out of prime birds. Smith stressed that many entries would go to fairs in September and shouldn't be abused.

Persons wishing to enter any foul in the fair this year should know the variety of birds they have and they should pre-register their entries with the Smiths by phoning them at 381-3612.

They should indicate if the birds are young or old, how many there are and who is showing them.

KUNKLETOWN — When a man starts giving his chickens a bath, you know he must be an expert at handling foul!.

Together with lots of tender loving care, Boyd Smith of Kunkletown feeds, pampers, and even baths some of his more than 300 birds, before they go to some of the four major fairs he and his wife exhibit in each year.

Travelling all over the state for large shows, Smith and his wife Janet enter as many as 60 to 80 birds at a time. It takes approximately eight hours a day to care for the more than 300 geese, ducks, chickens and turkeys that Smith maintains as a hobby at his preserve, Stone Ledge, in Kunkletown.

Although having won grand prize ribbons all over the state, Smith is most well known in the West End for his large white Embdem geese and the many prizes he wins each year at the West End fair.

At their four-acre preserve in Kunkletown the Smiths maintain 12 bantams, seven types of standard chickens, four kinds of ducks, two varieties of turkeys and one type of geese. In addition, they have two horses, a dog and 26 cats.

"I've raised birds all my life and I'm 28, said Smith. "My wife has always liked animals but before we got married she thought chickens were just chickens to eat. Now she thinks differently."

Primarily entering the big shows to advertize his stock, Smith has sold birds to people in New York, Maryland, Rhode Island, and Connecticut.

His birds consume an average of 200 pounds of feed a day and more or less run loose or swim free on a creek at the Stoney Ledge property.

Both the Smiths agreed that tending so many animals meant they were tied down, but they said they would rather have the animals.

The young West End Fair director stressed that his birds were all locked in separate pens when they were breeding to prevent crossed hatching.

He commended enthusiastically about the West End Fair and said he was anxious to enter his birds there each year because it was a local show and was so close to home.

Rep. Foster asks Shapp for vote on salary increase

HARRISBURG — State Rep. William W. Foster has requested Gov. Shapp to call a special session of the General Assembly to vote on the salary increase announced by the State Compensation Commission.

In his request, Foster, who represents Wayne, Pike and Monroe Counties, said, "With economic conditions and taxes already at an all-time high in the Commonwealth, it is my opinion that the commission recommendations are excessive."

Foster told the Governor that, "I am extremely concerned and disturbed, and feel I must protest the adjournment of the General Assembly at 4:45 a.m. July 7 for the summer recess, because to recess in such a manner prohibited the calling up of the many resolutions, one of which I co-sponsored, requiring a vote by the legislators to either accept or reject the recent report of the Compensation Commission."

Foster strongly urged the Governor to recall the General Assembly for a special session before Aug. 21 so that the members of both houses would have an opportunity to register their vote accepting or rejecting the contents of the Commission Report.

In June the commission recommended a $25,200 annual money package for each of Pennsylvania's 253 lawmakers. The finding proposed to give each legislator an annual salary of $19,200 and an expense account of $6,000.

The lawmakers currently receive a $7,200 salary plus $8,400 in expenses, but they don't have to account for their expenses.

The commission would require them to give an accounting of how they spend the $6,000 expense money.

The commission revealed its recommendations on June 21 and they would become law in 60 days unless the legislature changed them.

The 60 days will expire Aug. 21 and no action has been taken on the commission's recommendations to this point.

The members of the five-man commission were appointed last November by Gov. Shapp.

GILBERT — An impressive silver trophy and a total of 18 cash awards have been added by private contributors to the list of prizes that will be distributed in the poultry division at the West End Fair this year.

In an attempt to improve the poultry division, Harold Everett of Effort and Boyd Smith of Kunkletown have provided the trophy to be awarded to the exhibitor showing the best old pair and young pair of birds in the same breed.

The birds will be judged in accordance with American Standard of Perfection.

Contributors offering additional $5 cash prizes are as follows:

Scotty's Fashions for best cock bantam, Krome Chevrolet for best cockerel bantam, Plastic Mart for best hen bantam, Snyder Milling Company for best pullet bantam and the Northampton Farm Bureau Co-op Association for best cock standard.

Also, Albert M. Toth Plumbing and Heating for best hen standard, the Stehly Sign Company for best cockerel standard, Pocono Mountain Dairies for best pullet standard, Lehigh Valley Co-op Farmers for best bantam or standard barred rock, and W & S Industries, Inc. for best duck.

Also, the William H. Kresge Funeral Home for best goose, Daniel G. Warner, funeral director, for best all-around waterfoul, ASPEC Corp. for the best display of bantams (six of one breed), Shea's Hardware, Inc. for best display of standards (six of one breed) and the Pen Argyl National Bank for the best display of waterfoul (six of one breed).

Also, the First National Bank of Palmerton for the best buck (rabbit), the Effort Diner for the best doe (rabbit) and Mrs. Elwood H. Borger and Mrs. Richard W. Kennedy for the best display of rabbits (six of one breed).

Donated to the West End Fair Association for the improvement of the poultry division, this impressive trophy will be awarded for the first time this year to the exhibitor with both the best old pair and young pair of birds in a single breed.

Emergency housing available

WHITE HAVEN — The Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Pennsylvania has made emergency housing available to the physically and multiple handicapped except those suffering from uncontrollable seizures.

The society, since the flood, has provided a resident and day care program to handicapped flood victims to help relieve the anxiety of the families in caring for these members.

The Pennsylvania Easter Seal Society operates four summer resident camps and presently flood victims have been placed at Camp Daddy Allen, Hickory Run State Park, White Haven; Camp Harmony Hall, Middletown and Camp Easter Seal, near Somerset.

Any handicapped individual who is in need of assistance may contact their local Easter Seal Society.

Juveniles found to be delinquent

STROUDSBURG — Two Stroudsburg juveniles were declared delinquent Thursday in connection with a burglary of Pocono International Cycle Supplies May 13.

The juveniles, aged 16 and 17, were ordered into juvenile detention until the case is brought to disposition in Monroe County Juvenile Court.

Lightning causes fire on shed roof

BARTONSVILLE — Pocono Township firemen were called out Thursday afternoon after lightning struck a shed in Bartonsville.

Four trucks and 25 men responded to the call. Slight damage was reported to the roof of the shed, but the fire was quickly extinguished.

Up Milford way

By NORMAN B. LEHDE

On Tuesday evening, Dr. Robert Nuss, Professor of Ornamental Horticulture at Penn State, met with members of Milford's Tree Study Committee to take a look at some of the trees in the borough and make some recommendations.

Standing on Broad Street with the professor, the group who accompanied him on a brief walking tour, were very much aware that the modern world of macadam and asphalt had changed Milford's main streets. Changed them in such a way that, if trees are to survive, an entirely new system of planting and care must be instituted.

Large maples, planted in a day when Broad Street was part of the "Great Shale Highway" from Port Jervis to Stroudsburg, are dying.

Perhaps there are elements of irony in a situation in which Milford stands to lose the trees on her main streets at a time when other communities, for a variety of reasons, are breaking the concrete deserts of their streets with oases of trees.

The day of the giant maple on Main Street, whose leaves once shaded the stroll of the Gibson Girl, appears ended. No merchant is likely to ever again build a store front roof around a tree as was once done at the Brown Building.

An era passes. Memories of the surrey with the fringe on top were dissolved in the happy possession of a merry Oldsmobile. Times change and happiness is flight from a scrubbing board to a coin slot in the laundramat.

But Broad and Harford Streets without trees? Must the business section of Milford become an area flooded by a lava of concrete, a section of the "woodland county" that let its trees fade into memory at a time when more visitors than every may be seeking breaks in the ribbon of conformity encircling the standard shopping area?

The Tree Study Committee will not be assailing progress in their future tree planning. Just trying to promote a new concept in the preservation of a community tradition.

Use control, not censorship

Tunkhannock Township's supervisors, by drafting an ordinance giving them virtual censorship powers over all outdoor amusements in the township, are indulging themselves in a fit of legislative overkill.

The supervisors have reason to be angered by the fiasco that grew out of the Concert 10 rock festival held at Pocono International Raceway July 8. And they are right to seek power to regulate such affairs in the future.

But that power needn't be as wide as the ordinance under discussion would provide. In fact, we seriously doubt an ordinance of that sort would stand the test of a court appeal, which is almost sure to result when the ordinance is put into final form and approved.

Creates judges

The problem with the ordinance as drafted is that it would invest in the board of supervisors the power to judge whether or not a planned entertainment is "good" for the area.

We presume that, given a healthy dose of hindsight, an application for another rock concert next year would be refused instantly. And yet, an injunction township solicitor Lester Brown suggested against a planned country and western concert starring singer Johnny Cash was opposed vociferously by some 30 residents, who insisted the expected 20,000 attendees would be more mature than those who attended Concert 10.

Mrs. Helen Witt put the matter succinctly: "Everybody's up in the air about rock festivals. Other shows are decent shows," she said..

Nowhere, in the complaints we received about the fallout from Concert 10, did we hear any that said the rock performers put on an immoral show. In fact, virtually every one of the local residents our reporters spoke to about that abominable weekend made a point of praising the youngsters who attended the concert for their politeness.

Of the many instances of littering and petty vandalism — excepting two instances when public buildings were entered — virtually everyone instead blamed the raceway for providing inadequate parking, security, toilet and waste disposal facilities.

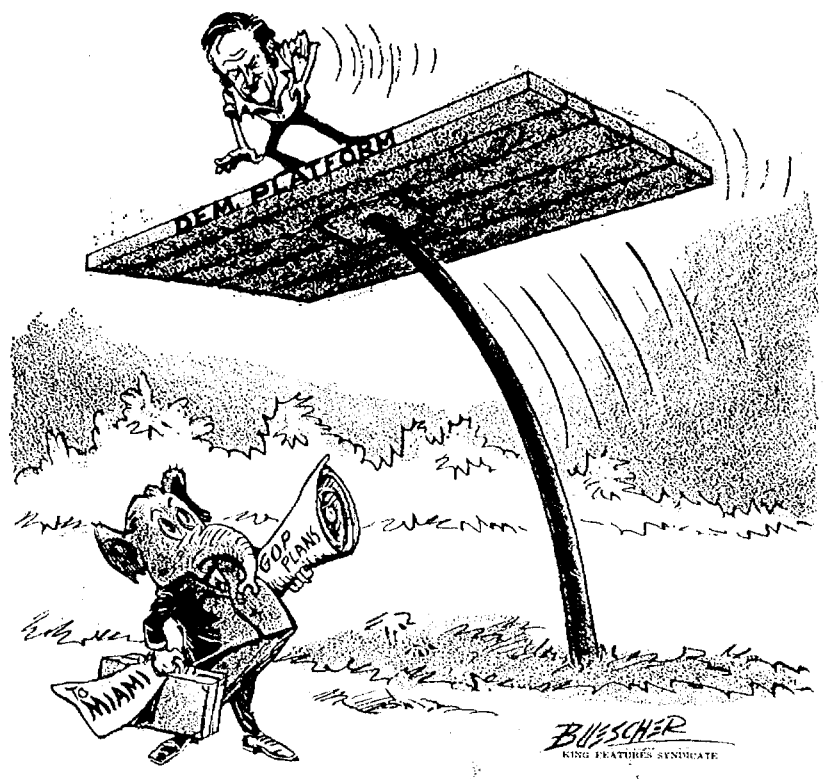

Discriminatory

Now, it seems, entertainments are going to be judged on whether they are good or bad, depending on how young or old the crowd to be attracted is. That seems not only unfair but discriminatory.

Yes, the supervisors should exercise control over amusements offered in the area. But that control should be restricted to being assured that adequate measures are made to handle expected crowds and insure the safety of the crowds and local residents.

One of our strongest criticisms of Concert 10 was the free and open peddling of drugs. Certainly, the youngsters who brought and indulged in drugs are to blame, but so were the officials who made inadequate provision for combating that problem.

That's where control should lie — over the officials planning a given event, not over one small group's opinion of the desirability of the event. That is censorship, and we don't like it. Not here in America.

Coin corner

By ROBERT SVENSSON

Yet, from his reaction following a recent coin auction in New York City at which he officiated, one would be led to believe that $43,500 is just so much chopped liver.

That was the top bid received for a unique St. Gaudens 1907 Double Eagle ($20 gold). Schulman, expressing disappointment, passed ownership of the rare coin to an unnamed West Coast coin collector.

To be sure, this coin was not ordinary. It is one of a kind. Although the St. Gaudens Double Eagle is available in several varieties all bearing a 1907 date, this one was unique.

The pre-auction catalog listed the coin's value between 75 and 100 thousand dollars. This, admittedly, is considerably in excess of the realized price.

It is in the nature of coin cataloguers to set prices a bit high.

This serves two purposes. It has a tendency to precondition prospective bidders. When the coin is sold at much less than the suggested price, it makes the successful bidder feel he has a great buy and is a very astute fellow.

Coin price guides notwithstanding, the last word in coin pricing is the final bid received by the auctioneer.

Chances are Schulman doesn't feel too bad about getting $43,500 for a $20 gold piece. After all, only two other U. S. coins have ever brought more at auction.

The Mickley 1804 Dollar brought $77,500 in 1970. A 1913 Liberty Head Nickel sold for $46,000 in 1967.

Drummond Roundup

Campaign vital

The nation needs to have a clear opportunity to affirm or change basic directions in both domestic and foreign policy. We can do so this fall.

Sen. McGovern offers the kind of sweeping alternative in purpose, policy and priorities which will make a meaningful presidential decision possible this November. That's what we need.

His nomination reflects much of the temper of the times. It is a response to a considerable voter demand for fundamental change, to a considerable voter protest against things as they are.

I am not advocating McGovern's election. Let's hear out the campaign. I am simply saying that his nomination by the Democratic Party gives an urgently needed, well-timed choice of national policies. Let the voters decide.

Demand for change

The support which both Sen. McGovern and Gov. Wallace generated reveals that there is a mounting demand for change. Many voters are disillusioned, alienated and distrustful of all government. This distrust has been growing. It rests in large part on the feeling that no matter who is elected, few things change at all. The differences between many presidential candidates seem slim.

The differences between President Nixon and Sen. McGovern are not slim. They are many and deep.

McGovern would radically cut defense spending, would radically reduce U. S. forces nearly everywhere in the world, including Western Europe, would increase taxes on middle-class incomes and up, would seek a substantial redistribution of income through tax changes. These proposals made even such liberal Democrats as Sens. Humphrey and Muskie shudder.

But many voters do not shudder at all over these McGovern promises. They were sufficiently determined and numerous to bring about the McGovern nomination. This is good because it is going to give the whole nation the opportunity to vote these views up or down.

Two matters

In this campaign two crucial matters are at stake. One is who is to be President. The other is what policies, purposes and priorities are to govern government.

This is why a McGovern-Nixon confrontation is the right kind of choice to have to make. It will put great decision making in the hands of the voters.

This will make for the best possible kind of presidential election.

It will provide the kind of choice voters should be allowed to make.

It will help greatly to bring alienated citizens back into the political process. They shared in nominating; they shared in drafting the platform. They can now share in the November verdict.

These are the reasons I think the McGovern-Nixon contest will be a healthy, enlightening, enlivening political event.

Lester Coleman, M.D.

Watch that sunburn!

What is your feeling about exposure to the sun? I love the healthy glow it gives me, but I understand that some dangers can be attached to it.

Miss F.R., S.C.

Dear Miss R.:

Some basic facts about skin tanning should be understood. Only in this way can overexposure be sensibly avoided.

Ultraviolet light is responsible for the tanning known as "sunburn". When the skin is exposed to the rays of this ultraviolet light, a skin pigment, melanin, is activated. Actually, this melanin then itself becomes a protection against overexposure.

Dermatologists, or skin specialists, warn that some degenerative changes and aging processes can occur after repeated exposure to the sun. This takes place particularly in people with a tendency to burn easily.

It is often forgotten that some drugs may make the skin more sensitive to sun, and may be responsible for unusual sunburns. For example, people who are taking sulfa drugs, some antibiotics, and some anti-fungus drugs, may be "photosensitive." They, particularly, should seek their doctors' advice about the safety in tanning while taking these drugs.

The increased possibility of developing malignant changes of the skin is considered especially important in people who sunburn easily. They, and others with unusual skin sensitivity, must avoid exposure, or use some of the sun-screening chemicals that now are available and can be used with safety.

It is a misconception to believe that all of the tanning agents that are sold offer complete protection against harmful rays of the sun. Some sun-screen lotions contain a chemical, para-amino-benzoic acid (PABA). These are considered to be protective of the sun's rays, but it must be remembered that PABA may in itself cause allergic sensitivity of the skin.

The greatest safety of sun-tanning lies in slow, gradual adaptation to the sun's rays. There is a great sense of well-being in the "healthy glow" of a suntan. I feel, however, that every person past 35 deserves an inspection of the skin by a doctor, and a discussion with him about the safety of prolonged exposure.

I have been told that I should see either an osteopath or a chiropractor for a back condition.

What is the difference between the two?

Mr. S.P., Wyo.

Dear Mr. P.:

An osteopath is a graduate of a school of medicine that differs from the medical schools that confer an M.D.

One of the basic concepts of osteopathy is that body disease depends on structural changes that can be relieved by manipulation.

Many osteopaths are exceedingly well trained and qualified in all fields of medicine and surgery.

Chiropractors use bone manipulation. Unfortunately, their training is not considered exact enough to be accepted without question. Yet they, too, can be effective and safe if they work within the limits of their training, and under medical or osteopathic supervision.

Mr. G.K., Maine

Dear Mr. K.:

Yes, it is possible. Some non-cancerous tumors may arise in a part of the brain that is referred to as "silent areas."

When there is no pressure on the areas of the brain responsible for memory, speech, sight, hearing or other vital fuctions, recovery can be complete and permanent.

Defends mobile home living

Editor, The Record:

I would like to concur with the observation made by a "concerned citizen" on your editorial page on Monday, July 17. The individual who wrote that letter stated that it should not be the taxpayers responsibility to foot the bill for clean-up operations that are necessitated by profit-making enterprises at the Pocono International Raceway.

What I should like to take issue with, however, is the terminology used in "concerned citizen's" letter. He stated, "Many are the times I have opened your paper to find a photo of a junkyard or trailer court with a letter from some tourist complaining how they were marring the beauty of the Poconos."

As a mobile home resident, I resent having mobile home courts classified in the same category as a junkyard. Granted there are a few in this area that need improvement badly. Most, however, are well organized, neat and well kept.

In case "concerned citizen" hasn't noticed, mobile home living is now far removed from the stereotyped concept of a gypsy carnival-operator who lived out of a trunk, that existed a few decades ago. Unlike many other states, particularly Florida and California where mobile home living has been accepted, this stigma still evidently exists in Pennsylvania.

Discrimination against mobile home owners in Monroe County is appalling. I've seen mobile homes referred to as "rusting boxes" that dot the landscape and depreciate the tax value, in your newspaper. Zoning restrictions are constantly being placed on mobile home owners. Actually, mobile homes may not possess the aesthetic exterior possible with a custom built home. On the other hand, they do offer convenience with a fair degree of amenities built in.

Mobile home courts have actually increased the tax base in Monroe County. Land that had the lowest tax rate classified as "undeveloped" has increased in value geometrically as the result of establishing a mobile home court on it. This may come as a shock to many of your readers, but mobile home owners do pay real estate taxes on their dwellings.

Yes, mobile home courts tax municiple services by increasing demand for water, sewer, police protection and schooling for their children. Monroe Countians have heart

Editor, The Record:

The flood situation throughout most of Pennsylvania, and particularly the Wilkes-Barre area, has brought out the character and heart of the people of Monroe County. I would like, therefore, to take just a moment to say thank you to the literally hundreds and hundreds of people who did so very much from Monroe County and surrounding areas to help flood victims.

Because there are so many, I cannot possibly begin to name each of them. Well over 300 volunteers donated hours of work over the course of time in sandwich making, sorting clothing, lifting, lugging, taking trips back and forth to the stricken areas, teams who served on some of our mobile canteens, individuals who donated trucks to carry material, drivers of the trucks who gave endless hours of their time, and the many people who volunteered to load and unload all through the night and then report to their own job in the morning with no rest.

There are large numbers of churches, church orgainzations, fire companies and their auxuliaries, service and fraternal organizations who really bent over backwards in providing all kinds of material. It is a story in which all Monroe Countians should be justly proud and it is a continuing story.

While most of the frenzied, hectic days we experienced in the beginning are gone now, there is still a fantastic amount of work being done by volunteers and groups. We have passed through several phases now. Some of the needs are changing and so will some of our program to meet the need at the Salvation Army as best we can.

I wish to say thank you to everyone who helped so sacrificially and capably. May I also say a word of thanks to the people who provided our new Citadel without which the job could not have been accomplished as well. All of this merely proves to me again that so far as I am concerned, Monroe Countians show they care and are responsive to people in need no matter where they are, and this is my salute to the people of Monroe County and surrounding areas.

I wish I could say more of my appreciation to you on behalf of the thousands of flood victims who are, in essence, your neighbors.

Dressler intruding?

Editor, The Record:

Frank Dressler gives me an acute pain in the neck. If he really said that "Tocks loss would hurt local economy", then the man must be really stupid or, as has been alleged (and I never believed the allegation) he must be a paid propogandist for the dam.

It happens that I personally heard him say in August 1963 that a dam in the Delaware would not stop flooding; it could be done only by damming the tributaries.

As for hurting the economy without it, try getting on the golf course at Mountain Manor during the rush hours. Go into Wyckoffs on any business day and see the crowds of people there.

Nixon's truce hopes

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — President Nixon is optimistic that a stand-still cease-fire in Vietnam will come out of the Paris truce talks.

Both Moscow and Peking are now bringing quiet diplomatic pressure upon Hanoi to stop the fighting. The Chinese have cited the Korean truce 20 years ago as a satisfactory solution.

In Korea, a stand-still truce was signed, but the final peace was left to be negotiated. Nixon believes the same solution is possible in Vietnam now that the Chinese are urging peace instead of goading Hanoi into fighting on.

Wallace's intentions

George Wallace has not only assured friends that he will stay in the Democratic party, but he has given them the impression that he intends to run for president again in 1976 as a Democrat.

The Alabama governor, cut down to a wheelchair by an intended assassin's bullet, is not unaware that Franklin D. Roosevelt pushed himself to the top in a wheelchair. Those who have talked to Wallace believe he already sees himself as a country-boy Roosevelt who will make a populist campaign in his wheelchair.

He fully recognizes that he can't win the presidency as an independent. He has indicated, therefore, that he will adopt the Democratic party. In private talks with both Hubert Humphrey and Henry Jackson, Wallace not only assured them that he would remain a Democrat, but that he wanted to help defeat President Nixon.

Meany balks

A disgruntled, cigar-snorting George Meany, having failed to stop George McGovern in Miami Beach, has sworn to withhold the AFL-CIO endorsement from McGovern.

Meany has passed the word to his labor lieutenants to put all the AFL-CIO's men and money behind the Democratic candidates for the Senate and House. It will be the first time since Franklin D. Roosevelt championed the working man that the labor confederation hasn't endorsed the Democratic presidential nominee.

When the McGovern bandwagon rolled over the labor opposition at Miami Beach, Meany went off to play golf. He has made it clear that's where he'll be when McGovern seeks his support for the November election.

Martha Mitchell is still calling reporters even though her telephone antics cost her husband John his job as President Nixon's campaign manager. Martha recently phoned TV reporter Nancy Dickerson and complained about press reports that she might be mentally sick. Martha said she was just fine.

One moment, she belabored the press for its shortcomings. But the next, she said she loved the press and would like to be a reporter. Then she added, significantly, that she had a long story to tell — someday.

Chaffee's bills

President Nixon's former Navy secretary, John Chaffee, is running hard for the Senate in Rhode Island this year as "the man you can trust." But the slogan may be misapplied.

As chairman of the Republican Governors Association in 1968, he dipped freely into the till to pay his personal and political expenses.

James Galbraith, the association's executive director, explained the policy on expenses this way: "The governors are responsible for picking up their own tabs."

But Chaffee spent $533.40 of the organization's funds for the round trip fare for himself and his bodyguard to attend a conference in Palm Springs, Cal. He also charged their $119.45 hotel bill to the association.

We have found more than $80 in personal phone calls, too, that Chaffee billed to the governors' association. He even had a personal photograph made by the Bachrach studios at the association's expense. The bill: $32.79.

Finally, Chaffee imported the association's secretary, James Marshall, to Rhode Island to help with his 1968 re-election campaign. Not only did Marshall remain on the payroll of the governors' association, but his air travel on at least three trips to Rhode Island totaling $182.70 was paid by the association.

Footnote: We tried repeatedly to reach Chaffee for comment, but his staff insisted he couldn't be reached. It was explained that he was on a "whirlwind" tour of Rhode Island.

Use control, not censorship

Tunkhannock Township's supervisors, by drafting an ordinance giving them virtual censorship powers over all outdoor amusements in the township, are indulging themselves in a fit of legislative overkill.

The supervisors have reason to be angered by the fiasco that grew out of the Concert 10 rock festival held at Pocono International Raceway July 8. And they are right to seek power to regulate such affairs in the future.

But that power needn't be as wide as the ordinance under discussion would provide. In fact, we seriously doubt an ordinance of that sort would stand the test of a court appeal, which is almost sure to result when the ordinance is put into final form and approved.

Creates judges

The problem with the ordinance as drafted is that it would invest in the board of supervisors the power to judge whether or not a planned entertainment is "good" for the area.

We presume that, given a healthy dose of hindsight, an application for another rock concert next year would be refused instantly. And yet, an injunction township solicitor Lester Brown suggested against a planned country and western concert starring singer Johnny Cash was opposed vociferously by some 30 residents, who insisted the expected 20,000 attendees would be more mature than those who attended Concert 10.

Mrs. Helen Witt put the matter succinctly: "Everybody's up in the air about rock festivals. Other shows are decent shows," she said..

Nowhere, in the complaints we received about the fallout from Concert 10, did we hear any that said the rock performers put on an immoral show. In fact, virtually every one of the local residents our reporters spoke to about that abominable weekend made a point of praising the youngsters who attended the concert for their politeness.

Of the many instances of littering and petty vandalism — excepting two instances when public buildings were entered — virtually everyone instead blamed the raceway for providing inadequate parking, security, toilet and waste disposal facilities.

Discriminatory

Now, it seems, entertainments are going to be judged on whether they are good or bad, depending on how young or old the crowd to be attracted is. That seems not only unfair but discriminatory.

Yes, the supervisors should exercise control over amusements offered in the area. But that control should be restricted to being assured that adequate measures are made to handle expected crowds and insure the safety of the crowds and local residents.

One of our strongest criticisms of Concert 10 was the free and open peddling of drugs. Certainly, the youngsters who brought and indulged in drugs are to blame, but so were the officials who made inadequate provision for combating that problem.

That's where control should lie — over the officials planning a given event, not over one small group's opinion of the desirability of the event. That is censorship, and we don't like it. Not here in America.

Coin corner

By ROBERT SVENSSON

Yet, from his reaction following a recent coin auction in New York City at which he officiated, one would be led to believe that $43,500 is just so much chopped liver.

That was the top bid received for a unique St. Gaudens 1907 Double Eagle ($20 gold). Schulman, expressing disappointment, passed ownership of the rare coin to an unnamed West Coast coin collector.

To be sure, this coin was not ordinary. It is one of a kind. Although the St. Gaudens Double Eagle is available in several varieties all bearing a 1907 date, this one was unique.

The pre-auction catalog listed the coin's value between 75 and 100 thousand dollars. This, admittedly, is considerably in excess of the realized price.

It is in the nature of coin cataloguers to set prices a bit high.

This serves two purposes. It has a tendency to precondition prospective bidders. When the coin is sold at much less than the suggested price, it makes the successful bidder feel he has a great buy and is a very astute fellow.

Coin price guides notwithstanding, the last word in coin pricing is the final bid received by the auctioneer.

Chances are Schulman doesn't feel too bad about getting $43,500 for a $20 gold piece. After all, only two other U. S. coins have ever brought more at auction.

The Mickley 1804 Dollar brought $77,500 in 1970. A 1913 Liberty Head Nickel sold for $46,000 in 1967.

Campaign vital

Regardless of whether his election would be desirable or undesirable, his nomination seems to me a good thing for very special reasons.

The nation needs to have a clear opportunity to affirm or change basic directions in both domestic and foreign policy. We can do so this fall.

Sen. McGovern offers the kind of sweeping alternative in purpose, policy and priorities which will make a meaningful presidential decision possible this November. That's what we need.

His nomination reflects much of the temper of the times. It is a response to a considerable voter demand for fundamental change, to a considerable voter protest against things as they are.

I am not advocating McGovern's election. Let's hear out the campaign. I am simply saying that his nomination by the Democratic Party gives an urgently needed, well-timed choice of national policies. Let the voters decide.

Demand for change

The support which both Sen. McGovern and Gov. Wallace generated reveals that there is a mounting demand for change. Many voters are disillusioned, alienated and distrustful of all government. This distrust has been growing. It rests in large part on the feeling that no matter who is elected, few things change at all. The differences between many presidential candidates seem slim.

The differences between President Nixon and Sen. McGovern are not slim. They are many and deep.

McGovern would radically cut defense spending, would radically reduce U. S. forces nearly everywhere in the world, including Western Europe, would increase taxes on middle-class incomes and up, would seek a substantial redistribution of income through tax changes. These proposals made even such liberal Democrats as Sens. Humphrey and Muskie shudder.

But many voters do not shudder at all over these McGovern promises. They were sufficiently determined and numerous to bring about the McGovern nomination. This is good because it is going to give the whole nation the opportunity to vote these views up or down.

Two matters

In this campaign two crucial matters are at stake. One is who is to be President. The other is what policies, purposes and priorities are to govern government.

This is why a McGovern-Nixon confrontation is the right kind of choice to have to make. It will put great decision making in the hands of the voters.

This will make for the best possible kind of presidential election.

It will provide the kind of choice voters should be allowed to make.

It will help greatly to bring alienated citizens back into the political process. They shared in nominating; they shared in drafting the platform. They can now share in the November verdict.

These are the reasons I think the McGovern-Nixon contest will be a healthy, enlightening, enlivening political event.

It will clear up a lot of things. It will make this presidential election excitingly vital.

Watch that sunburn!

What is your feeling about exposure to the sun? I love the healthy glow it gives me, but I understand that some dangers can be attached to it.

Miss F.R., S.C.

Dear Miss R.:

Ultraviolet light is responsible for the tanning known as "sunburn". When the skin is exposed to the rays of this ultraviolet light, a skin pigment, melanin, is activated. Actually, this melanin then itself becomes a protection against overexposure.

Dermatologists, or skin specialists, warn that some degenerative changes and aging processes can occur after repeated exposure to the sun. This takes place particularly in people with a tendency to burn easily.

It is often forgotten that some drugs may make the skin more sensitive to sun, and may be responsible for unusual sunburns. For example, people who are taking sulfa drugs, some antibiotics, and some anti-fungus drugs, may be "photosensitive." They, particularly, should seek their doctors' advice about the safety in tanning while taking these drugs.

The increased possibility of developing malignant changes of the skin is considered especially important in people who sunburn easily. They, and others with unusual skin sensitivity, must avoid exposure, or use some of the sun-screening chemicals that now are available and can be used with safety.

It is a misconception to believe that all of the tanning agents that are sold offer complete protection against harmful rays of the sun. Some sun-screen lotions contain a chemical, para-amino-benzoic acid (PABA). These are considered to be protective of the sun's rays, but it must be remembered that PABA may in itself cause allergic sensitivity of the skin.

The greatest safety of sun-tanning lies in slow, gradual adaptation to the sun's rays. There is a great sense of well-being in the "healthy glow" of a suntan. I feel, however, that every person past 35 deserves an inspection of the skin by a doctor, and a discussion with him about the safety of prolonged exposure.

I have been told that I should see either an osteopath or a chiropractor for a back condition.

What is the difference between the two?

Mr. S.P., Wyo.

Dear Mr. P.:

An osteopath is a graduate of a school of medicine that differs from the medical schools that confer an M.D.

One of the basic concepts of osteopathy is that body disease depends on structural changes that can be relieved by manipulation.

Many osteopaths are exceedingly well trained and qualified in all fields of medicine and surgery.

Chiropractors use bone manipulation. Unfortunately, their training is not considered exact enough to be accepted without question. Yet they, too, can be effective and safe if they work within the limits of their training, and under medical or osteopathic supervision.

Mr. G.K., Maine

Dear Mr. K.:

Yes, it is possible. Some non-cancerous tumors may arise in a part of the brain that is referred to as "silent areas."

When there is no pressure on the areas of the brain responsible for memory, speech, sight, hearing or other vital fuctions, recovery can be complete and permanent.

Letters TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Record:

I would like to concur with the observation made by a "concerned citizen" on your editorial page on Monday, July 17. The individual who wrote that letter stated that it should not be the taxpayers responsibility to foot the bill for clean-up operations that are necessitated by profit-making enterprises at the Pocono International Raceway.

What I should like to take issue with, however, is the terminology used in "concerned citizen's" letter. He stated, "Many are the times I have opened your paper to find a photo of a junkyard or trailer court with a letter from some tourist complaining how they were marring the beauty of the Poconos."

As a mobile home resident, I resent having mobile home courts classified in the same category as a junkyard. Granted there are a few in this area that need improvement badly. Most, however, are well organized, neat and well kept.

In case "concerned citizen" hasn't noticed, mobile home living is now far removed from the stereotyped concept of a gypsy carnival-operator who lived out of a trunk, that existed a few decades ago. Unlike many other states, particularly Florida and California where mobile home living has been accepted, this stigma still evidently exists in Pennsylvania.

Discrimination against mobile home owners in Monroe County is appalling. I've seen mobile homes referred to as "rusting boxes" that dot the landscape and depreciate the tax value, in your newspaper. Zoning restrictions are constantly being placed on mobile home owners. Actually, mobile homes may not possess the aesthetic exterior possible with a custom built home. On the other hand, they do offer convenience with a fair degree of amenities built in.

Mobile home courts have actually increased the tax base in Monroe County. Land that had the lowest tax rate classified as "undeveloped" has increased in value geometrically as the result of establishing a mobile home court on it. This may come as a shock to many of your readers, but mobile home owners do pay real estate taxes on their dwellings.

Yes, mobile home courts tax municiple services by increasing demand for water, sewer, police protection and schooling for their children. But these services are not provided free to mobile home dwellers anymore than they are to anyone else. Education bill promises more money, controversy

DOW JONES-OTTAWAY NEWS

WASHINGTON — Despite the promise of more money, the education bill recently signed by President Nixon is sue to spur new strains between the federal government and the nation's colleges and universities.

Most of the attention was focused on its provision calling for delays in court-ordered busing, but the measure has other seeds of controversy. Overshadowed by the busines fuss, for example, is a strict ban against sex discrimination that could be a major souce of contention in the future. For the first time it enables the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to regulate the admissions, student-assignment and faculty-employment practices of most institutions of higher education, on penalty of a cutoff of federal funds.

While it won't force private colleges to go coed, the law will have a significant impact on many public undergraduate schools and on public and private graduate institutions. Many experts think that its greatest effect will be on professional schools, such as medical, nursing and law. And besides bias in admissions, the measure will also ban other kinds of sex discrimination at all levels of education, from preschool on.

Thus, discrimination in hiring and promoting of faculty and in treatment of students after admission to schools is prohibited. Public schools, for example, could be forced to open up to females traditionally male vocational courses, such as auto mechanics.

Under earlier authority, limited to federal contracts, HEW restrictions against sex discrimination in the hiring and promotion of university teachers have already produced bitter set-tos. University leaders have charged the government with invading their academic freedom, and disputes under the new Higher Education Act are sure to be even fiercer.

The stakes are high: At least $3.9 billion a year furnished the colleges and universities by 19 federal agencies. The bulk of the money comes from HEW.

There are other elements of controversy: The Nixon Administration is likely to ask for far less money under the new meausre than university — and HEW — officials want. Only a small supplement is expected to HEW's $2.6 billion budget for colleges and universities for the fiscal year that began July 1. While the decisions aren't final, the Administration may ask for appropriations of as Little as $100 million of the $1 billion in additional general aid that Congress has authorized in the new education bill. And the Administration may seek only $300 million to $600 million of the $1.4 billion in new student aid authorized by the bill.

If so, one university association official warns, "there will be indignation."

Moreover, most universities don't like the measure's formula for allocation general institutional aid, which the bill authorizes for the first time. The schools want general aid because it can be spent for any need, in contrast to previous federal grants that have been limited to specific purposes.

But the amount of general aid, at the Administration's urging, it tied to the number of a school's low-income students, which the schools dislike. Instititions of higher education will push Congress for a change in the formula.

The new measure also tightens HEW control over student aid which traditionally has been administered by the colleges and universityies. A big new federal scholarship program, the "basic opportunity grant, "which gives needy student up to $1,400 a year, will be run by HEW's office of Education, not by the schools.

For the record, universities are praising the new measure as a major step fo4rward. "What we hope to do is get enough money to install the new programs and give them the greates chance to succeed, "says Ralph Huitt, executive director of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

But conflicts surely lie ahead, and the sex-discrimination provision could have the broadest effects. It will have a "very, very considerable inpact on higher education," says Theordore A. Miles, HEW Assistant General Counsel for Civil Rights.

To try to head off some political controversy, Congress specifically exempted a lengthy list of institutions from the measure's admissions restrictions. These include some religious schools, military and merchant-marine training schools, elementary and secondary schools, private undergraduate colleges and a handful of All-female public colleges. But all educational institutions, including those that escape the admission requiremtnts, are subject to other restrictions against sex discrimination. Allocation of scholarship funds, provision of housing, course assignments and student activities will be involved.

But the greatest impact, HEW experts predict, will be in admissions to graduate professional schools. Not only are fewer women attending graduate schools than men, but proportionally fewer women applicants are accepted, statistics show. "One of the underlying thrusts of the legislation is in terms of providing women increased access to the job market and enabling them to compete on an equal basis with men," one HEW official says.

State files pollution actions

HARRISBURG — The Governor's Strike Force has filed for a summary hearing against Anthony Dally and Sons, Inc., Pen Argyl, for alleged pollution of Waltz Creek.

Action has been started against Blue Ridge-Winkler Textiles, Bangor, for allegedly polluting Martins Creek.

The Governor's Strike Force is also preparing information on alleged pollution of "at least four more" area streams.

Named for possible action by Mrs. Martha Traylor, the strike force's assistant attorney general, were Collins and Aikman Corp., Bangor, and the Pen Argyl and Bangor sewage treatment plants.

The case against Blue Ridge-Winkler has been given a top priority rating by the force, she said.

She added the major goal of the suits is to quell pollution problems, noting negotiated settlements out of court are possible.

Men allies or foes of women?

NEW YORK (UPI)—A major split in the feminist movement seems to be developing and the question of whether men are enemies or allies is at the center of it.

Betty Friedan, 51, who helped launch women's lib nearly a decade ago with her book "The Feminine Mystique," has announced "female chauvinists," led by Gloria Steinem and Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., threaten to destroy the new feminism by creating a superwoman ideology.

Steinem and Abzug, Ms. Friedan says, believe "man is the enemy" and in so doing are trying to create a war between the sexes.

Ms. Steinem, an attractive blonde, is a founder of Ms. magazine and has become the most recognized advocate of women's lib in the country. Rep. Abzug became well known for her shoot-from-the hip confrontations with the press and fellow legislators. Both women rejected Ms. Friedan's claims they are female chauvinists.

"The assumption that women have any moral or spiritual superiority as a class or that men share some brute insensitivity as a class—this is male chauvinism in reverse; it is female sexism," Ms. Friedan claimed.

"It is in fact female chauvinism, and those who preach or practice it seem to me to be corrupting our movement for equality and inviting a backlash that endangers the very real gains we have won these past few years," she wrote.

Ms. Friedan, interviewed in the Victorian drawing room of her duplex Manhattan apartment, said "Gloria preaches this ideology but Bella practices it."

Ms. Friedan attacked Ms. Steinem for her recent comments dismissing marriage as "prostitution" and was highly critical of Rep. Abzug's recent unsuccessful primary race against Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y.

"Only a female chauvinist would say that no matter how good a man's record—on peace, on women—women must support a female opponent just because she is a woman," Ms. Friedan said.

Ms. Friedan, a former president of the National Organization of Women (NOW) said the superwoman ideology "could be the downfall of the women's movement. It could aliente many women who now identify with the movement and many men who are joining."

Ms. Steinem, in a telephone interview, denied there was any division in the movement and suggested that Ms. Friedan is at a "personal crossrond."

Her prize — peanuts!

It may be just peanuts, but Cathy Landis, 5, of Perkasie, Pa., is pretty proud of them anyway. Seems she won them in a peanut scramble at elementary school carnival, part of the town's summer recreation program.

Enlistment option set

STROUDSBURG — A new enlistment option is now available to men enlisting in the Army, according to SFC William E. Purcell, the local Army recruiter.

The new option enables a man to choose to serve in Europe or Korea and to select his job from one of the courses available at the time of his enlistment. These fields at present include automotive maintenance, Military Police, food service, administration and radio mechanics.

Interested men can obtain further information on the training available and the prerequisites for entering the Army by calling 421-4911 or visiting SFC Purcell in the Stroudsburg Post Office Building on Tuesdays or Thursdays.

Emergency service

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — The Michigan State Police Department has set up a system through which emergency messages for travelers or persons vacationing in wilderness areas can be broadcast.

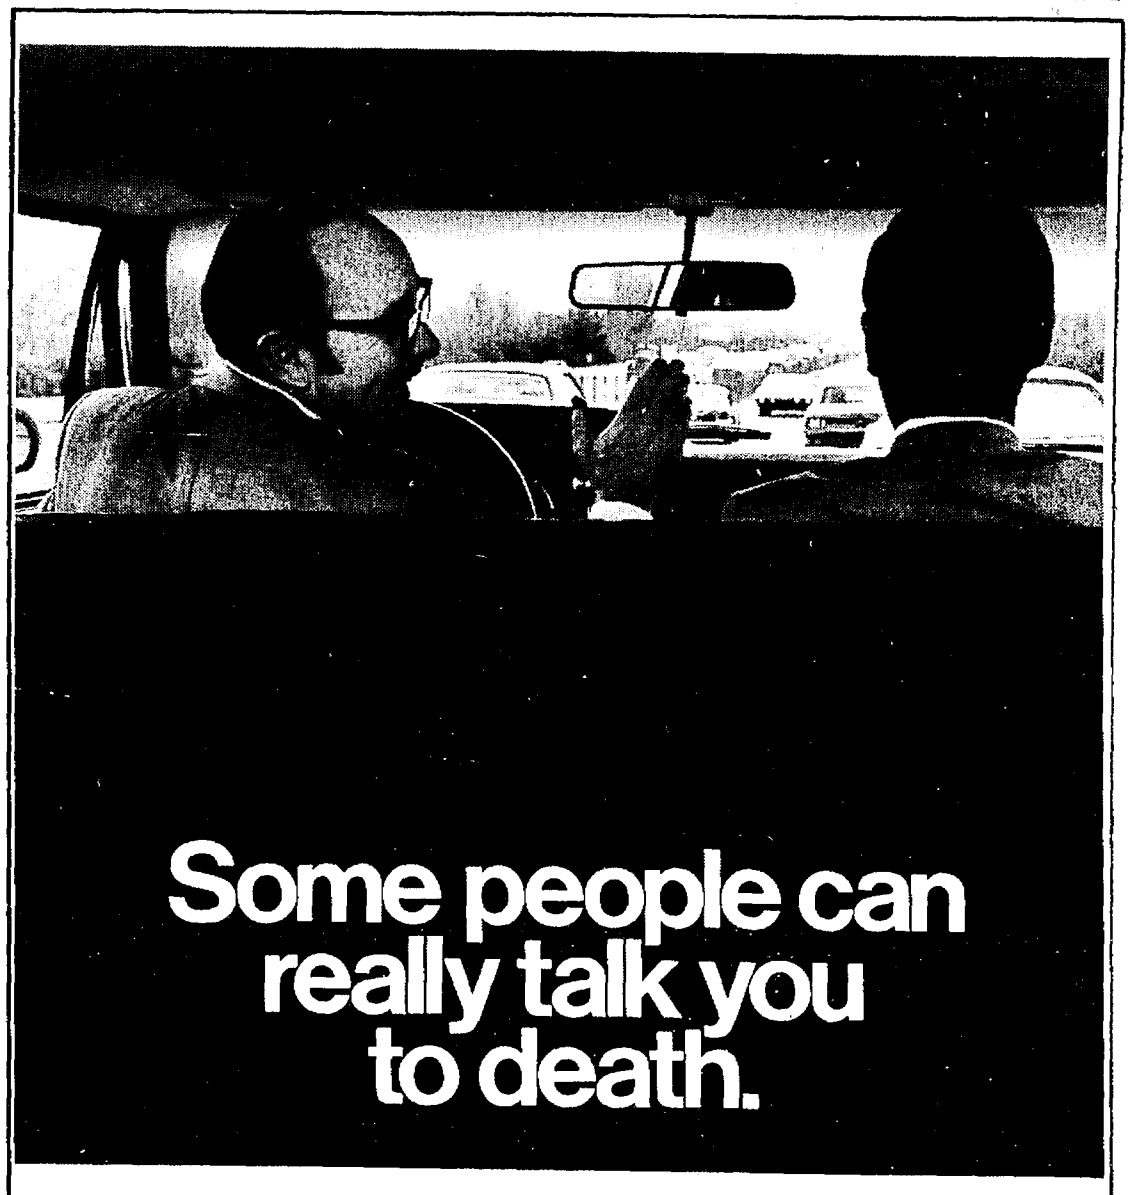

State Police officers will screen messages to ensure they are in the emergency category. The emergency messages will be broadcast between noon and 1 p.m. and persons to whom they are addressed will be asked to call the nearest State Police post.

Some people can really talk you to death.

Drivers who insist on facing their audience while they talk—instead of the road ahead—can be deadly bores. Even their funny stories can turn tragic in a hurry. A punch line can be killed instantly by a car that stops suddenly, an intersection, a curve in the road. By anything that gets in the way.

No one is safe with drivers like this. Neither passengers or people in other cars...nor pedestrians. If you know someone who has this deadly habit, think about the consequences.

Straighten him out or refuse to ride with him.

Your new car dealer wants to see our highways safe. And more important, he wants to see you safe, whether you're behind the wheel or just a passenger.

So join the battle against careless talkers. Help them face their tremendous responsibilities—and the road ahead—and all their stories will wind up with a happy ending.

Education bill promises more money, controversy

DOW JONES-OTTAWAY NEWS

WASHINGTON — Despite the promise of more money, the education bill recently signed by President Nixon is sue to spur new strains between the federal government and the nation's colleges and universities.

Most of the attention was focused on its provision calling for delays in court-ordered busing, but the measure has other seeds of controversy. Overshadowed by the busines fuss, for example, is a strict ban against sex discrimination that could be a major souce of contention in the future. For the first time it enables the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to regulate the admissions, student-assignment and faculty-employment practices of most institutions of higher education, on penalty of a cutoff of federal funds.

While it won't force private colleges to go coed, the law will have a significant impact on many public undergraduate schools and on public and private graduate institutions. Many experts think that its greatest effect will be on professional schools, such as medical, nursing and law. And besides bias in admissions, the measure will also ban other kinds of sex discrimination at all levels of education, from preschool on.

Thus, discrimination in hiring and promoting of faculty and in treatment of students after admission to schools is prohibited. Public schools, for example, could be forced to open up to females traditionally male vocational courses, such as auto mechanics.

Under earlier authority, limited to federal contracts, HEW restrictions against sex discrimination in the hiring and promotion of university teachers have already produced bitter set-tos. University leaders have charged the government with invading their academic freedom, and disputes under the new Higher Education Act are sure to be even fiercer.

The stakes are high: At least $3.9 billion a year furnished the colleges and universities by 19 federal agencies. The bulk of the money comes from HEW.

There are other elements of controversy: The Nixon Administration is likely to ask for far less money under the new meausre than university — and HEW — officials want. Only a small supplement is expected to HEW's $2.6 billion budget for colleges and universities for the fiscal year that began July 1. While the decisions aren't final, the Administration may ask for appropriations of as Little as $100 million of the $1 billion in additional general aid that Congress has authorized in the new education bill. And the Administration may seek only $300 million to $600 million of the $1.4 billion in new student aid authorized by the bill.

If so, one university association official warns, "there will be indignation."

Moreover, most universities don't like the measure's formula for allocation general institutional aid, which the bill authorizes for the first time. The schools want general aid because it can be spent for any need, in contrast to previous federal grants that have been limited to specific purposes.

But the amount of general aid, at the Administration's urging, it tied to the number of a school's low-income students, which the schools dislike. Instituiions of higher education will push Congress for a change in the formula.

The new measure also tightens HEW control over student aid which traditionally has been administered by the colleges and universityies. A big new federal scholarship program, the "basic opportunity grant, "which gives needy student up to $1,400 a year, will be run by HEW's office of Education, not by the schools.

For the record, universities are praising the new measure as a major step fo4rward. "What we hope to do is get enough money to install the new programs and give them the greates chance to succeed, "says Ralph Huitt, executive director of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

But conflicts surely lie ahead, and the sex-discrimination provision could have the broadest effects. It will have a "very, very considerable inpact on higher education," says Theordore A. Miles, HEW Assistant General Counsel for Civil Rights.

To try to head off some political controversy, Congress specifically exempted a lengthy list of institutions from the measure's admissions restrictions. These include some religious schools, military and merchant-marine training schools, elementary and secondary schools, private undergraduate colleges and a handful of All-female public colleges. But all educational institutions, including those that escape the admission requiremtnts, are subject to other restrictions against sex discrimination. Allocation of scholarship funds, provision of housing, course assignments and student activities will be involved.

But the greatest impact, HEW experts predict, will be in admissions to graduate professional schools. Not only are fewer women attending graduate schools than men, but proportionally fewer women applicants are accepted, statistics show. "One of the underlying thrusts of the legislation is in terms of providing women increased access to the job market and enabling them to compete on an equal basis with men," one HEW official says.

Fancier pigeons

Endangered species in New York City isn't the pigeon, but those people young and old who raise and train them atop Manhattan's rooftops. The day of the coops is past, though, and a bare hundred or so people are the only ones left to pursue that pasttime immortalized by Marlon Brando in 'On the Waterfront.'

Two successful women have own equal rights views

By CHERYL SHAW
and
TIM METZ
Ottaway News Service

NEW YORK — Millions of Americans these days find the still-building public debate over sexual equality about as difficult to follow as a tennis ball at Wimbleton.

To pull back from the center of the debate — and seek a clearer perspective of it — an Ottaway News Service reporting team sought out two mature career women and asked them for their thoughts on women's equality and ways of achieving it.

Their answers may or may not represent the views of most American women. But they do appear to lie somewhere between the views of militant feminists like Rep. Bella Abzug and those of the many traditionally-oriented women characterized by TV's Edith Bunker.

Both women acknowledge existence of substantial sex discrimination problems in their fields, and although they differ on how best to overcome it, they both eschew some of the more extreme approaches being pursued by some militant feminist groups.

Our subjects: Mrs. Florence Lucas Edwards, New York State's Deputy Commissioner of Human Rights, and Dr. Celia N. Ores, Associate in Pediatrics on the faculty at the Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons and an assistant attending pediatrician at Babies Hospital in the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center.

Both have felt — and ultimately overcome — the effects of sexual, and racial discrimination.

Male-dominated professions

Mrs. Edwards — still known to most of her associates by her maiden name of Lucas—is a 55-year-old black native of New York City. Her long career in public service includes years of fighting discrimination as president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, more years of successful private practice in the male-dominated legal profession, and the past six years fighting both racial and sexual discrimination in her Human Rights Commission post.

The daughter of a Jewish tailor in the small central Polish town of Dubienka, Celia Ores, now 44, is near the top of her profession. Her route there has not been an easy one. In fact, she has suffered to a degree most people only read about. From 1939 to 1944, she lived through the terror of more than a year of Nazi occupation in her hometown of Dubienka and more than three years in Russian concentration camps in Siberia and other parts of Asian Russia.

Her first medical experience was attending to horribly maimed Polish soldiers during the Nazi Blitzkrieg there in 1939. After the war, she and her parents, (all the rest of her relatives had met death in the war), languished in a Frankfurt displaced persons camp for some four years before being granted immigration to the U.S.

For the next six years, Dr. Ores shuttled back and forth between medical school at Bern, Switzerland, and the U.S. (in order to meet U.S. residency requirements).

She was married to a fellow-medical student in Bern, bore two sons and two daughters, of which three survive. (A son born in 1965 died in infancy). Under strains aggravated by her rise to a higher niche in the medical profession than that reached by her husband, her marriage shattered in 1969, leaving her with her career and three children to raise.

In both worlds

Neither Florence Lucas Edwards nor Celia Ores fit the stereotype of the housebound woman. And neither is an active feminist. Thus, their agreement that substantial discrimination does indeed afflict American women has an objective ring.

Dr. Ores, for example, might well be a full professor at the Columbia med-school instead of an associate, were she a man.

"But I am a woman, and I choose to live my life as a woman," she says, "so my not being a full professor is substantially the result of my own decision."

She continues: "If the demands of a full professorship — the long hours of extra work and the almost total dedication of one's personal life to medicine — were different, then I might actively seek one. But both my roles — doctor and mother — are very important to me as a woman, and I won't reject either one for the other.

"Yet, on the other hand, I can hardly argue that professors of medicine ought to be less dedicated to medicine. That's absurd."

To meet the often divergent requirements of her medical career and her motherhood, Dr. Ores holds herself to an exacting schedule. She leaves the hospital each day at 5 p.m. (barring emergencies), so that she can share dinner and the evening hours with her children: Pauline, 17; David 14; and Michelle, 10.

"I have great emotional need to be with my children and be a real mother to them," she explains. Dr. Ores restricts her personal social life to one evening a week.

Like Dr. Ores, Mrs. Edwards refuses to abandon her womanhood to a professional career. Only recently married to former Detroit Deputy Sheriff David R. Edwards, she had previously taken into her home and raised two unrelated children. And, these days, she arranges her schedule to give her a maximum amount of time with her husband.

On the job at the Human Rights Commission, surrounded by male colleagues as she has been throughout her career, Mrs. Edwards' approach to her work is persistently feminine.

Appropriately, when she was named Deputy Commissioner, nine male associates in the legal profession responded with the classic feminine accolade: two dozen roses.

While both women report productive and satisfying job relationships with male colleagues, at least for Dr. Ores there are some awkward moments.

As parents of one of Dr. Ores' patients at Babies' Hospital earlier this year, reporter Metz and his wife Mary Virginia watched with frustration as some of her male colleagues quietly questioned the test procedures she recommended. In two of three such suggestions, subsequent testing verified Dr. Ores' suspicions.

Confronted with questions about what seemed a condescending attitude from some male physicians with considerably less medical experience, she confieds: "I tend to become personally involved with my little patients — it's part of what I think is a proper feminine approach to pediatrics. But sometimes I wonder whether some of my male colleagues agree. I wonder if they may sometimes mistake my professional concern for personal concern."

Legal or personal solutions

Mrs. Edwards and Dr. Ores take slightly diverse views on how sex discrimination should be remedied.

"The primary method (to eliminate sex discrimination) is to get the laws on the books and get courts to follow them," she says.

In addition, however, she believes in using selection processes in hiring, aimed at minimizing job discrimination. Here's how one such process — the one used by the Human Rights Commission — might work in the example of hiring a new lawyer for Mrs. Edwards' division:

"As head of personnel I would have to ask not just how many women and men, but how many blacks, whites, Puerto Ricans, Indians, etc., are involved. We would first have to get a balanced group of interested people, then select from them on individual merit," she explains.

However, except in the area of equal pay for equal work, Dr. Ores rejects legal or other coercive methods of achieving equality for women. "I think legal and similar approaches would exact a greater cost than I'm willing to pay," she says. "The implication is a kind of great leveling that would treat men and women as if they were the same. I think this denies an inescapable reality — the very important differences between men and women."

Male condescension and other patronizing practices which rile many women's libbers only make Dr. Ores chuckle. "I'm not going to give them the satisfaction of pounding my fist on the table and shouting demands. I have my ways of getting what I want — a woman's ways. And they work very nicely, thank you," she says.

The myriad small social amenities traditionally granted women — and now under heavy fire from militant feminists — don't disturb Mrs. Edwards at all. "Men hold doors for other men as well as for women. It's a matter of courtesy. We make too much of these things," she says.

Mrs. Edwards also believes militant women's libbers "carry things too far" when they object to being called "girls" or "ladies". The recently-hatched "Ms." title for women simply puzzles Mrs. Edwards. "How do you pronounce it?" she asks a reporter, and to the answer wryly replies: "Mzzz. . . sounds like a deep South Mrs."

Dr. Celia Ores must balance demands of pediatrics with need for time with her own children.

Reindeer install

STROUDSBURG — Installation of officers of the Stroudsburg Independent Order of Reindeer, Herd No. 12, will be conducted by officers of the Middletown, N.Y., Herd No. 25 on Monday, July 24 at 8 p.m. at the Odd Fellows Hall. Officers will wear white and everyone will bring a covered dish for the supper to follow the installation.

Installation

STROUDSBURG — Because of the small attendance at the meeting of the Women of the Moose lodge because of illness and the heat, the installation of officers will be held on Wednesday, Aug. 2 at 8 p.m.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

An idea for an interesting fashion feature might develop if we took a camera and went calling at random to see what at-home fashions are really being worn this muggy weekend in contrast to those elaborate confections shown in the fashion magazines — the ones with long flowing skirts.

Although I doubt if we'd get beyond the discreetly drawn blinds of those who believe in trying to keep the hot air out or the batteries of whirling fans of those who hold to the circulation of air theory of keeping cool.

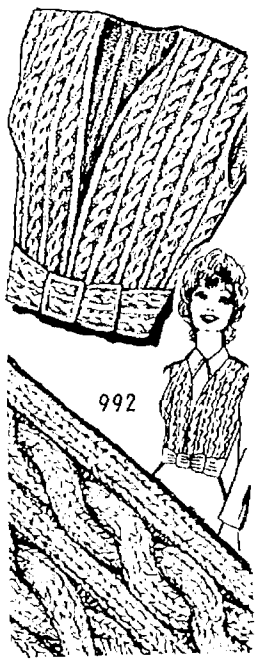

Not that too many people take the nudist position that no clothes at all are best — not only because of inhibitions but because furniture is not designed for nudists, being either scratchy, patterned or inclined to stick fast.

Bathing suits aren't really comfortable, either, being designed to uplift, support or confine the natural figure. Unless they are wet, which for obvious reasons is not practical when sitting around on the furniture.

The way I picture most of you in the privacy of your own home when you're pretty sure nobody is going to drop in is sitting around in your slips and not much else. Which may explain why it takes so long for everybody to answer the doorbell these sweltering afternoons.

Lutherans alter marriage rite

NEW YORK (UPI) — Marrying couples may write their own wedding vows under the new marriage service developed by the Inter-Lutheran Commission on Worship. Otherwise, they may use a promise which pledges them to "Share all that is to come, to give and to receive, to speak and to listen, to inspire and to respond, and in all circumstances of our life together to be loyal with my whole life and with all my being."

Widely read

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Bible Society says at least one book of the Bible has been translated into 1,431 languages and the entire Bible into 249. The New Testament has been translated into 329 languages.

Two successful women have own equal rights views

By CHERYL SHAW
and
TIM METZ
Ottaway News Service

NEW YORK — Millions of Americans these days find the still-building public debate over sexual equailty about as difficult to follow as a tennis ball at Wimbleton.

To pull back from the center of the debate — and seek a clearer perspective of it — an Ottaway News Service reporting team sought out two mature career women and asked them for their thoughts on women's equality and ways of achieving it.

Their answers may or may not represent the views of most American women. But they do appear to lie somewhere between the views of militant feminists like Rep. Bella Abzug and those of the many traditionally-oriented women characterized by TV's Edith Bunker.

Both women acknowledge existence of substantial sex discrimination problems in their fields, and although they differ on how best to overcome it, they both eschew some of the more extreme approaches being pursued by some militant feminist groups.

Our subjects: Mrs. Florence Lucas Edwards, New York State's Deputy Commissioner of Human Rights, and Dr. Celia N. Ores, Associate in Pediatrics on the faculty at the Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons and an assistant attending pediatrician at Babies Hospital in the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center.

Both have felt — and ultimately overcome — the effects of sexual, and racial discrimination.

Male-dominated professions

Mrs. Edwards — still known to most of her associates by her maiden name of Lucas—is a 55-year-old black native of New York City. Her long career in public service includes years of fighting discrimination as president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, more years of successful private practice in the male-dominated legal profession, and the past six years fighting both racial and sexual discrimination in her Human Rights Commission post.

The daughter of a Jewish tailor in the small central Polish town of Dubienka, Celia Ores, now 44, is near the top of her profession. Her route there has not been an easy one. In fact, she has suffered to a degree most people only read about. From 1939 to 1944, she lived through the terror of more than a year of Nazi occupation in her hometown of Dubienka and more than three years in Russian concentration camps in Siberia and other parts of Asian Russia.

Her first medical experience was attending to horribly maimed Polish soldiers during the Nazi Blitzkrieg there in 1939. After the war, she and her parents, (all the rest of her relatives had met death in the war), languished in a Frankfurt displaced persons camp for some four years before being granted immigration to the U.S.

For the next six years, Dr. Ores shuttled back and forth between medical school at Bern, Switzerland, and the U.S. (in order to meet U.S. residency requirements).

She was married to a fellow-medical student in Bern, bore two sons and two daughters, of which three survive. (A son born in 1965 died in infancy). Under strains aggravated by her rise to a higher niche in the medical profession than that reached by her husband, her marriage shattered in 1969, leaving her with her career and three children to raise.

In both worlds

Neither Florence Lucas Edwards nor Celia Ores fit the stereotype of the house-bound woman. And neither is an active feminist. Thus, their agreement that substantial discriminiation does indeed afflict American women has an objective ring.

Dr. Ores, for example, might well be a full professor at the Columbia med-school instead of an associate, were she a man.

"But I am a woman, and I choose to live my life as a woman," she says, "so my not being a full professor is substantially the result of my own decision."

She continues: "If the demands of a full professorship — the long hours of extra work and the almost total dedication of one's personal life to medicine — were different, then I might actively seek one. But both my roles — doctor and mother — are very important to me as a woman, and I won't reject either one for the other.

"Yet, on the other hand, I can hardly argue that professors of medicine ought to be less dedicated to medicine. That's absurd."

To meet the often divergent requirements of her medical career and her motherhood, Dr. Ores holds herself to an exacting schedule. She leaves the hospital each day at 5 p.m. (barring emergencies), so that she can share dinner and the evening hours with her children: Pauline, 17; David 14; and Michelle, 10.

"I have great emotional need to be with my children and be a real mother to them," she explains. Dr. Ores restricts her personal social life to one evening a week.

Like Dr. Ores, Mrs. Edwards refuses to abandon her womanhood to a professional career. Only recently married to former Detroit Deputy Sheriff David R. Edwards, she had previously taken into her home and raised two unrelated children. And, these days, she arranges her schedule to give her a maximum amount of time with her husband.

On the job at the Human Rights Commission, surrounded by male colleagues as she has been throughout her career, Mrs. Edwards' approach to her work is persistently feminine.

Appropriately, when she was named Deputy Commissioner, nine male associates in the legal profession responded with the classic feminine accolade: two dozen roses.

While both women report productive and satisfying job relationships with male colleagues, at least for Dr. Ores there are some awkward moments.

As parents of one of Dr. Ores' patients at Babies' Hospital earlier this year, reporter Metz and his wife Mary Virginia watched with frustration as some of her male colleagues quietly questioned the test procedures she recommended. In two of three such suggestions, subsequent testing verified Dr. Ores' suspicions.

Confronted with questions about what seemed a condescending attitude from some male physicians with considerably less medical experience, she confieds: "I tend to become personally involved with my little patients — it's part of what I think is a proper feminine approach to pediatrics. But sometimes I wonder whether some of my male colleagues agree. I wonder if they may sometimes mistake my professional concern for personal concern."

Legal or personal solutions

Mrs. Edwards and Dr. Ores take slightly diverse views on how sex discrimination should be remedied.

"The primary method (to eliminate sex discrimination) is to get the laws on the books and get courts to follow them," she says.

In addition, however, she believes in using selection processes in hiring, aimed at minimizing job discrimination. Here's how one such process — the one used by the Human Rights Commission — might work in the example of hiring a new lawyer for Mrs. Edwards' division:

"As head of personnel I would have to ask not just how many women and men, but how many blacks, whites, Puerto Ricans, Indians, etc., are involved. We would first have to get a balanced group of interested people, then select from them on individual merit," she explains.

However, except in the area of equal pay for equal work, Dr. Ores rejects legal or other coercive methods of achieving equality for women. "I think legal and similar approaches would exact a greater cost than I'm willing to pay," she says. "The implication is a kind of great leveling that would treat men and women as if they were the same. I think this denies an inescapable reality — the very important differences between men and women."

Male condescension and other patronizing practices which rile many women's libbers only make Dr. Ores chuckle. "I'm not going to give them the satisfaction of pounding my fist on the table and shouting demands. I have my ways of getting what I want — a woman's ways. And they work very nicely, thank you," she says.

The myriad small social amenities traditionally granted women — and now under heavy fire from militant feminists — don't disturb Mrs. Edwards at all. "Men hold doors for other men as well as for women. It's a matter of courtesy. We make too much of these things," she says.

Mrs. Edwards also believes militant women's libbers "carry things too far" when they object to being called "girls" or "ladies". The recently-hatched "Ms." title for women simply puzzles Mrs. Edwards. "How do you pronounce it?" she asks a reporter, and to the answer wryly replies: "Mzzz. . . sounds like a deep South Mrs."

Dr. Celia Ores must balance demands of pediatrics with need for time with her own children.

Officers will wear white and everyone will bring a covered dish for the supper to follow the installation.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

An idea for an interesting fashion feature might develop if we took a camera and went calling at random to see what at-home fashions are really being worn this muggy weekend in contrast to those elaborate confections shown in the fashion magazines — the ones with long flowing skirts.

Although I doubt if we'd get beyond the discreetly drawn blinds of those who believe in trying to keep the hot air out or the batteries of whirling fans of those who hold to the circulation of air theory of keeping cool.

Not that too many people take the nudist position that no clothes at all are best — not only because of inhibitions but because furniture is not designed for nudists, being either scratchy, patterned or inclined to stick fast.

Bathing suits aren't really comfortable, either, being designed to uplift, support or confine the natural figure. Unless they are wet, which for obvious reasons is not practical when sitting around on the furniture.

The way I picture most of you in the privacy of your own home when you're pretty sure nobody is going to drop in is sitting around in your slips and not much else. Which may explain why it takes so long for everybody to answer the doorbell these sweltering afternoons.

Lutherans alter marriage rite

NEW YORK (UPI) — Marrying couples may write their own wedding vows under the new marriage service developed by the Inter-Lutheran Commission on Worship. Otherwise, they may use a promise which pledges them to "Share all that is to come, to give and to receive, to speak and to listen, to inspire and to respond, and in all circumstances of our life together to be loyal with my whole life and with all my being."

Widely read

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Bible Society says at least one book of the Bible has been translated into 1,431 languages and the entire Bible into 249. The New Testament has been translated into 329 languages.

Women in politics

ABC News correspondent Marlene Sanders, right, and Liz Carpenter, former press secretary to Mrs. Lyndon Johnson and one of the founders of the National Women's Political Caucus, discuss the importance of women to American political life on the ABC News Inquiry Special, 'The Hand That Rocks The Ballot Box,' Wednesday, July 26 (10:30-11 p.m., EDT).

Week's Highlights

TODAY

FLOOD RELIEF SPECIAL — At 7:30 p.m. on channel 28. Bob Hope and the American Red Cross appeal for emergency relief funds to help half a million victims of Hurricane Agnes in 11 states.

SUNDAY

PRADO: DOCUMENTARY — At 3 p.m. on channel 3. Critic Aline Saarinen concentrates on Spanish artists, from surrealist works by El Greco to the probing portraiture of Velazquez.

MONDAY

ROWAN AND MARTIN'S LAUGH-IN — At 8 p.m. on channels 3 and 4. The Laugh-In crew celebrates their 100th show with John Wayne, Arte Johnson, Henry Gibson, Jo Anne Worley, Judy Carne, and Ruth Buzzi.

ABC NEWS INQUIRY: THE AMERICAN INDIAN — At 8 p.m. channels 6 and 7. Scene: A parched, sprawling reservation in northeastern Arizona, where many of 125,000 Navahos — the nation's largest tribe — live on memories of abundant game and "free land to pitch a tent."

DRAMA: GHOST STORY — At 9 p.m. channels 3 and 4. Preview of a fall series with this tale of a home haunted by a hanging victim who vowed she would never be evicted.

SUSPENSE PLAYHOUSE — At 10 p.m. on channels 2 and 3. Dustin Hoffman and Sally Kellerman were relative unknows when they made "Higher and Higher, Attorneys at Law," a light mystery filmed in 1967.

WEDNESDAY

ABC AFTERNOON PLAYBREAK — At 1:30 p.m. on channels 6 and 7. This pilot for a daytime series takes a peak at honeymoon suites through the eyes of a bellboy and a maid. (Henry Gibson and Rose Marie).

Bobby Darin wasted no time on success

NEW YORK — While still in his early 20s, rising singer-Walden Robert Cassotto vowed to become a success in show business.

Today, that promise having been fulfilled, Bobby Darin is starring in his first television series, "Dean Martin Presents the Bobby Darin Amusement Co." (NBC Television Network colorcasts, Thursdays, 10-11 p.m. NYT, starting July 27).

Darin signed his first recording contract with Decca Records at 19. At 20, he made his first major show business appearance as a guest on "The Jackie Gleason Show."

By the time he was 22, Bobby wrote a tune, "Splish, Splash," recorded it and won a Gold Record when sales topped a million.

It was the first of four Gold Records. Others were for "Queen of the Hop" and "Dream Lover," both of which he also wrote, and for "Mack the Knife," a Brecht-Weill composition from "The Three Penny Opera" which has become his theme song.

At 23 he captured top honors from the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences, winning Grammy Awards in the categories, Best New Artist and Best Song (for "Mack the Knife").

Between 1960 and 1964, he made seven films (four in one year) and since has starred in over a dozen features. Among them was "Captain Newman, M.D.," for which he won an Academy Award nomination, a Foreign Press Golden Globe nomination for Best Supporting Actor and the French Film Critics' Award for Best Foreign Actor.

He wrote the theme music, composed the title songs and scores for the films "If a Man Answers," "That Funny Feeling," "(Unlight in Abilene" and "The Lively Set."

3 stars in comic trilogy

NEW YORK — Forrest Tucker, Joanna Pettet and Edgar Bergen are among the stars of three original comedies to be presented on "The New CBS Friday Night Movies" Friday, July 28 (9-10:30 p.m., EDT) on the CBS Television Network.

In "Bobby Jo and the Big Apple Good Time Band," Tucker plays the manager of a touring band whose naive girl singer (Season Hubley) writes a hit song and embroils the group in unexpected legal difficulties. Paul Jungen was the producer, and Hal Cooper directed from a script by Bernard Slade.

In "My Sister Hank," Jodie Foster plays the title role of a young tomboy who keeps up a hectic pace that taxes her grandfather (Edgar Bergen), her parents (Jack Cling and Pippa Scott) and her beautiful older sister (Janit Baldwin). Upset when she's turned down for the Ille league, she puts a hex on her best friend Tokar was the producer-director and Ben Starr wrote the script.

Presley portrays a motion picture star who is kidnapped while on a personal-appearance tour in the Middle East. Unwillingly, he becomes involved in a plot against the king and enmeshed in a series of dangerous escapades.

Presley to star in trilogy

NEW YORK — Elvis Presley stars with Fran Jeffries and Mary Ann Mobley in "Harum Scarum," an action-filled comedy set against an Arabian background, on "The CBS Late Movie" Friday, July 28 (starting at 11:30 p.m., EDT) on the CBS Television Network.

Weekend sports

Quarterback Roger Staubach, the hero of Dallas' Super Bowl victory over Miami, will guide the Cowboys' attack in the 40th annual College All-Star Football Game to be televised live and in color on the ABC Television Network, Friday, July 28 (9:30 p.m., EDT to conclusion) from Soldier Field in Chicago.

Marital dilemma

Will innocence spoil the marriage of Jeff (Brad Davis, left on couch) and Kim (Dianne Hull, right)? Smack in the center of the dilemma is Mrs. Clements (Gloria De Haven) offering advice to the newlyweds in 'Honeymoon Suite' — first in 'The ABC Afternoon Playbreak' series of 90-minute daytime dramas. 'Honeymoon Suite' will be aired Wednesday, July 26 (1:30-3 p.m., EDT) on the ABC Television Network.

Buick turns ads to radio

NEW YORK — Buick Division of General Motors Corporation has purchased an advertising schedule on the NBC Radio Network, it was announced by Nicholas Gordon, Vice President, Sales, NBC Radio Network.

The announcements will be heard on "News on the Hour," "Emphasis" and "Monitor" and at other times. The order was placed through McCann-Erickson, Inc., of Detroit.

Horsy set

Trumpeter Doc Severinsen of NBC-TV's "Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson") and comedian Gordie Tapp, guest performers on NBC-TV's Aug. 29 special, "Star Spangled Boots," have one thing in common: both raise quarter horses.

Marital dilemma

Will innocence spoil the marriage of Jeff (Brad Davis, left on couch) and Kim (Dianne Hull, right)? Smack in the center of the dilemma is Mrs. Clements (Gloria De Haven) offering advice to the newlyweds in 'Honeymoon Suite' — first in 'The ABC Afternoon Playbreak' series of 90-minute daytime dramas. 'Honeymoon Suite' will be aired Wednesday, July 26 (1:30-3 p.m., EDT) on the ABC Television Network.

Buick turns ads to radio

NEW YORK — Buick Division of General Motors Corporation has purchased an advertising schedule on the NBC Radio Network, it was announced by Nicholas Gordon, Vice President, Sales, NBC Radio Network.

The announcements will be heard on "News on the Hour," "Emphasis" and "Monitor" and at other times. The order was placed through McCann-Erickson, Inc., of Detroit.

Horsy set

Trumpeter Doc Severinsen (of NBC-TV's "Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson") and comedian Gordie Tapp, guest performers on NBC-TV's Aug. 29 special, "Star Spangled Boots," have one thing in common: both raise quarter horses.

Jack O'Brian's

New York's Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — We've been calling '71-'72 the Year of the Greeks because of the Onassis craze and the sudden blossoming of Hellenic cafes in NY. . . Among which, Dionysos is one of the Greekest . . . And a gift that no one should beware of is Georgia Sambazis, co-owner, who delights in relating the star-studded events . . . Here's just a taste from the other night:

"When you, Jack, told me that the Greeks were finally jet set champions with a little help from Jackie O., I knew that my decision to go into the nightclub-restaurant business was right," said Georgia. "I'd spent most of my life dancing at somebody's party or restaurant or charity affairs and I got the idea when two dear friends, who are my partners now, said they'd tackle the idea with me. One of them is Taki Stamolis, who is in that native Greek sport, the shipping business, but with every free minute, he also was out dancing.

"He loved the idea. The other was Paul Sapounakis, who lent not only his charm to the restaurant, but an exceptional talent as an architect. The lucky three of us from that first opening night have been teaching the town, and the entire country, how to dance, Greek-style, side by side, arms entwined and spirits free.

"Taki was actually the one who set the pace for us when he told us that we would hire nothing but Greek sailors from the vessels, for as he said, there isn't a Greek sailor that can't dance, serve food, and who is not also the handsomest man you've ever seen.

"He was right, we've had several of them whisked out of our restaurant by romance, and we've even lost some of them to films. In fact, one of our steady customers, Anthony Quinn, who delights our patrons every time he comes in to dance the Sirtaki, is screen testing one of our boys right now to play his son in a new film.

"I try very hard each evening to imagine that the cafe is a great big living room, and that its mine and I'm entertaining friends.

"One night, I was thrilled to death when Kate Smith herself called to say she'd like a large table to entertain herself and friends at a birthday party. I introduced her from the floor not knowing it was her own birthday and everyone was coaxing her to sing 'God Bless America.' It ended with me, instead, singing 'Happy Birthday.'"

"Paul Newman and wife Joanne came in one night with their two young teenage children for dinner at about 6 p.m., and said they'd heard how entertaining and delightful the restaurant was, and I tried to explain that the ambience of the room didn't happen by itself, that it took people to make it alive, and that until 8 o'clock or so, there would be no activity. They seemed so disappointed and of course, didn't want the children to stay up too late, so I called the orchestra in earlier and Paul and Joanne and the children danced with me and the waiters and we all had a fine time.

"Richard Harris has been with us every time he's in town, and for almost two years 'Sleuth' star Keith Baxter was a regular. Yoko and John Lennon sat in the bar one night for hours until someone recognized them and asked for an autograph, which made them leave.

"Just the other night, Bobby Short and I were talking about my first cocktail party for him when Bill Blass and Donald Brooks and all welcomed him back from his first visit to the White House. Bobby was overjoyed that the Nixons had asked him to come and play for their guests who were the Duke and Duchess of Windsor. Both were great fans of Bobby's, and he remembers that the Duke particularly liked the song 'Bye Bye Blackbird.'

Paradise lost

Dear Ann Landers: This morning when my neighbor came over for our regular 10 o'clock cup of coffee she had in her hand a letter her husband had brought home from work. He thought it was pretty funny. We wonder how much kidding on the square was involved. Here's the letter, Ann. Please decide:

Dear Loving Wife:

During the past year I have tried to make love to you 365 times. I recorded 229 excuses and 36 successes. I kept track of the reasons which accompanied the refusals. Here they are:

	Times
We'll wake the children	17
It's too hot	10
It's too cold	5
I'm too tired	32
It's too early	15
It's too late	23
Please, dear, I'm asleep	35
Windows open, neighbors might hear	9
Backache	18
Headache	16
Toothache	2
Drank too much	4
Ate too much	14
Not in the mood	21
Mud pack	2
New Hair-do	17
Company in next room	1
Wouldn't you rather watch the late TV show?	40
Is that all you men think about?	29

Thanks, dear. Your Loving Husband (But Not Enough)

How about it, Ann. Is it funny?

— Paradise, Calif.

Dear Paradise: Yes, it's funny, but like a great deal that passes for humor, I sense a lot of kidding on the square.

Too young

By Jean Adams

MARRY? (Q.) My boy friend and I want to get married. I've talked to my mom about it and she wants to talk to my boy friend. He talked to his mother and she said we would have to work together.

My aunt says she doesn't think I'm ready to settle down. I'm 15 and will be in the 10th grade in September. My boy friend is 19 and graduated this year. He has a steady job.

I really love him and want to marry him, but I'm afraid my mom will say no because she is divorced. Please tell me what to do.

Asked in West Virginia

(A.) I have advised thousands of 15-year-old girls that they should not get married, and my advice to you is the same. At 15 a girl is just not ready for marriage.

You need to spend at least three more years in school. If you marry that might not be possible.

You should also give yourself time to know your true feelings, which may not be the same three or four years from now. At 18 or 19 or 20 you will know what you want to do and won't have to ask your mother or your aunt or me what you should do.

REASON? (Q.) In our world of trouble and woe, I know we'll soon find peace. I know our minds are muddled, but I know our confusion will soon untwine. I know there is ugly violence, but I know there is also beauty. So why, in the ugly world of growing up, can't there be patience, and a reason for existing?

Peace in Wisconsin

(A.) I believe there is a reason for our existence. I believe we are put here by the Creator to strive toward His goals. I believe one of His goals is peace. I believe it and His other goals are worth working for.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♥	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

Opening lead—five of clubs.

Let's say you're West, defending against four spades. Having listened carefully to the bidding, you decide that this is not the type of hand on which to adopt super-cautious defense, so you make the aggressive lead of a club away from the king.

Partner wins with the ace, declarer playing the jack, and returns the king of diamonds. You signal with the five and partner continues with the seven, which you win with the ace. On the diamonds declarer played the six and eight.

You have three tricks home, and the question is whether to try to cash a diamond or a club. The bidding has told you that South has the king of hearts, so your next play is obviously crucial.

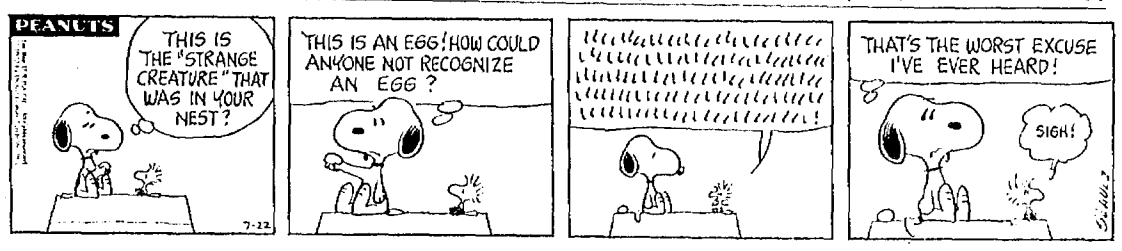

If declarer started with two diamonds and two clubs, you have to lead the king of clubs to stop the contract. If he started with three diamonds and one club, you have to lead a diamond to stop the contract.

Unquestionably this is a tough problem and it would be easy to go wrong. You might even think the right play is just a guess and therefore mentally toss a coin.

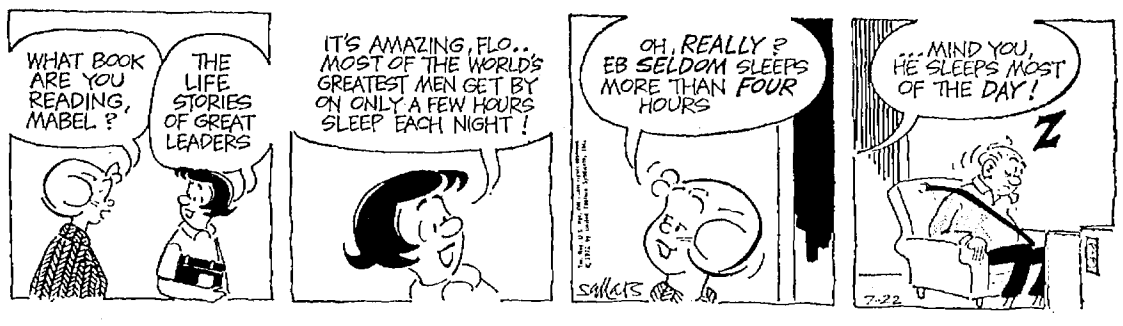

However, there is a logical way of solving the problem. You have to ask yourself whether partner would have defended in this fashion if he had five diamonds as opposed to four.

If we assume that East had the K-Q-10-7-3, his proper play at trick three would be the queen, not the seven. Knowing that the defense could take no more than two diamond tricks, he would want to win the second one himself so that he could switch to a club at trick four to prevent you from going wrong.

East's failure to do this indicates he started with only four diamonds, and the proper play at trick four is therefore another diamond.

"Richard Harris has been with us every time he's in town, and for almost two years 'Sleuth' star Keith Baxter was a regular. Yoko and John Lennon sat in the bar one night for hours until someone recognized them and asked for an autograph, which made them leave.

"Just the other night, Bobby Short and I were talking about my first cocktail party for him when Bill Blass and Donald Brooks and all welcomed him back from his first visit to the White House. Bobby was overjoyed that the Nixons had asked him to come and play for their guests who were the Duke and Duchess of Windsor. Both were great fans of Bobby's, and he remembers that the Duke particularly liked the song 'Bye Bye Blackbird.'

Ann Landers

Paradise lost

Dear Ann Landers: This morning when my neighbor came over for our regular 10 o'clock cup of coffee she had in her hand a letter her husband had brought home from work. He thought it was pretty funny. We wonder how much kidding on the square was involved. Here's the letter, Ann. Please decide:

Dear Loving Wife:

During the past year I have tried to make love to you 365 times. I recorded 229 excuses and 36 successes. I kept track of the reasons which accompanied the refusals. Here they are:

	Times
We'll wake the children	17
It's too hot	10
It's too cold	5
I'm too tired	32
It's too early	15
It's too late	23
Please, dear, I'm asleep	35
Windows open, neighbors might hear	9
Backache	18
Headache	16
Toothache	2
Drank too much	4
Ate too much	14
Mud pack	2
New Hair-do	17
Company in next room	1
Wouldn't you rather watch the late TV show?	40
Is that all you men think about?	29

Thanks, dear. Your Loving Husband (But Not Enough)

How about it, Ann. Is it funny?

— Paradise, Calif.

Dear Paradise: Yes, it's funny, but like a great deal that passes for humor, I sense a lot of kidding on the square.

By Jean Adams

MARRY? (Q.) My boy friend and I want to get married. I've talked to my mom about it and she wants to talk to my boy friend. He talked to his mother and she said we would have to work together.

My aunt says she doesn't think I'm ready to settle down. I'm 15 and will be in the 10th grade in September. My boy friend is 19 and graduated this year. He has a steady job.

I really love him and want to marry him, but I'm afraid my mom will say no because she is divorced. Please tell me what to do.

Asked in West Virginia

(A.) I have advised thousands of 15-year-old girls that they should not get married, and my advice to you is the same. At 15 a girl is just not ready for marriage.

You need to spend at least three more years in school. If you marry that might not be possible.

You should also give yourself time to know your true feelings, which may not be the same three or four years from now. At 18 or 19 or 20 you will know what you want to do and won't have to ask your mother or your aunt or me what you should do.

REASON? (Q.) In our world of trouble and woe, I know we'll soon find peace. I know our minds are muddled, but I know our confusion will soon untwine. I know there is ugly violence, but I know there is also beauty. So why, in the ugly world of growing up, can't there be patience, and a reason for existing?

Peace in Wisconsin

(A.) I believe there is a reason for our existence. I believe we are put here by the Creator to strive toward His goals. I believe one of His goals is peace. I believe it and His other goals are worth working for.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♥	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

Opening lead—five of clubs.

Let's say you're West, defending against four spades. Having listened carefully to the bidding, you decide that this is not the type of hand on which to adopt super-cautious defense, so you make the aggressive lead of a club away from the king.

Partner wins with the ace, declarer playing the jack, and returns the king of diamonds. You signal with the five and partner continues with the seven, which you win with the ace. On the diamonds declarer played the six and eight.

You have three tricks home, and the question is whether to try to cash a diamond or a club. The bidding has told you that South has the king of hearts, so your next play is obviously crucial.

If declarer started with two diamonds and two clubs, you have to lead the king of clubs to stop the contract. If he started with three diamonds and one club, you have to lead a diamond to stop the contract.

Unquestionably this is a tough problem and it would be easy to go wrong. You might even think the right play is just a guess and therefore mentally toss a coin.

However, there is a logical way of solving the problem. You have to ask yourself whether partner would have defended in this fashion if he had five diamonds as opposed to four.

If we assume that East had the K-Q-10-7-3, his proper play at trick three would be the queen, not the seven. Knowing that the defense could take no more than two diamond tricks, he would want to win the second one himself so that he could switch to a club at trick four to prevent you from going wrong.

East's failure to do this indicates he started with only four diamonds, and the proper play at trick four is therefore another diamond.

Retail business booming in area

Special to the Record

STROUDSBURG — Retail business in Monroe County was at a higher level than expected in the past year, the final tabulations show. Many stores chalked up substantial gains over the prior year.

Their sales totals reflected the fact that most local families had bigger incomes than before and were in a position to spend more. They also reflected the higher price tags on merchandise.

Just how much was spent in the local area for food, cars, clothing, furniture and other goods and services is detailed in a new report on consumer buying, released by the Standard Rate and Data Service. It covers all sections of the country.

In Monroe County, much of the outlay was for food. Approximately 24 cents out of every dollar spent in local retail stores went to supermarkets, butcher shops, bakeries, delicatessens, grocery stores and the like.

As a consequence, the overall sales volume in the year, in stores selling food for home consumption, came to $23,950,000. It compares with the previous year's $21,626,000.

This was exclusive of the expenditures made in restaurants, lunch rooms.

Those selling cars, motorcycles and other automotive equipment and supplies produced a sales volume of $19,443,000, as compared with the prior year's $16,501,000.

Department stores and other stores carrying general merchandise accounted for $21,351,000.

Sales in apparel and specialty shops, including those handling shoes, hats, dresses and other articles of clothing, totaled $4,501,000.

2,164 enrolled at ESSC

EAST STROUDSBURG — Total summer session enrollment at East Stroudsburg State College to date stands at 2,164 according to Dr. Francis B. McGarry, vice president and dean of academic affairs.

ESSC President Darrell Holmes indicated that the increase is significant when considering the large population of students who were denied the opportunity to attend summer school due to the devastation last month caused by floods in northeastern Pennsylvania.

A large number of students who attend the college reside in the flooded area, and many have remained with their families to help with the clean-up operation.

East Stroudsburg's summer school program is divided into a three-week pre-session, a six-week main session and a three-week post-session.

Another 211 students are enrolled in the June-January session which began June 12 and will conclude Aug. 25.

Students in that program attend an 11-week program and will be admitted in January, 1973 as second semester freshmen.

Another 32 students are attending college through the Summer Intensive Study Program. These students, upon successful completion of the nine-week program for academic underachievers, will be enrolled as freshmen in September.

Vehicles reported missing

STROUDSBURG — Stroudsburg Borough Police are investigating reports of two stolen vehicles.

Frank Sesto, Lodi, N.J., discovered his car missing early Thursday morning from the parking lot at the Sheraton Pocono Inn. Stroudsburg police said Sesto's vehicle is a gray, four-door sedan, with New Jersey license MPW 600.

The second report of a missing vehicle was filed by Donald Williamson, 328 Main St., who noticed his son's mini-bike was missing sometime before 8:30 Wednesday night.

Skating exhibitions on tap

ANALOMINK — The Pocono Ice-A-Rama in Analomink will soon be offering area residents a chance to cool off and at the same time see skating exhibitions.

The participants in the Pocono Ice Skating Camp, which has been held at the facility all summer long, will present exhibitions at 8 p.m. on Friday, July 28 and Friday, Aug. 18.

The exhibitions will be presented for the public and for the judges who will be there to rate the girls.

The shows have been planned for the benefit of the General Hospital of Monroe County with donations being accepted from the audience.

Girls from the ages of eight to 18 will be taking part in the skating program. The majority of the skaters are with a group from Washington, D.C.

In addition to the Washington, D.C. group, two local girls will also be skating during the exhibitions.

Debbie Poalillo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Poalillo, owner of the Ice-A-Rama and the adjacent Penn Hills Lodge, will be skating along with Beth Wyckoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wyckoff.

The opening portion of the program will consist of the girls showing patch or figure skating. These are compulsory figures which all skaters must master if they wish to skate competitively.

The second part of the program will be free style skating with each skater doing her own routine.

The judges for the events are members of the United States Skating Assn. They will be administering the patch test and the Preliminary Test No. 1. These two tests are only part of the test required for a skater to be awarded a gold medal. There are eight preliminary tests which a skater must pass before being a gold medal winner.

Raceway schedules Camera Day

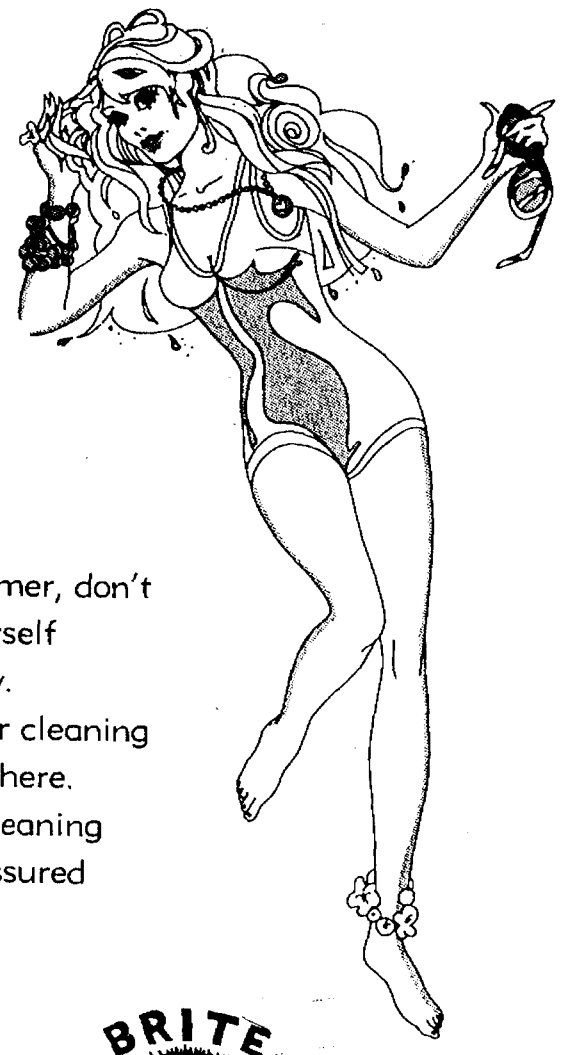

LONG POND — "Kodak Camera Day", Kodak's special salute to the Schaefer 500 at Pocono will be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday at Pocono International Raceway.

Your camera is your admission ticket for the second day of time trials and qualifications for this year's Schaefer 500 and the Pennsylvania 500 races. Photographs can be taken of those competing in the Schaefer Race and then until 7 p.m. the drivers and cars entered in the Pennsylvania 500 can be photographed.

Kodak suggests using your camera for much more than free admission. The excitement for the "shutter bugs" begins upon reaching the two Kodak ovals on the track infield between the parking garages and the pit area at the pedestrian tunnel exit.

Special to the Record

STROUDSBURG — Retail business in Monroe County was at a higher level than expected in the past year, the final tabulations show. Many stores chalked up substantial gains over the prior year.

Their sales totals reflected the fact that most local families had bigger incomes than before and were in a position to spend more. They also reflected the higher price tags on merchandise.

Just how much was spent in the local area for food, cars, clothing, furniture and other goods and services is detailed in a new report on consumer buying, released by the Standard Rate and Data Service. It covers all sections of the country.

In Monroe County, much of the outlay was for food. Approximately 24 cents out of every dollar spent in local retail stores went to supermarkets, butcher shops, bakeries, delicatessens, grocery stores and the like.

As a consequence, the overall sales volume in the year, in stores selling food for home consumption, came to $23,950,000. It compares with the previous year's $21,626,000.

This was exclusive of the expenditures made in restaurants, lunch rooms.

Those selling cars, motorcycles and other automotive equipment and supplies produced a sales volume of $19,443,000, as compared with the prior year's $16,501,000.

Department stores and other stores carrying general merchandise accounted for $21,351,000.

Sales in apparel and specialty shops, including those handling shoes, hats, dresses and other articles of clothing, totaled $4,501,000.

2,164 enrolled at ESSC

EAST STROUDSBURG — Total summer session enrollment at East Stroudsburg State College to date stands at 2,164 according to Dr. Francis B. McGarry, vice president and dean of academic affairs.

ESSC President Darrell Holmes indicated that the increase is significant when considering the large population of students who were denied the opportunity to attend summer school due to the devastation last month caused by floods in northeastern Pennsylvania.

A large number of students who attend the college reside in the flooded area, and many have remained with their families to help with the clean-up operation.

East Stroudsburg's summer school program is divided into a three-week pre-session, a six-week main session and a three-week post-session.

Another 211 students are enrolled in the June-January session which began June 12 and will conclude Aug. 25.

Students in that program attend an 11-week program and will be admitted in January, 1973 as second semester freshmen.

Another 32 students are attending college through the Summer Intensive Study Program. These students, upon successful completion of the nine-week program for academic underachievers, will be enrolled as freshmen in September.

Vehicles reported missing

STROUDSBURG — Stroudsburg Borough Police are investigating reports of two stolen vehicles.

Frank Sesto, Lodi, N.J., discovered his car missing early Thursday morning from the parking lot at the Sheraton Pocono Inn. Stroudsburg police said Sesto's vehicle is a gray, four-door sedan, with New Jersey license MPW 600.

The second report of a missing vehicle was filed by Donald Williamson, 328 Main St., who noticed his son's mini-bike was missing sometime before 8:30 Wednesday night.

Skating exhibitions on tap

ANALOMINK — The Pocono Ice-A-Rama in Analomink will soon be offering area residents a chance to cool off and at the same time see skating exhibitions.

The participants in the Pocono Ice Skating Camp, which has been held at the facility all summer long, will present exhibitions at 8 p.m. on Friday, July 28 and Friday, Aug. 18.

The exhibitions will be presented for the public and for the judges who will be there to rate the girls.

The shows have been planned for the benefit of the General Hospital of Monroe County with donations being accepted from the audience.

Girls from the ages of eight to 18 will be taking part in the skating program. The majority of the skaters are with a group from Washington, D.C.

In addition to the Washington, D.C. group, two local girls will also be skating during the exhibitions.

Debbie Poalillo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Poalillo, owner of the Ice-A-Rama and the adjacent Penn Hills Lodge, will be skating along with Beth Wyckoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wyckoff.

The opening portion of the program will consist of the girls showing patch or figure skating. These are compulsory figures which all skaters must master if they wish to skate competitively.

The second part of the program will be free style skating with each skater doing her own routine.

The judges for the events are members of the United States Skating Assn. They will be administering the patch test and the Preliminary Test No. 1. These two tests are only part of the test required for a skater to be awarded a gold medal. There are eight preliminary tests which a skater must pass before being a gold medal winner.

Raceway schedules Camera Day

LONG POND — "Kodak Camera Day", Kodak's special salute to the Schaefer 500 at Pocono will be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday at Pocono International Raceway.

Your camera is your admission ticket for the second day of time trials and qualifications for this year's Schaefer 500 and the Pennsylvania 500 races. Photographs can be taken of those competing in the Schaefer Race and then until 7 p.m. the drivers and cars entered in the Pennsylvania 500 can be photographed.

Kodak suggests using your camera for much more than free admission. The excitement for the "shutter bugs" begins upon reaching the two Kodak ovals on the track infield between the parking garages and the pit area at the pedestrian tunnel exit.

Mattioli blasts officials in rock fest defense

By GARY GROSSMAN
Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Pocono International Raceway's first defense of its part in the July 8 rock concert forcefully deflated a postmortem discussion sponsored by the Monroe County Commissioners Friday.

Stealing the spotlight from the county officials near the end of a floundering session, Dr. Joseph Mattioli, chairman of the board for the raceway, decried Monday morning quarter-backing by governmental officials.

"It happened, and there's not a damn thing we're going to do to change it," Mattioli said.

"From February 14, 1972, until two days before the affair, not one word was said or written by anyone in an official capacity, in the local news media or by any local citizen that had indicated any adverse reaction to the music festival.

"It is very easy to sit on the fence before the fact and then to take a stand after the fact."

The county commissioners and assembled township and law enforcement officials sat in mute attention as Mattioli ripped their efforts to hash over the two-week-old event that sent 200,000 young people streaming to the raceway.

"Many officials were asked and were given tickets to the affair. They knew about it and no one tried to suppress any information pertinent to the music festival," continued Mattioli.

"On the other hand, what did the state, county or township officials do to help us?"

He stated the raceway paid approximately $75,000 in local taxes last year and would pay about $165,000 in local taxes in 1972.

Mattioli said the raceway had done nothing unethical, or illegal. He said every possible precaution was taken by the raceway to avert problems with the rock concert.

No alcohol was to be sold at the raceway, the concert would only last 10 hours — allowing travel time, all ticket sales would cease at 100,000 and radio announcements of a sell-out would be made at the 90,000 mark, Mattioli said.

All these actions were done and could be documented, he said.

Aerial photos taken the day of the concert document the availability of parking, Mattioli replied to an earlier contrary statement.

He answered criticism of the road access to the raceway, stating Pocono International Raceway had been in Harrisburg repeatedly to ask for more roads and had paid for the widening of Long Pond Road into the facility.

Mattioli said he would not have the stigma attached to the raceway for what happened to Monroe County during the rock fest.

If he had to vote on another concert he would say "no", he said.

Commission Chairman Mrs. Nancy B. Shukaitis said the purpose of the meeting had been to see future havoc is prevented in Monroe County if mass events are planned.

Mattioli said he was in support of such an effort.

The stated purpose of the meeting was not achieved according to two attendants who couldn't see much purpose in the meeting at all.

During the meeting Mrs. Shukaitis said several times she would be open to suggestions regarding county actions to obstruct repetition of the July 8 gathering. She termed it the second largest rock festival in the country.

"If we are to gird ourselves for the future, we are going to have to do more than wait and get an injunction," Mrs. Shukaitis said at one point.

The only suggestion the commission chairman made was to support a bill in the legislature providing health department regulation of 3,000-5,000 member gatherings scheduled to last more than 24 hours.

Some years ago the county commissioners had supported the same bill.

West End Bureau

The young pair of doctors were anxiously awaiting the placement of the Palmerton Hospital's modular medical unit, which will serve as their clinic in Gilbert beginning next month.

Due to arrive at 10 a.m. Friday morning, the clinic was not placed on its foundation until approximately 12:30. Neighbors in the area took advantage of the delay to get acquainted with the new doctors and offer them some West End hospitality.

The 12-foot by 60-foot structure, located on land provided by the First National Bank of Palmerton, will serve as an emergency unit on weekends and as a private practice headquarters for Montes and Salazar during the week.

Constructed by Hi-Hat Homes of Kunkletown, the new medical unit contains a waiting room, receptionist and nursing area, two examination rooms with exit doors to accommodate wheelchairs and stretchers, a doctor's consultation room and a supply area.

Equipped with air conditioning and electric heat, the building also contains a full basement.

According to D.L. Gamble, president of the board of trustees of the Palmerton Hospital, the clinic was put up in Gilbert, because "the people in Gilbert and the surrounding areas expressed a need for additional emergency and medical services."

Commenting at the placement site, Geza Holczman, president of the First National Bank of Palmerton, said, "Officers and directors at the bank feel they have a responsibility to the community they serve if in some small way we have helped to bring this medical unit to Gilbert."

"We are very happy and we feel that all the people of the Western Pocono area will benefit from this needed and worthwhile facility," he continued.

Also on hand for the clinic placement was Henry Hoffman, a member of the board of directors of the Gilbert bank office, and Barbara Spadt, hospital administrator.

WASHINGTON — In a full-page advertisement in the Washington Post Friday, a northeastern Pennsylvania bank asked Congress for quick action in passing legislation to aid victims of Hurricane Agnes.

The ad, sponsored by the Northeastern National Bank of Pennsylvania, headquartered in Scranton, with branch offices throughout Monroe County, asked that "prompt, compassionate consideration be given to the needs of the flood victims throughout the affected six-state area."

President Nixon has proposed a $1.8 billion program including boosting grants to homeowners from $2,500 to $5,000, and reducing interest rates on Small Business Administration loans from five and a half per cent to one per cent.

Numerous alternative proposals have also been offered by House and Senate members.

"Wilkes-Barre is on the comeback trail — but its people can't make it without your help," headlined the advertisement. That city was hardest hit by the flood.

Day Care's death rattle caused by lack of money

EAST STROUDSBURG — Day Care in Monroe County is a program under the direction of a nationally recognized expert, funded through an innovative program and selected as a model by the state Human Relations Commission.

It is also dying from a lack of money.

Mortally wounded last April when the Monroe County Commissioners voted against sponsoring the program to the tune of $10,000, Day Care will slip into the grave in late August.

It lived for less than a year on $28,000 in Title Three funds from the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, serving 50 children from Nov. 7, 1971.

Located in the Campus Learning Center at East Stroudsburg State College, the Day Care Center was sponsored by the East Stroudsburg School District for its pilot year.

The program was designed to take care of pre-school children between 7:45 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Originally Day Care was conceived to provide an environment for children of working mothers.

Four years ago the idea of Day Care took on an educational component, meaning trained personnel in early child development were part of Day Care programs.

In Pennsylvania, Day Care has been a mandated program for every county in the Commonwealth under the authority of the Department of Public Welfare, according to Dr. Florence McCormick, director of the local center.

"Almost every county in the Commonwealth has Day Care," Dr. McCormick said, "Our tax dollars are paying for other people's children."

But the program outlined to the Monroe County Commisioners was struck down. Dr. McCormick concedes the program may have been too expensive to be approved by the county officials.

"It's a tremendous cost, but it lasts for two or three years. And if it will allow a child to function like all other children in the classroom, maybe it's worth it," said Dr. McCormick.

The program proposed to the commission indicated a more than $12,000 tag per child each year.

Dr. McCormick said the current program runs about nine dollars a day for each child. She said a private center may be opening in Mountainhome running about five dollars per day per child.

Maybe the privately operated program will equal the governmentally funded one with the exception of some of the medical benefits offered by the public enterprise, Dr. McCormick said.

"It's too early for longitudinal studies to see how day care fares. It can not be even trusted to the point that we can say so many hours of Day Care will make Johnny a better reader, student of breadwinner," she said.

Dr. McCormick can relate the individual successes she has seen in the program over the last year. And she reacted to the loss of the program.

I feel kind of sick about it. Maybe I feel defeated. Sometimes I feel angry. I go in and see this foster child . . . I see him being a drop out and eventually on the welfare rolls."

"But maybe I will try again a few years from now."

Liquor store on tap

The lease has been officially approved and the store will be built in the near future, according to the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board.

John and Paul Latzanich, owners of the shopping plaza, have sent out bids and expect to hear from contractors within a week.

This will be the 24th such store in the state.

Occupying 5,000 square feet of space, the 50 by 100 supermarket-type liquor store, will have an electronic door and will be completely air-conditioned.

Conventional liquor stores stock 1,400 items. The self-service store will stock 1,800 items and will have all of its merchandise on display.

Sales cashiers at two or possibly more registers, will be on an elevated platform 18 inches off the floor enabling them to have an overall view of the store. Bags and shopping carts will be furnished.

One such store recently opened in Erie. It was the first conventional store to be renovated into self-service. Two additional stores next door were leased and combined so that more space would be available.

All self-service liquor stores have shown an increase in sales according to Dick Nedham, of the Liquor Control Board. He particularly cited the Altoona self-service store as having shown a 35 to 37 per cent increase in sales.

He stated this is due to the fact that the customers have the advantage of seeing what merchandise is available.

County vo-tech enrollment tops Pennsylvania median

By CONRAD GROVE
Pocono Record Reporter

BARTONSVILLE — First year enrollment at the Monroe County Area Vocational-Technical School now stands at 84 per cent of capacity — compared to a state average of 70.

Five of the 14 shops are filled: auto body, auto mechanics, carpentry, cosmetology and masonry. One opening exists in the electricity-electronics shop.

Students will be able to enroll in the school — scheduled to open Sept. 6 — throughout the academic year, according to John Wilgeroth, coordinator of pupil services.

He added recent high school graduates could enroll for half-days. Graduates, like regular students, will be placed on an instructional level determined by the teacher's evaluation.

The school will place its emphasis on individualized instruction, Wilgeroth said, with students allowed to proceed at their own rate.

Should a student quickly master the basics of his trade area, or have that knowledge already, he can then specialize within his field.

Instructors are scheduled to meet two weeks before the school opens to center curricula around the individualized learning concept.

Although night classes for adults had a target date of September, 1973, Wilgeroth said "if we can find that there is enough of a demand for a program to begin in January, we'll give it serious consideration."

The state Department of Education will approve any area with 10 or more enrolled. Classes would be held one or two nights a week.

For regular students, Wilgeroth predicts the 1973-74 year will fill the school to capacity. To date, a total of 452 students plan to attend next year.

Stroudsburg has the largest number enrolled, 159 out of a 189 quota, with Pocono Mountain tallying 137 out of 148, East Stroudsburg with 97 out of 135 and Pleasant Valley listing 64 out of 68.

Pleasant Valley will send its students in the afternoons, with the other districts supplying students in both morning and afternoon sessions.

Openings exist in the data processing, drafting and design, food service, graphic arts, health assistant, horticulture, machine and plumbing shops.

The list of teachers includes:

Electrical technology — Eugene F. Roginsky, of Allentown, with 13 years of experience in the field. He is a graduate of the U.S. Army Signal School and holds an associate degree from Penn State.

Cosmetology — Magdalen Swatt, of Lehighton. She has eight years of teaching experience and holds a vocational instructional certificate.

Health assistant — Harriet Nevil, of Stroudsburg, who has four years of nursing experience and a bachelor's degree from East Stroudsburg State College.

Food service — Gary Fish, of Stroudsburg R.D. 2. Fish has eight years of experience.

Horticulture — James Lupini, of Mountainhome, with five years of teaching experience; three with Pocono Mountain.

Masonry — Robert Metzgar, of East Stroudsburg, who has 25 years of masonry experience.

Machine shop — John Baabe Jr., of East Stroudsburg. He has 23 years of trade experience and studied vocational education at Temple University.

Auto body — Redge H. Flanagan, of East Stroudsburg, with 16 years of experience.

Graphic arts — Lawrence Zeiner, of Nazareth, with 20 years of experience and one teaching year.

Data processing — Joseph Borys, of Pocono Summit, a graduate of the Wilkes-Barre Computer Institute and three years of experience.

Amphitheater to be constructed

Country music on way

STROUDSBURG — Howard Liniger and Bud Creveling, both of Stroudsburg, have come up with a brainstorm that might make the Pocono Mountains the Nashville country and western capital of the northeast.

Liniger, owner of the Pocono Vacation Park off Route 209 on Shafer School House Road, not only intends to open a park for vehicular campers, but also plans to build an amphitheater for the presentation of country and western music concerts.

The park will be ready for business by Labor Day and Liniger hopes he can stage a country and western concert during the first Sunday in September.

"At first, I would like to have local musical groups and only charge $2 per car for admission," he said.

Bud Creveling, a close friend of Liniger's and co originator of the idea, will handle the promotion of the concert and expresses optimism about featuring a show each Sunday.

"We would like to promote local country and western groups during the full month of September, but next year bring in big names from the "Grand Ole Oprey" in Nashville and the WWVA Jamboree in West Virginia," Creveling said.

He added future plans would include a Sunday devoted to gospel, bluegrass, and folk music.

"Once we really get rolling," he said, "we would like to promote talent shows and maybe even a broadway musical."

Creveling explained the musical concerts will run each Sunday during the summer from the middle of May until September.

Liniger, who owns the 52 acre site of the amphitheater and camper park, says he will have ample water, electrical, and sanitary facilities available to handle nearly 2,000 people.

Liniger described the amphitheater as encompassing a 300 foot radius with a stage 40 ft. by 20 ft., and a small building located in the back to house dressing rooms.

Down the creek without a paddle

By SKIP TAGGART
Pocono Record Reporter

TANNERSVILLE — Like everyone else in the Poconos I spent Thursday trying to find a good way to beat the heat and humidity.

Swimming didn't strike me as the way to do it. You get all dressed up (or down, as the case may be) for the beach or pool and actually spend very little time in the water. There's the ritual of plunging into the water when you first arrive and then you baste yourself with exotic oils and lotions to get a nice even suntan.

To get a suntan you must stay in the sun; therefore, the objectivity of going to the beach or pool is lost.

The only other alternatives I could see were either standing under a cold shower all day, looking like a blue prune, or locking myself in the air-conditioned cockpit of my motorcar listening to the radio.

While discussing the dilemma with Brian Hanley, co-proprietor of the Camelot Inn in Tannersville, a young boy who lived next door told us how he and his friends ride innertubes down the Pocono Creek to beat the heat. Would we like to borrow his innertubes?

Brian pushed his dilapidated lawnmower out of the way and said, "let's go." In five minutes we were changed into suitable garb for the trip and had it all planned out as if we were about to challenge the whitewater rapids of the Colorado River.

I drove my car to the Bartonsville rest area, a little more than a mile away and Brian drove me back to the Camelot. The Pocono Creek was only 100 yards from the parking lot and flows right through the rest area. The plan was working like a fine timepiece.

Sneakers necessary

"You got a pair of sneaks?" asked Brian. What would a thoroughbred executive like me be doing with sneakers, I replied. The creek bottom would be rocky, of course, but I figured I would finally get some practical use out of those old Air Force jump boots I had been saving for just such an occasion. Brian, however, came up with an old pair size 14 sneakers that had been left behind by a former tennant in his motel.

We ran up the road to the creek like a couple of 10-year-olds, hurled the innertubes into the water and plopped down on them. Scrunch! The water was about three inches deep.

I sat there for a minute and watched the water wash the mildew off my borrowed sneakers. Then, following Brian's example, I sloshed down the creek with my innertube in hand searching for deep water.

There were some sections of the creek that were deep enough for us to float along in for a while but for the most part we were constantly running around. Ah, to be a 96-pound weakling again.

After floating and walking for about a half mile we finally found the creek had become much deeper and we spent more time spinning in lazy circles down the stream, than portaging the innertubes.

'Ole swimmin hole'

Suddenly we found ourselves stopped in the middle of what seemed to be a small natural pool. Rolling off the tube, I landed in at least five feet of water. Well beaten paths ringed the shoreline and a tell-tale scar on the branch of a tree showed where some enterprising kids once had their rope swing. It was 'the ole swimmin' hole'.

We stopped there long enough to enjoy a swim and then moved on, making a mental note of where the pool was. We would be back.

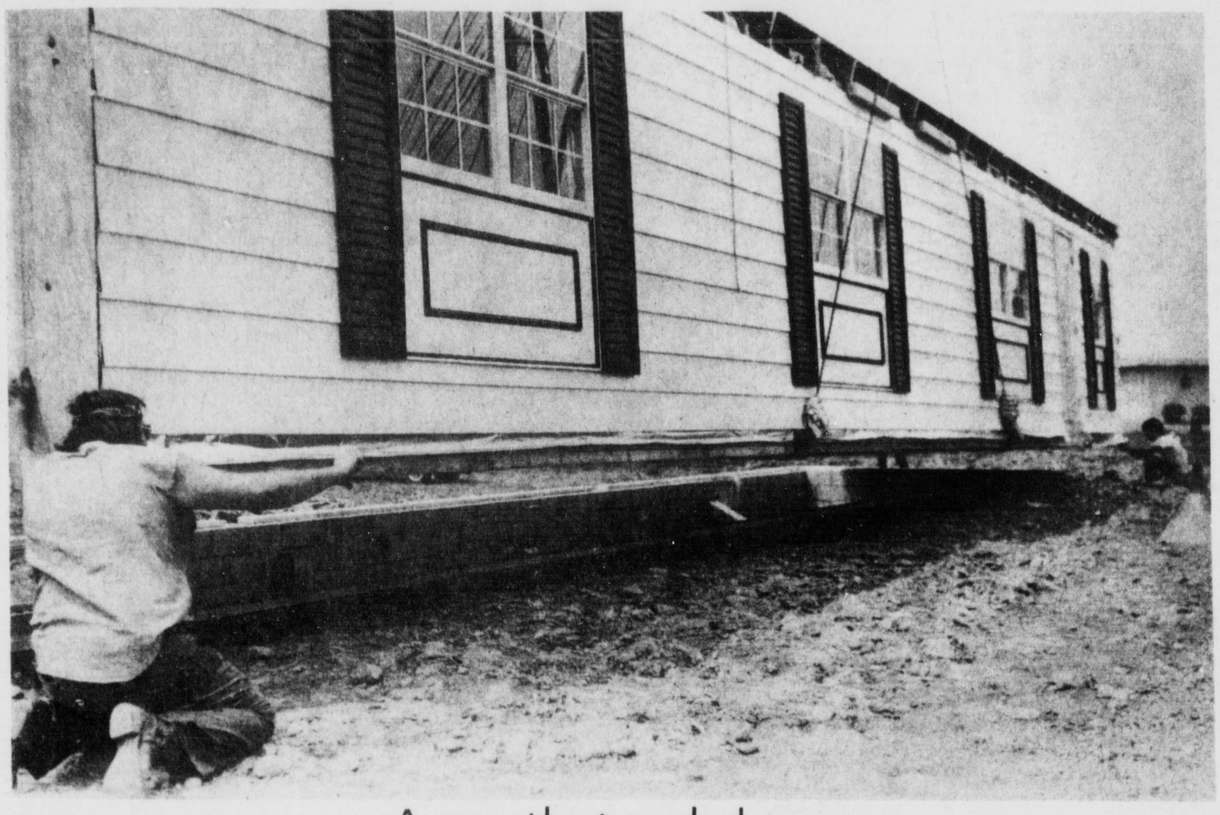

Brian discovered that by stretching out on two innertubes and peering into the water through the opening in the middle he could watch the creek bottom pass slowly by. "This is really out of sight," he exclaimed. "It's like watching a movie. It looks like the bottom is moving and you're not."

We "shot" the tiny rapids, laughing and shouting as the rocks tossed us to and fro, and then floated slowly beneath the overhanging branches of some rhododendron bushes which created a natural tunnel over the creek. There were no signs of civilization anywhere except for the occasional sound of a truck moving along nearby Interstate 80 and the one solitary soda can I spied on the creek bottom during our journey.

It took us nearly two hours to reach the rest area at Bartonsville but it seemed like only a few minutes as we looked back on it. Climbing out of the creek I stepped on the remains of a charcoal burner someone had thrown into the water. Paper cups, sandwich wrappers and other kinds of trash were lying along the creek bank. It was a good place to get out because the water was beginning to look like it was manmade.

All that night my body tingled with a strange sensation of cleanliness and I decided that I would be doing a lot more innertubing before this summer is over. After living here for so many years it's nice to re-discover how beautiful it is in the Poconos.

By GARY GROSSMAN
Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Pocono International Raceway's first defense of its part in the July 8 rock concert forcefully deflated a postmortem discussion sponsored by the Monroe County Commissioners Friday.

Stealing the spotlight from the county officials near the end of a floundering session, Dr. Joseph Mattioli, chairman of the board for the raceway, decried Monday morning quarter-backing by governmental officials.

"It happened, and there's not a damn thing we're going to do to change it," Mattioli said.

"From February 14, 1972, until two days before the affair, not one word was said or written by anyone in an official capacity, in the local news media or by any local citizen that had indicated any adverse reaction to the music festival.

"It is very easy to sit on the fence before the fact and then to take a stand after the fact."

The county commissioners and assembled township and law enforcement officials sat in mute attention as Mattioli ripped their efforts to hash over the two-week-old event that sent 200,000 young people streaming to the raceway.

"Many officials were asked and were given tickets to the affair. They knew about it and no one tried to suppress any information pertinent to the music festival," continued Mattioli.

"On the other hand, what did the state, county or township officials do to help us?"

He stated the raceway paid approximately $75,000 in local taxes last year and would pay about $165,000 in local taxes in 1972.

Mattioli said the raceway had done nothing unethical, or illegal. He said every possible precaution was taken by the raceway to avert problems with the rock concert.

No alcohol was to be sold at the raceway, the concert would only last 10 hours — allowing travel time, all ticket sales would cease at 100,000 and radio announcements of a sell-out would be made at the 90,000 mark, Mattioli said.

All these actions were done and could be documented, he said.

Aerial photos taken the day of the concert document the availability of parking, Mattioli replied to an earlier contrary statement.

He answered criticism of the road access to the raceway, stating Pocono International Raceway had been in Harrisburg repeatedly to ask for more roads and had paid for the widening of Long Pond Road into the facility.

Mattioli said he would not have the stigma attached to the raceway for what happened to Monroe County during the rock fest.

If he had to vote on another concert he would say "no", he said.

Commission Chairman Mrs. Nancy B. Shukaitis said the purpose of the meeting had been to see future havoc is prevented in Monroe County if mass events are planned.

Mattioli said he was in support of such an effort.

The stated purpose of the meeting was not achieved according to two attendants who couldn't see much purpose in the meeting at all.

During the meeting Mrs. Shukaitis said several times she would be open to suggestions regarding county actions to obstruct repetition of the July 8 gathering. She termed it the second largest rock festival in the country.

"If we are to gird ourselves for the future, we are going to have to do more than wait and get an injunction," Mrs. Shukaitis said at one point.

The only suggestion the commission chairman made was to support a bill in the legislature providing health department regulation of 3,000-5,000 member gatherings scheduled to last more than 24 hours.

Some years ago the county commissioners had supported the same bill.

West End Bureau

The young pair of doctors were anxiously awaiting the placement of the Palmerton Hospital's modular medical unit, which will serve as their clinic in Gilbert beginning next month.

Due to arrive at 10 a.m. Friday morning, the clinic was not placed on its foundation until approximately 12:30. Neighbors in the area took advantage of the delay to get acquainted with the new doctors and offer them some West End hospitality.

The 12-foot by 60-foot structure, located on land provided by the First National Bank of Palmerton, will serve as an emergency unit on weekends and as a private practice headquarters for Montes and Salazar during the week.

Constructed by Hi-Hat Homes of Kunkletown, the new medical unit contains a waiting room, receptionist and nursing area, two examination rooms with exit doors to accommodate wheelchairs and stretchers, a doctor's consultation room and a supply area.

Equipped with air conditioning and electric heat, the building also contains a full basement.

According to D.L. Gamble, president of the board of trustees of the Palmerton Hospital, the clinic was put up in Gilbert, because "the people in Gilbert and the surrounding areas expressed a need for additional emergency and medical services."

Commenting at the placement site, Geza Holczman, president of the First National Bank of Palmerton, said, "Officers and directors at the bank feel they have a responsibility to the community they serve if in some small way we have helped to bring this medical unit to Gilbert."

"We are very happy and we feel that all the people of the Western Pocono area will benefit from this needed and worthwhile facility," he continued.

Also on hand for the clinic placement was Henry Hoffman, a member of the board of directors of the Gilbert bank office, and Barbara Spadt, hospital administrator.

The ad, sponsored by the Northeastern National Bank of Pennsylvania, headquartered in Scranton, with branch offices throughout Monroe County, asked that "prompt, compassionate consideration be given to the needs of the flood victims throughout the affected six-state area."

President Nixon has proposed a $1.8 billion program including boosting grants to homeowners from $2,500 to $5,000, and reducing interest rates on Small Business Administration loans from five and a half per cent to one per cent.

Numerous alternative proposals have also been offered by House and Senate members.

"Wilkes-Barre is on the comeback trail — but its people can't make it without your help," headlined the advertisement. That city was hardest hit by the flood.

Day Care's death rattle caused by lack of money

EAST STROUDSBURG — Day Care in Monroe County is a program under the direction of a nationally recognized expert, funded through an innovative program and selected as a model by the state Human Relations Commission.

It is also dying from a lack of money.

Mortally wounded last April when the Monroe County Commissioners voted against sponsoring the program to the tune of $10,000, Day Care will slip into the grave in late August.

It lived for less than a year on $28,000 in Title Three funds from the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, serving 50 children from Nov. 7, 1971.

Located in the Campus Learning Center at East Stroudsburg State College, the Day Care Center was sponsored by the East Stroudsburg School District for its pilot year.

The program was designed to take care of pre-school children between 7:45 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Originally Day Care was conceived to provide an environment for children of working mothers.

Four years ago the idea of Day Care took on an educational component, meaning trained personnel in early child development were part of Day Care programs.

In Pennsylvania, Day Care has been a mandated program for every county in the Commonwealth under the authority of the Department of Public Welfare, according to Dr. Florence McCormick, director of the local center.

"Almost every county in the Commonwealth has Day Care," Dr. McCormick said, "Our tax dollars are paying for other people's children."

But the program outlined to the Monroe County Commisioners was struck down. Dr. McCormick concedes the program may have been too expensive to be approved by the county officials.

"It's a tremendous cost, but it lasts for two or three years. And if it will allow a child to function like all other children in the classroom, maybe it's worth it," said Dr. McCormick.

The program proposed to the commission indicated a more than $12,000 tag per child each year.

Dr. McCormick said the current program runs about nine dollars a day for each child. She said a private center may be opening in Mountainhome running about five dollars per day per child.

Maybe the privately operated program will equal the governmentally funded one with the exception of some of the medical benefits offered by the public enterprise, Dr. McCormick said.

"It's too early for longitudinal studies to see how day care fares. It can not be even trusted to the point that we can say so many hours of Day Care will make Johnny a better reader, student of breadwinner," she said.

Dr. McCormick can relate the individual successes she has seen in the program over the last year. And she reacted to the loss of the program.

I feel kind of sick about it. Maybe I feel defeated. Sometimes I feel angry. I go in and see this foster child . . . I see him being a drop out and eventually on the welfare rolls."

"But maybe I will try again a few years from now."

Liquor store on tap

The lease has been officially approved and the store will be built in the near future, according to the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board.

John and Paul Latzanich, owners of the shopping plaza, have sent out bids and expect to hear from contractors within a week.

This will be the 24th such store in the state.

Occupying 5,000 square feet of space, the 50 by 100 supermarket-type liquor store, will have an electronic door and will be completely air-conditioned.

Conventional liquor stores stock 1,400 items. The self-service store will stock 1,800 items and will have all of its merchandise on display.

Sales cashiers at two or possibly more registers, will be on an elevated platform 18 inches off the floor enabling them to have an overall view of the store. Bags and shopping carts will be furnished.

One such store recently opened in Erie. It was the first conventional store to be renovated into self-service. Two additional stores next door were leased and combined so that more space would be available.

All self-service liquor stores have shown an increase in sales according to Dick Nedham, of the Liquor Control Board. He particularly cited the Altoona self-service store as having shown a 35 to 37 per cent increase in sales.

He stated this is due to the fact that the customers have the advantage of seeing what merchandise is available.

County vo-tech enrollment tops Pennsylvania median

BARTONSVILLE — First year enrollment at the Monroe County Area Vocational-Technical School now stands at 84 per cent of capacity — compared to a state average of 70.

Five of the 14 shops are filled: auto body, auto mechanics, carpentry, cosmetology and masonry. One opening exists in the electricity-electronics shop.

Students will be able to enroll in the school — scheduled to open Sept. 6 — throughout the academic year, according to John Wilgeroth, coordinator of pupil services.

He added recent high school graduates could enroll for half-days. Graduates, like regular students, will be placed on an instructional level determined by the teacher's evaluation.

The school will place its emphasis on individualized instruction, Wilgeroth said, with students allowed to proceed at their own rate.

Should a student quickly master the basics of his trade area, or have that knowledge already, he can then specialize within his field.

Instructors are scheduled to meet two weeks before the school opens to center curricula around the individualized learning concept.

Although night classes for adults had a target date of September, 1973, Wilgeroth said "if we can find that there is enough of a demand for a program to begin in January, we'll give it serious consideration."

The state Department of Education will approve any area with 10 or more enrolled. Classes would be held one or two nights a week.

For regular students, Wilgeroth predicts the 1973-74 year will fill the school to capacity. To date, a total of 452 students plan to attend next year.

Stroudsburg has the largest number enrolled, 159 out of a 189 quota, with Pocono Mountain tallying 137 out of 148, East Stroudsburg with 97 out of 135 and Pleasant Valley listing 64 out of 68.

Pleasant Valley will send its students in the afternoons, with the other districts supplying students in both morning and afternoon sessions.

Openings exist in the data processing, drafting and design, food service, graphic arts, health assistant, horticulture, machine and plumbing shops.

The list of teachers includes:

Electrical technology — Eugene F. Roginsky, of Allentown, with 13 years of experience in the field. He is a graduate of the U.S. Army Signal School and holds an associate degree from Penn State.

Cosmetology — Magdalen Swatt, of Lehighton. She has eight years of teaching experience and holds a vocational instructional certificate.

Health assistant — Harriet Nevil, of Stroudsburg, who has four years of nursing experience and a bachelor's degree from East Stroudsburg State College.

Food service — Gary Fish, of Stroudsburg R.D. 2. Fish has eight years of experience.

Horticulture — James Lupini, of Mountainhome, with five years of teaching experience; three with Pocono Mountain.

Masonry — Robert Metzgar, of East Stroudsburg, who has 25 years of masonry experience.

Machine shop — John Baabe Jr., of East Stroudsburg. He has 23 years of trade experience and studied vocational education at Temple University.

Auto body — Redge H. Flanagan, of East Stroudsburg, with 16 years of experience.

Graphic arts — Lawrence Zeiner, of Nazareth, with 20 years of experience and one teaching year.

Data processing — Joseph Borys, of Pocono Summit, a graduate of the Wilkes-Barre Computer Institute and three years of experience.

Down the creek without a paddle

By SKIP TAGGART
Pocono Record Reporter

TANNERSVILLE — Like everyone else in the Poconos I spent Thursday trying to find a good way to beat the heat and humidity.

Swimming didn't strike me as the way to do it. You get all dressed up (or down, as the case may be) for the beach or pool and actually spend very little time in the water. There's the ritual of plunging into the water when you first arrive and then you baste yourself with exotic oils and lotions to get a nice even suntan.

To get a suntan you must stay in the sun; therefore, the objectivity of going to the beach or pool is lost.

The only other alternatives I could see were either standing under a cold shower all day, looking like a blue prune, or locking myself in the air-conditioned cockpit of my motorcar listening to the radio.

While discussing the dilemma with Brian Hanley, coproprietor of the Camelot Inn in Tannersville, a young boy who lived next door told us how he and his friends ride innertubes down the Pocono Creek to beat the heat. Would we like to borrow his innertubes?

Brian pushed his dilapidated lawnmower out of the way and said, "let's go." In five minutes we were changed into suitable garb for the trip and had it all planned out as if we were about to challenge the whitewater rapids of the Colorado River.

I drove my car to the Bartonsville rest area, a little more than a mile away and Brian drove me back to the Camelot. The Pocono Creek was only 100 yards from the parking lot and flows right through the rest area. The plan was working like a fine timepiece.

Sneakers necessary

"You got a pair of sneaks?" asked Brian. What would a thoroughbred executive like me be doing with sneakers, I replied. The creek bottom would be rocky, of course, but I figured I would finally get some practical use out of those old Air Force jump boots I had been saving for just such an occasion. Brian, however, came up with an old pair size 14 sneakers that had been left behind by a former tennant in his motel.

We ran up the road to the creek like a couple of 10-year-olds, hurled the innertubes into the water and plopped down on them. Scrunch! The water was about three inches deep.

I sat there for a minute and watched the water wash the mildew off my borrowed sneakers. Then, following Brian's example, I sloshed down the creek with my innertube in hand searching for deep water.

There were some sections of the creek that were deep enough for us to float along in for a while but for the most part we were constantly running around. Ah, to be a 96-pound weakling again.

After floating and walking for about a half mile we finally found the creek had become much deeper and we spent more time spinning in lazy circles down the stream, than portaging the innertubes.

'Ole swimmin hole'

Suddenly we found ourselves stopped in the middle of what seemed to be a small natural pool. Rolling off the tube, I landed in at least five feet of water. Well beaten paths ringed the shoreline and a tell-tale scar on the branch of a tree showed where some enterprising kids once had their rope swing. It was 'the ole swimmin' hole'.

We stopped there long enough to enjoy a swim and then moved on, making a mental note of where the pool was. We would be back.

Brian discovered that by stretching out on two innertubes and peering into the water through the opening in the middle he could watch the creek bottom pass slowly by. "This is really out of sight," he exclaimed. "It's like watching a movie. It looks like the bottom is moving and you're not."

We "shot" the tiny rapids, laughing and shouting as the rocks tossed us to and fro, and then floated slowly beneath the overhanging branches of some rhododendron bushes which created a natural tunnel over the creek. There were no signs of civilization anywhere except for the occasional sound of a truck moving along nearby Interstate 80 and the one solitary soda can I spied on the creek bottom during our journey.

It took us nearly two hours to reach the rest area at Bartonsville but it seemed like only a few minutes as we looked back on it. Climbing out of the creek I stepped on the remains of a charcoal burner someone had thrown into the water. Paper cups, sandwich wrappers and other kinds of trash were lying along the creek bank. It was a good place to get out because the water was beginning to look like it was manmade.

All that night my body tingled with a strange sensation of cleanliness and I decided that I would be doing a lot more innertubing before this summer is over. After living here for so many years it's nice to re-discover how beautiful it is in the Poconos.

Amphitheater to be constructed

Country music on way

STROUDSBURG — Howard Liniger and Bud Creveling, both of Stroudsburg, have come up with a brainstorm that might make the Pocono Mountains the Nashville country and western capital of the northeast.

Liniger, owner of the Pocono Vacation Park off Route 209 on Shafer School House Road, not only intends to open a park for vehicular campers, but also plans to build an amphitheater for the presentation of country and western music concerts.

The park will be ready for business by Labor Day and Liniger hopes he can stage a country and western concert during the first Sunday in September.

"At first, I would like to have local musical groups and only charge $2 per car for admission," he said.

Bud Creveling, a close friend of Liniger's and co-originator of the idea, will handle the promotion of the concert and expresses optimism about featuring a show each Sunday.

"We would like to promote local country and western groups during the full month of September, but next year bring in big names from the "Grand Ole Oprey" in Nashville and the WWVA Jamboree in West Virginia," Creveling said.

He added future plans would include a Sunday devoted to gospel, bluegrass, and folk music.

"Once we really get rolling," he said, "we would like to promote talent shows and maybe even a broadway musical."

Creveling explained the musical concerts will run each Sunday during the summer from the middle of May until September.

Liniger, who owns the 52 acre site of the amphitheater and camper park, says he will have ample water, electrical, and sanitary facilities available to handle nearly 2,000 people.

Liniger described the amphitheater as encompassing a 300 foot radius with a stage 40 ft. by 20 ft., and a small building located in the back to house dressing rooms.

Calloway leaves camp, Eagles' woes increase

READING, Pa. (UPI)—The Philadelphia Eagles have three gaping holes in their defensive unit and it may take big dollar signs to fill them.

"They made sure they signed me when I was broke," Calloway said as he left for his Philadelphia home. "I'm not making enough money for a player as good as me."

The Eagles have been toiling since camp opened Sunday without their all-pro safety Bill Bradley and linebacker Tom Rossovich, who are negotiating as a unit for substantial salary hikes. The two are said to be working out secretly in Philadelphia, awaiting word from general manager Pete Retzlaff.

Retzlaff, who reportedly had not contacted Bradley or Rossovich, was attempting to get in touch with Calloway Friday. The defensive lineman has indicated he might like to renegotiate his contract.

"I doubt it," an Eagle spokesman said when asked if Retzlaff would consider such a proposal.

Calloway said he reported to camp three days early with the rookies because he was broke.

Earlier in the week he said if he had the money he would have been a missing person along with Bradley and Rossovich. After three years of pro football, Calloway says he doesn't have much money to show for his efforts.

Yet, Calloway has been quoted as saying: "I love the game more than anything. I live for football."

Gibson aids Cards past Braves, 2-1

ATLANTA (UPI)—Bob Gibson, aiding his own cause with a long home run, picked up his 11th straight victory Friday night in pitching the St. Louis Cardinals to a 2-1 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Gibson, now 11-5, scattered seven hits and the only one that cost him a run was Darrell Evans' leadoff homer in the seventh inning. It was the Braves' first run off Gibson in 23 innings.

The Cardinals scored their first run without a hit in the first inning. Ted Sizemore was safe on an error by Evans, moved to second on a wild pitch by loser George Stone, went to third on a fly ball and then came home on Stone's second wild pitch of the inning.

Lefthander Stone, 3-8, pitched no-hit ball through the first 4 1-3 innings until Matty Alou singled with one out in the fifth. Stone only gave up four hits, but one of those was Gibson's fourth homer of the season to leadoff the sixth inning.

West signs new pact with Lakers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —All Star guard Jerry West disclosed Friday he had signed a new two-year contract with the Los Angeles Lakers basketball club and friends of the veteran said he would receive around $600,000.

West would not confirm the figure but it was reported he had asked Lakers' owner Jack Kent Cooke for a two-year contract at $300,000 a year.

Now 34 years of age, the former University of West Virginia star has been with the Lakers for 11 years, joining the club after college.

West had vowed he would remain with the Lakers until they won a league championship and he was a key figure in the Los Angeles team's greatest season which was climaxed with the National Basketball Association title this spring.

Boog aids Bird win over K.C.

KANSAS CITY (UPI)—Boog Powell drove in two runs with a single and an awesome, 450-foot homer Friday night as the Baltimore Orioles scored four runs in the first four innings then held off a late Kansas City rally to defeat the Royals, 7-6.

The victory was the Orioles' eighth in their last nine starts.

Powell started the Orioles off with a run-scoring single in the first and Dave Johnson delivered a two-run double to cap the inning.

Powell opened the third with his towering homer, only the 15th ball ever to go out of Municipal Stadium in right field. The homer cleared the back wall and landed on Brooklyn Avenue.

The Orioles ended Bruce Dal Canton's stint in the third when Pat Dobson hammered a two-out run-scoring single.

Baltimore widened the lead to 7-0 in the fourth when Don Baylor single and stole second base. Brooks Robinson's run-scoring single bounced over the glove of leftfielder Lou Piniella and Robinson circled the bases while Piniella chased the ball to the wall.

Indians beat Chisox, 8-2

CHICAGO (UPI)—Jack Brohamer and Tommy McCraw drove in three runs apiece and Dick Tidrow limited the Chicago White Sox to seven hits while pitching the Cleveland Indians to an 8-2 victory Friday night.

Brohamer doubled home two runs in the fourth inning and McCraw followed with a two-run single to knock out Chicago starter Tom Bradley, who suffered his fifth straight loss and saw his record drop to 10-9.

The loss was the White Sox' seventh in their last eight games.

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Joe Morgan slugged two homers and knocked in four runs Friday night as the Cincinnati Reds came from behind to beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 11-5.

The victory — Cincinnati's fourth straight and seventh this year over Pittsburgh—went to Pedro Borbon, 3-2, in relief while reliever Bruce Kison, 4-3, suffered the loss.

The game was tied 4-4 in the seventh when Denis Menke walked with one out and took third on Cesar Geronimo's double—one of his four hits. Darrel Chaney was walked intentionally, filling the bases. Pinch-hitter Hal McRae grounded to third and Rich Hebner nailed the runner at second, but Rennie Stennett's throw to first was wild as two runs scored making it 6-4.

Morgan hit a two-run homer in the third after Pittsburgh had taken a 3-0 lead in the first on Al Oliver's double, an intentional walk to Willie Stargell, Manny Sanguillen's single and Hebner's two-run double.

Oliver's second double and Sanguillen's single made it 4-2 in the fifth, but the Reds tied it with a two-run sixth inning on singles by Chaney and pinch-hitter Joe Hague and a walk to Pete Rose, loading the bases. Morgan walked forcing in a run before Bobby Tolan's groundout brought in another.

Morgan's second homer came in the eighth inning before an run-scoring single by Geronimo.

Tolan's two-run single and a sacrifice fly by Johnny Bench gave the Reds three more runs in the ninth.

Williams' bat paces Cubs, 11-3

HOUSTON (UPI)—Streaking Billy Williams drove in six runs with his 22nd homer, a double and two singles to spark the Chicago Cubs to an 11-3 triumph over the Houston Astros Friday night.

Williams, going 4-for-6 to raise his average to .342, slammed a two-run homer, his sixth in his last 11 games, in the second inning to put the Cubs ahead 2-1. Then he drove in three more runs with a bases-loaded double in Chicago's six-run rally in the eighth. Williams also singled home a run in the ninth to run his RBI total to 62

Jose Cardenal and Glenn Beckert started the big inning with singles and Ron Santo walked to load the bases. Pinch-hitter J.C. Martin hit a sharp grounder that caromed off reliever George Culver's leg to third baseman Doug Rader.

Rader's throw to the plate was wild and two runs scored. Culver walked Rick Monday to load the bases again and was replaced by Tom Griffin.

Griffin hit gives Bosox win

BOSTON (UPI) — Doug Griffin scored all the way from first base on Sal Bando's error with two out in the 14th inning Friday night to give the Boston Red Sox a 5-4 win over the Oakland Athletics and extend their winning streak to seven games.

Lolich collects 17th, 3-1

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI)—Norm Cash hit a two-run homer to power the Detroit Tigers to a 3-1 victory over the Texas Rangers Friday night that enabled southpaw Mickey Lolich to become the major league's first 17 game winner and the first to pitch 17 complete games.

Lolich's victory, his fourth in a row, didn't come easy. The Rangers, playing before the largest crowd since they moved here from Washington, 24,222, went in front in the first inning on Dave Nelson's leadoff double and Rich Billings' single.

They threatened seriously again in the fifth when Joe Lovitto and Elliott Maddox beat out infield hits to open the inning only to have Lenny Randle hit into a double play.

Calloway leaves camp, Eagles' woes increase

READING, Pa. (UPI)—The Philadelphia Eagles have three gaping holes in their defensive unit and it may take big dollar signs to fill them.

"They made sure they signed me when I was broke," Calloway said as he left for his Philadelphia home. "I'm not making enough money for a player as good as me."

The Eagles have been toiling since camp opened Sunday without their all-pro safety Bill Bradley and linebacker Tom Rossovich, who are negotiating as a unit for substantial salary hikes. The two are said to be working out secretly in Philadelphia, awaiting word from general manager Pete Retzlaff.

Retzlaff, who reportedly had not contacted Bradley or Rossovich, was attempting to get in touch with Calloway Friday. The defensive lineman has indicated he might like to renegotiate his contract.

"I doubt it," an Eagle spokesman said when asked if Retzlaff would consider such a proposal.

Calloway said he reported to camp three days early with the rookies because he was broke.

Earlier in the week he said if he had the money he would have been a missing person along with Bradley and Rossovich. After three years of pro football, Calloway says he doesn't have much money to show for his efforts.

Yet, Calloway has been quoted as saying: "I love the game more than anything. I live for football."

Gibson aids Cards past Braves, 2-1

ATLANTA (UPI)—Bob Gibson, aiding his own cause with a long home run, picked up his 11th straight victory Friday night in pitching the St. Louis Cardinals to a 2-1 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Gibson, now 11-5, scattered seven hits and the only one that cost him a run was Darrell Evans' leadoff homer in the seventh inning. It was the Braves' first run off Gibson in 23 innings.

The Cardinals scored their first run without a hit in the first inning. Ted Sizemore was safe on an error by Evans, moved to second on a wild pitch by loser George Stone, went to third on a fly ball and then came home on Stone's second wild pitch of the inning.

Lefthander Stone, 3-8, pitched no-hit ball through the first 4 1-3 innings until Matty Alou singled with one out in the fifth. Stone only gave up four hits, but one of those was Gibson's fourth homer of the season to leadoff the sixth inning.

West signs new pact with Lakers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —All Star guard Jerry West disclosed Friday he had signed a new two-year contract with the Los Angeles Lakers basketball club and friends of the veteran said he would receive around $600,000.

West would not confirm the figure but it was reported he had asked Lakers' owner Jack Kent Cooke for a two-year contract at $300,000 a year.

Now 34 years of age, the former University of West Virginia star has been with the Lakers for 11 years, joining the club after college.

West had vowed he would remain with the Lakers until they won a league championship and he was a key figure in the Los Angeles team's greatest season which was climaxed with the National Basketball Association title this spring.

Boog aids Bird win over K.C.

KANSAS CITY (UPI)—Boog Powell drove in two runs with a single and an awesome, 450-foot homer Friday night as the Baltimore Orioles scored four runs in the first four innings then held off a late Kansas City rally to defeat the Royals, 7-6.

The victory was the Orioles' eighth in their last nine starts.

Powell started the Orioles off with a run-scoring single in the first and Dave Johnson delivered a two-run double to cap the inning.

Powell opened the third with his towering homer, only the 15th ball ever to go out of Municipal Stadium in right field. The homer cleared the back wall and landed on Brooklyn Avenue.

The Orioles ended Bruce Dal Canton's stint in the third when Pat Dobson hammered a two-out run-scoring single.

Baltimore widened the lead to 7-0 in the fourth when Don Baylor single and stole second base. Brooks Robinson's run-scoring single bounced over the glove of leftfielder Lou Piniella and Robinson circled the bases while Piniella chased the ball to the wall.

Indians beat Chisox, 8-2

CHICAGO (UPI)—Jack Brohamer and Tommy McCraw drove in three runs apiece and Dick Tidrow limited the Chicago White Sox to seven hits while pitching the Cleveland Indians to an 8-2 victory Friday night.

Brohamer doubled home two runs in the fourth inning and McCraw followed with a two-run single to knock out Chicago starter Tom Bradley, who suffered his fifth straight loss and saw his record drop to 10-9.

The loss was the White Sox' seventh in their last eight games.

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Joe Morgan slugged two homers and knocked in four runs Friday night as the Cincinnati Reds came from behind to beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 11-5.

The victory — Cincinnati's fourth straight and seventh this year over Pittsburgh—went to Pedro Borbon, 3-2, in relief while reliever Bruce Kison, 4-3, suffered the loss.

The game was tied 4-4 in the seventh when Denis Menke walked with one out and took third on Cesar Geronimo's double—one of his four hits. Darrel Chaney was walked intentionally, filling the bases. Pinch-hitter Hal McRae grounded to third and Rich Hebner nailed the runner at second, but Rennie Stennett's throw to first was wild as two runs scored making it 6-4.

Morgan hit a two-run homer in the third after Pittsburgh had taken a 3-0 lead in the first on Al Oliver's double, an intentional walk to Willie Stargell, Manny Sanguillen's single and Hebner's two-run double.

Oliver's second double and Sanguillen's single made it 4-2 in the fifth, but the Reds tied it with a two-run sixth inning on singles by Chaney and pinch-hitter Joe Hague and a walk to Pete Rose, loading the bases. Morgan walked forcing in a run before Bobby Tolan's groundout brought in another.

Morgan's second homer came in the eighth inning before an run-scoring single by Geronimo.

Tolan's two-run single and a sacrifice fly by Johnny Bench gave the Reds three more runs in the ninth.

Williams' bat paces Cubs, 11-3

HOUSTON (UPI)—Streaking Billy Williams drove in six runs with his 22nd homer, a double and two singles to spark the Chicago Cubs to an 11-3 triumph over the Houston Astros Friday night.

Williams, going 4-for-6 to raise his average to .342, slammed a two-run homer, his sixth in his last 11 games, in the second inning to put the Cubs ahead 2-1. Then he drove in three more runs with a bases-loaded double in Chicago's six-run rally in the eighth. Williams also singled home a run in the ninth to run his RBI total to 62

Jose Cardenal and Glenn Beckert started the big inning with singles and Ron Santo walked to load the bases. Pinch-hitter J.C. Martin hit a sharp grounder that caromed off reliever George Culver's leg to third baseman Doug Rader.

Rader's throw to the plate was wild and two runs scored. Culver walked Rick Monday to load the bases again and was replaced by Tom Griffin.

Griffin hit gives Bosox win

BOSTON (UPI) — Doug Griffin scored all the way from first base on Sal Bando's error with two out in the 14th inning Friday night to give the Boston Red Sox a 5-4 win over the Oakland Athletics and extend their winning streak to seven games.

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI)—Norm Cash hit a two-run homer to power the Detroit Tigers to a 3-1 victory over the Texas Rangers Friday night that enabled southpaw Mickey Lolich to become the major league's first 17 game winner and the first to pitch 17 complete games.

Lolich's victory, his fourth in a row, didn't come easy. The Rangers, playing before the largest crowd since they moved here from Washington, 24,222, went in front in the first inning on Dave Nelson's leadoff double and Rich Billings' single.

They threatened seriously again in the fifth when Joe Lovitto and Elliott Maddox beat out infield hits to open the inning only to have Lenny Randle hit into a double play.

Rookie, two vets hold Classic wad

AKRON (UPI) — Rookie pro Steve Melnyk and slumping veterans Ray Floyd and Bert Yancey tied for the second round lead in the American Golf Classic Friday, but Arnold Palmer, gunning for his first victory of the year, was just a stroke behind.

Melnyk, former U.S. and British Amateur Champion, and Yancey shot two under par 68 and Floyd had a 71 for identical 36-hole totals of 137.

Palmer, doing some unaccustomed scrambling, staggered to an even par 70 for a 138 total, where he was deadlocked with John Wiechers, who had a 68 Friday.

"I drove just about as bad as I could," said Palmer, a two-time winner of this tournament who hit into six fairway traps and drove into the rough on three other holes.

Both Melnyk, who has never won a regular event on the PGA tour, and Floyd, winless since 1969, had shots at taking the lead themselves but Floyd, playing early, bogeyed the 17th and 18th holes. And then Melnyk, the last player on the course, bogeyed 15 and 16 to fall back.

Dave Eichelberger, whose 65 was the day's best round, was in a group of seven players at 139 with J.C. Snead, Gibby Gilbert, Kermit Zarley, Tom Ulozzas, Mike Hill and Hale Erwin.

Packers Starr quits football

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)— Green Bay Packer quarterback Bart Starr, disappointed because of pain in his ailing throwing arm, said Friday he was retiring as an active player.

"This game has been so wonderful for me," Starr said. "When it stops being fun, it is time to get out."

Starr two weeks ago said he was going to play one more year. But he said Friday a belief the Packers were going to be "an immediate winner" and the constant pain in his right shoulder had caused him to change his mind.

Bart Starr

"I made up my mind last night," Starr said. "I couldn't sleep and it was about the third night in a row I couldn't sleep because of pain. Everytime I threw the ball, it hurt."

Starr said he had no immediate plans except to spend some time with his family and then talk with Coach Dan Devine about the possibility of continuing with the Packers in some capacity, possibly as a coach.

"Everyone realizes how much I think of him," Devine said. "I hope Bart will continue in some capacity with the team."

Devine said second year quarterback Scott Hunter would be Starr's successor. "Scott has developed very well," Devine said. "He has big shoes to fill."

Injuries have hampered him the past seasons and he underwent two major shoulder operations at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn.

End of road for Wilhelm?

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Hoyt Wilhelm, 48, who has pitched in more major league games than any man in the history of the sport, was placed on waivers today. The club had brought Dodgers for the purpose of giving him his unconditional release.

The veteran relief specialist has been offered a job with the Dodgers as a pitching instructor in their minor league system.

"Hoyt told us he would consider the offer," said Director of Player Personnel Al Campanis. "Other major league clubs have until Thursday to claim Wilhelm. After that he can make a deal for himself as a free agent."

The Dodgers were forced to cut a man to make room for infielder Bill Russell, who returns from military service Saturday. The club had brought up Lee Lacy from El Paso when Russell went into service but felt they could not send Lacy back to the minors because he is hitting better than .300.

This season Wilhelm has an 0-1 record after having appeared in 16 games. He has an earned run average of 4.68 and one save to his credit.

Wilhelm is ranked as one of the greatest knuckleball pitchers in the history of the game and attributed his longevity in the majors to that pitch.

He broke into professional baseball in 1942 and reached the majors 10 years later with the New York Giants. He also played for the St. Louis Cardinals, Cleveland Indians, Baltimore Orioles, Chicago White Sox, California Angels, Atlanta Braves, Chicago Cubs and the Dodgers.

Wilhelm dropped to the minors last year when he went to Spokane of the Pacific Coast League after being released by Atlanta. In August, however, the Dodgers purchased his contract from Spokane.

In addition to his record number of appearances, Wilhelm also holds the major league mark for career relief victories of 124; most games finished by a pitcher in his career of 651; most relief appearances by a pitcher of 1,018 and most innings of relief hurling, 1,870.

Bethlehem tops WE, 5-2, cops District 20 title

BY JOE MIEGOC
Pocono Record Reporter

BRODHEADSVILLE — Bethlehem Northwest parlayed pitcher Mike Guman's 13 strikeouts and shoddy West End defense into a 5-2 victory Friday at Pleasant Valley High School in the District 20 North Senior League title game.

Bethlehem came from behind in the third inning, scoring three runs to put the game away. Leaks in the West End defense set up Bethlehem's first two runs, which scored when West End left fielder Dean Borger dropped Bethlehem's Mark Keuster's long fly ball for a three base error.

Guman, who had reached first on West End third-baseman Rod Smith's error, scored ahead of John Bittenbender and Bethlehem had matched West End's two unearned second-inning runs. Keuster reached third on the dropped fly ball and scored minutes later on a suicide squeeze bunt by Ed Antonoff.

West End had drawn first blood in the second with the aid of a two out passed ball by Bethlehem catcher Bernie Kaminski. Guy Marfesi walked with one out and Bill Hochrine singled him to second. Dean Borger went down swinging for the second out but Tim Serfass reached first when Kaminski dropped a third strike. Joe Coriola followed with a single to plate the first run and a walk to Rod Smith brought home the second. Losing pitcher Bob Altemose popped up to end the threat.

Guman kept the West End batters swinging in futility throughout the game, registering a strikeout in each inning except the final frame. He struck out the side in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings, getting West End centerfielder three times in the contest.

The tall blond lefty also showed he could handle himself at the plate, collecting two hits, one of which he slapped to left field past an onrushing third-baseman.

Bethlehem added single runs in the fifth and seventh innings, each time taking advantage of lackadaisical West End play. Keuster singled with one out in the fifth and moved to third on two passed balls and scored when Coriola muffed Antenoff's ground ball.

Guman singled to lead off the seventh, moved to second on a wild pitch, to third on a passed ball and scored on a suicide squeeze bunt by Bittenbender to close out the scoring.

The game was played in intermittant rain which, at the beginning of the second inning, fell heavily and briefly threatened to halt play. But the sun came out and play continued.

Jenkins replaces Reds' Nolan

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Ferguson Jenkins, a Chicago Cubs righthander, will replace Gary Nolan on the National League All-Star team, league president Charles S. Feeney announced Friday.

Nolan had been named by manager Danny Murtaugh as a pitcher. But Feeney said he was forced to withdraw because of a sore shoulder.

"He has been replaced by a pitcher equally as talented," said Feeney.

Jenkins will be making his third appearance as a member of the National League All-Star squad. He has a 12-win 8-loss record this season.

All-Star umpires announced

NEW YORK(UPI)—A six-man umpiring team was named Friday for the major league All-Star game in Atlanta Tuesday night.

Gibbon cut by Houston

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Houston Astros Friday released relief pitcher Joe Gibbon on waivers to open the roster for catcher Jack Hiatt.

Hiatt suffered a collar bone fracture May 29 in a plate collision in a game against Cincinnati. He was placed on the disabled list and was activated for Friday night's game with the Chicago Cubs.

Gibbon, 37, appeared in nine games since the Astros signed him as a free agent May 25.

Walton on waivers

KERRVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Offensive tackle Sam Walton, a five-year veteran and starter for the Houston Oilers last year, decided he didn't want to play this year and was put on waivers, a team spokesman said Friday.

Walton, 6-5, 270 pounds, was signed by the Oilers as a free agent last year. Before joining the club he played as a starter on the New York Jets 1969 Super Bowl team and went to New Orleans in 1970.

Weaver announces balance of AL team

BOSTON (UPI) —Oakland's Bert Campaneris was named Friday to replace Luis Aparicio of the Boston Red Sox as the starting shortstop in Tuesday's All-Star game in Atlanta.

A spokesman for American League headquarters said Baltimore manager Earl Weaver selected Campaneris because Aparicio broke a finger last month and will be unable to play in the classic.

Weaver also selected 11 players —including the entire Kansas City outfield —to complete the American League squad which will be seeking its second straight win after breaking an eight-year National League grip on the game. Starting players, except for the pitchers, were named earlier in the week following a vote of baseball fans around the league.

Weaver went along with the fans' voting for six of the 11 backup players. The six —first baseman Norm Cash of Detroit, second baseman Cookie Rojas of Kansas City, third baseman Sal Bando of Oakland and outfielders Lou Piniella, Amos Otis and Richie Scheinblum, all of KC —finished second in the balloting for their positions.

Weaver named rookie Carlton Fisk of the Red Sox as his reserve catcher. Fisk finished fifth in the voting as a write-in candidate since his name did not appear on the ballot. Ellie Rodriguez of Milwaukee was selected as the third catcher.

Others named to the team were shortstop Toby Harrah of Texas and outfielders Carlos May of Chicago and Joe Rudi of the A's.

Weaver appointed Bob Lemon of Kansas City and Dick Williams of Oakland as his coaches while Ralph Salvon of Baltimore will serve as trainer. John Hiller of Detroit and Joe Durham of Baltimore were assigned to pitch batting practice.

White Sox drop Regan

Waivers were requested Friday for the unconditional release of Regan. A righthander, his contract was purchased from the Chicago Cubs June 3. He pitched 13 1-3 innings for the Sox with an earned average of 4.05. He had a 0-1 record.

Geddes, 23, started the 1972 season with the Sox but pitched only 3 1-3 innings in three relief appearances. His record at Knoxville this season was 4-0 with an ERA of 2.88.

Tennis results

STROUDSBURG — In first-round play in the Stroudsburg Mixed Doubles Tennis Tournament Friday, Sharon and Herb Hummers beat Mrs. Fine and Jim Frederick, 6-2, 7-5, while Pat and Frank Dracos took the measure of Nancy and Dave Sales, 6-2, 6-4. The Quider-DeVivo vs. Altemose-Cole match will be played during this weekend.

The schedule for Monday follows: J. Smith-S. Smith vs. D. Crawford-R. Porter; V. Waring-F. Dixon vs. P. Maxim-T. Maxim; A. Austell-W. McClelland vs. B. Murphy-D. Van Horn and C. Turcotte-M. Turcotte vs. J. Cassebaum-B. Hay.

Lim's defeats First National

STROUDSBURG — Lim's scored three runs in the seventh inning to defeat First National Bank, 13-10, in an extra-inning Stroudsburg Little League game Friday.

Mets' Staub undergoes surgery

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York Mets outfielder Rusty Staub underwent a one-hour operation Friday to repair a broken bone in his right hand.

Dr. Richard Eaton, an orthopedic surgeon, assisted by team physician Dr. Peter LaMotte, performed an excision of the hook of the hamate bone at Roosevelt Hospital and reported the operation was successful.

Staub, out of the lineup since the June 18 injury in a game against Cincinnati, except for one game earlier this week, is expected to have the hand in a cast for four to six weeks.

Rookie, two vets hold Classic wad

AKRON (UPI) — Rookie pro Steve Melnyk and slumping veterans Ray Floyd and Bert Yancey tied for the second round lead in the American Golf Classic Friday, but Arnold Palmer, gunning for his first victory of the year, was just a stroke behind.

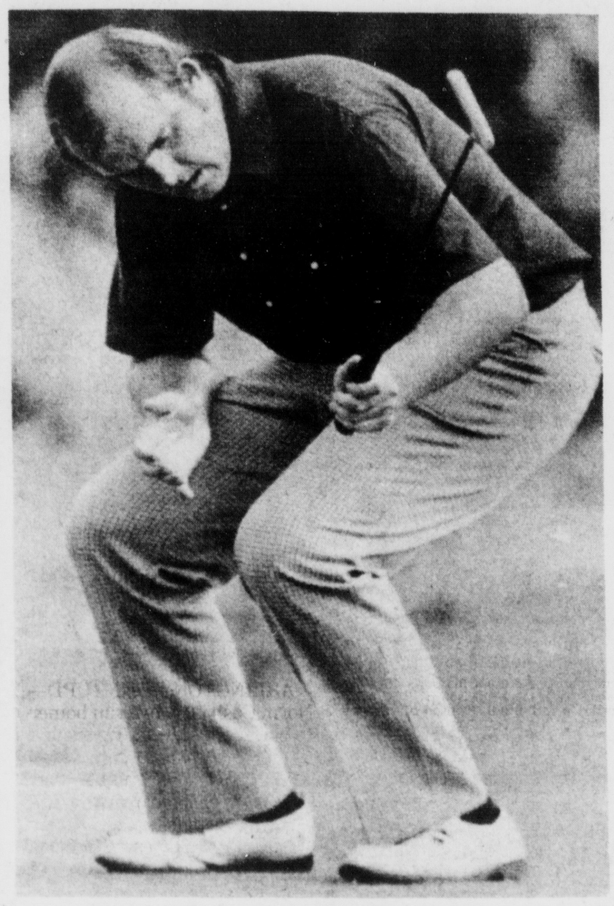

Melnyk, former U.S. and British Amateur Champion, and Yancey shot two under par 68 and Floyd had a 71 for identical 36-hole totals of 137.

Palmer, doing some unaccustomed scrambling, staggered to an even par 70 for a 138 total, where he was deadlocked with John Wiechers, who had a 68 Friday.

"I drove just about as bad as I could," said Palmer, a two-time winner of this tournament who hit into six fairway traps and drove into the rough on three other holes.

Both Melnyk, who has never won a regular event on the PGA tour, and Floyd, winless since 1969, had shots at taking the lead themselves but Floyd, playing early, bogeyed the 17th and 18th holes. And then Melnyk, the last player on the course, bogeyed 15 and 16 to fall back.

Dave Eichelberger, whose 65 was the day's best round, was in a group of seven players at 139 with J.C. Snead, Gibby Gilbert, Kermit Zarley, Tom Ulozzas, Mike Hill and Hale Erwin.

Steve Melnyk, Jacksonville, Fla., grimaces as he misses a birdie putt on the ninth hole during the second round of play at the American Golf Class in Akron, Ohio. Melnyk, Ray Floyd and Bert Yancey are tied at 137 for the halfway lead. (UPI Wirephoto)

Packers Starr quits football

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)— Green Bay Packer quarterback Bart Starr, disappointed because of pain in his ailing throwing arm, said Friday he was retiring as an active player.

"This game has been so wonderful for me," Starr said. "When it stops being fun, it is time to get out."

Starr two weeks ago said he was going to play one more year. But he said Friday a belief the Packers were going to be "an immediate winner" and the constant pain in his right shoulder had caused him to change his mind.

Bart Starr

"I made up my mind last night," Starr said. "I couldn't sleep and it was about the third night in a row I couldn't sleep because of pain. Everytime I threw the ball, it hurt."

Starr said he had no immediate plans except to spend some time with his family and then talk with Coach Dan Devine about the possibility of continuing with the Packers in some capacity, possibly as a coach.

"Everyone realizes how much I think of him," Devine said. "I hope Bart will continue in some capacity with the team."

Devine said second year quarterback Scott Hunter would be Starr's successor. "Scott has developed very well," Devine said. "He has big shoes to fill."

Injuries have hampered him the past seasons and he underwent two major shoulder operations at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn.

End of road for Wilhelm?

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Hoyt Wilhelm, 48, who has pitched in more major league games than any man in the history of the sport, was placed on waivers today. The club had brought Dodgers for the purpose of giving him his unconditional release.

The veteran relief specialist has been offered a job with the Dodgers as a pitching instructor in their minor league system.

"Hoyt told us he would consider the offer," said Director of Player Personnel Al Campanis. "Other major league clubs have until Thursday to claim Wilhelm. After that he can make a deal for himself as a free agent."

The Dodgers were forced to cut a man to make room for infielder Bill Russell, who returns from military service Saturday. The club had brought up Lee Lacy from El Paso when Russell went into service but felt they could not send Lacy back to the minors because he is hitting better than .300.

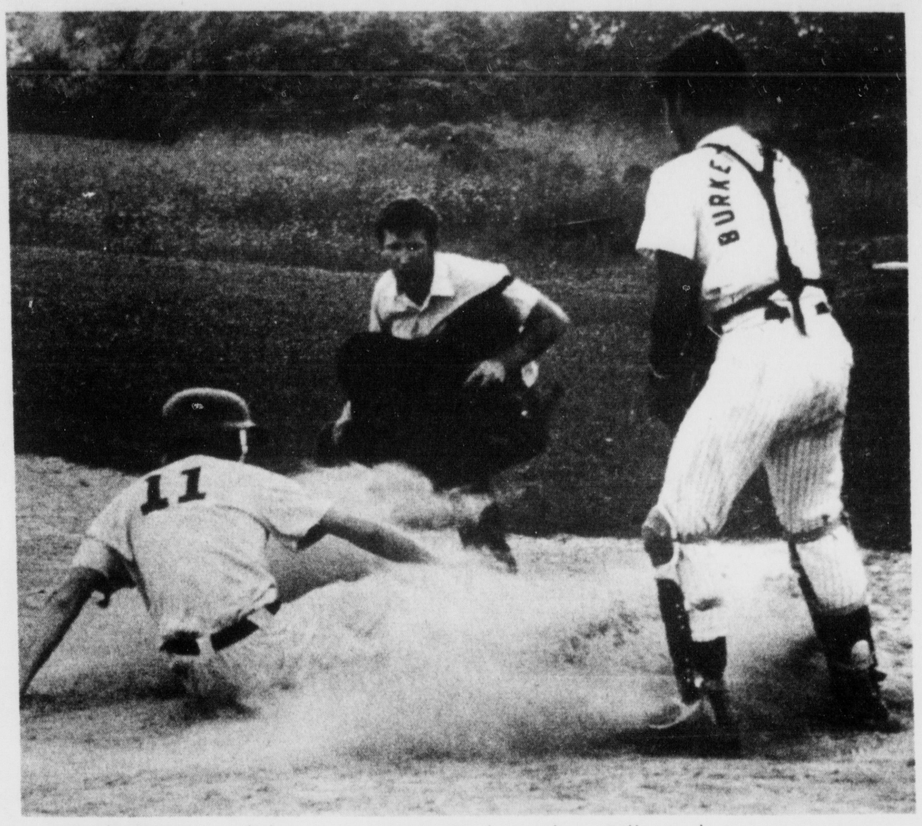

This season Wilhelm has an 0-1 record after having appeared in 16 games. He has an earned run average of 4.68 and one save to his credit.

Wilhelm is ranked as one of the greatest knuckleball pitchers in the history of the game and attributed his longevity in the majors to that pitch.

He broke into professional baseball in 1942 and reached the majors 10 years later with the New York Giants. He also played for the St. Louis Cardinals, Cleveland Indians, Baltimore Orioles, Chicago White Sox, California Angels, Atlanta Braves, Chicago Cubs and the Dodgers.

Wilhelm dropped to the minors last year when he went to Spokane of the Pacific Coast League after being released by Atlanta. In August, however, the Dodgers purchased his contract from Spokane.

In addition to his record number of appearances, Wilhelm also holds the major league mark for career relief victories of 124; most games finished by a pitcher in his career of 651; most relief appearances by a pitcher of 1,018 and most innings of relief hurling, 1,870.

Bethlehem tops WE, 5-2, cops District 20 title

BY JOE MIEGOC
Pocono Record Reporter

BRODHEADSVILLE — Bethlehem Northwest parlayed pictcher Mike Guman's 13 strikeouts and shoddy West End defense into a 5-2 victory Friday at Pleasant Valley High School in the District 20 North Senior League title game.

Bethlehem came from behind in the third inning, scoring three runs to put the game away. Leaks in the West End defense set up Bethlehem's first two runs, which scored when West End left fielder Dean Borger dropped Bethlehem's Mark Keuster's long fly ball for a three base error.

Guman, who had reached first on West End third-baseman Rod Smith's error, scored ahead of John Bittenbender and Bethlehem had matched West End's two unearned second-inning runs. Keuster reached third on the dropped fly ball and scored minutes later on a suicide squeeze bunt by Ed Antonoff.

West End had drawn first blood in the second with the aid of a two out passed ball by Bethlehem catcher Bernie Kaminski. Guy Marfesi walked with one out and Bill Hochrine singled him to second. Dean Borger went down swinging for the second out but Tim Serfass reached first when Kaminski dropped a third strike. Joe Coriola followed with a single to plate the first run and a walk to Rod Smith brought home the second. Losing pitcher Bob Altemose popped up to end the threat.

Guman kept the West End batters swinging in futility throughout the game, registering a strikeout in each inning except the final frame. He struck out the side in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings, getting West End centerfielder three times in the contest.

The tall blond lefty also showed he could handle himself at the plate, collecting two hits, one of which he slapped to left field past an onrushing third-baseman.

Bethlehem added single runs in the fifth and seventh innings, each time taking advantage of lackadaisical West End play. Keuster singled with one out in the fifth and moved to third on two passed balls and scored when Coriola muffed Antenoff's ground ball.

Guman singled to lead off the seventh, moved to second on a wild pitch, to third on a passed ball and scored on a suicide squeeze bunt by Bittenbender to close out the scoring.

The game was played in intermittant rain which, at the beginning of the second inning, fell heavily and briefly threatened to halt play. But the sun came out and play continued.

Big league team set

Stroudsburg area players on the squad are: Jim Hopkins, Gary Smith, Robert Huffman, Robert Beck, Steve Martz, Zoltan Szeredi and Robert Pechatka.

Jenkins replaces Reds' Nolan

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Ferguson Jenkins, a Chicago Cubs righthander, will replace Gary Nolan on the National League All-Star team, league president Charles S. Feeney announced Friday.

Nolan had been named by manager Danny Murtaugh as a pitcher. But Feeney said he was forced to withdraw because of a sore shoulder.

"He has been replaced by a pitcher equally as talented," said Feeney.

Jenkins will be making his third appearance as a member of the National League All-Star squad. He has a 12-win 8-loss record this season.

All-Star umpires announced

NEW YORK(UPI)—A six-man umpiring team was named Friday for the major league All-Star game in Atlanta Tuesday night.

Gibbon cut by Houston

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Houston Astros Friday released relief pitcher Joe Gibbon on waivers to open the roster for catcher Jack Hiatt.

Hiatt suffered a collar bone fracture May 29 in a plate collision in a game against Cincinnati. He was placed on the disabled list and was activated for Friday night's game with the Chicago Cubs.

Gibbon, 37, appeared in nine games since the Astros signed him as a free agent May 25.

Walton on waivers

KERRVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Offensive tackle Sam Walton, a five-year veteran and starter for the Houston Oilers last year, decided he didn't want to play this year and was put on waivers, a team spokesman said Friday.

Walton, 6-5, 270 pounds, was signed by the Oilers as a free agent last year. Before joining the club he played as a starter on the New York Jets 1969 Super Bowl team and went to New Orleans in 1970.

Weaver announces balance of AL team

BOSTON (UPI) —Oakland's Bert Campaneris was named Friday to replace Luis Aparicio of the Boston Red Sox as the starting shortstop in Tuesday's All-Star game in Atlanta.

A spokesman for American League headquarters said Baltimore manager Earl Weaver selected Campaneris because Aparicio broke a finger last month and will be unable to play in the classic.

Weaver also selected 11 players —including the entire Kansas City outfield —to complete the American League squad which will be seeking its second straight win after breaking an eight-year National League grip on the game. Starting players, except for the pitchers, were named earlier in the week following a vote of baseball fans around the league.

Weaver went along with the fans' voting for six of the 11 backup players. The six —first baseman Norm Cash of Detroit, second baseman Cookie Rojas of Kansas City, third baseman Sal Bando of Oakland and outfielders Lou Piniella, Amos Otis and Richie Scheinblum, all of KC —finished second in the balloting for their positions.

Weaver named rookie Carlton Fisk of the Red Sox as his reserve catcher. Fisk finished fifth in the voting as a write-in candidate since his name did not appear on the ballot. Ellie Rodriguez of Milwaukee was selected as the third catcher.

Others named to the team were shortstop Toby Harrah of Texas and outfielders Carlos May of Chicago and Joe Rudi of the A's.

Weaver appointed Bob Lemon of Kansas City and Dick Williams of Oakland as his coaches while Ralph Salvon of Baltimore will serve as trainer. John Hiller of Detroit and Joe Durham of Baltimore were assigned to pitch batting practice.

White Sox drop Regan

Waivers were requested Friday for the unconditional release of Regan. A righthander, his contract was purchased from the Chicago Cubs June 3. He pitched 13 1-3 innings for the Sox with an earned average of 4.05. He had a 0-1 record.

Geddes, 23, started the 1972 season with the Sox but pitched only 3 1-3 innings in three relief appearances. His record at Knoxville this season was 4-0 with an ERA of 2.88.

Tennis results

STROUDSBURG — In first-round play in the Stroudsburg Mixed Doubles Tennis Tournament Friday, Sharon and Herb Hummers beat Mrs. Fine and Jim Frederick, 6-2, 7-5, while Pat and Frank Dracos took the measure of Nancy and Dave Sales, 6-2, 6-4. The Quider-DeVivo vs. Altemose-Cole match will be played during this weekend.

The schedule for Monday follows: J. Smith-S. Smith vs. D. Crawford-R. Porter; V. Waring-F. Dixon vs. P. Maxim-T. Maxim; A. Austell-W. McClelland vs. B. Murphy-D. Van Horn and C. Turcotte-M. Turcotte vs. J. Cassebaum-B. Hay.

Lim's defeats First National

STROUDSBURG — Lim's scored three runs in the seventh inning to defeat First National Bank, 13-10, in an extra-inning Stroudsburg Little League game Friday.

Mets' Staub undergoes surgery

Dr. Richard Eaton, an orthopedic surgeon, assisted by team physician Dr. Peter LaMotte, performed an excision of the hook of the hamate bone at Roosevelt Hospital and reported the operation was successful.

U.S.-Soviet trade treaty possible

American Exchange this week

NEW YORK (UPI) — The United States and the Soviet Union moved this week in the direction of a trade treaty that ultimately could result in billions of dollars worth of business.

Such a treaty also could bring a formal end to an era of open hostility between the two giants that began with the partition of Germany after World war II.

No illusions were raised that the trip of Commerce Secretary Peter Peterson to Moscow to start trade negotiations could lead to an end of all conflicts of interest between the United States and the Communist bloc but it could mean that an era of relatively good feeling at last will lay the ghost of the cold war that has produced two hot wars in Korea and Indochina.

Hard on the announcement a week ago that Russia had agreed to buy $750 million worth of American grains over three years came two other important commercial deals. Occidental Petroleum Corp. negotiated a five-year agreement to make a huge technical survey in Russia of the oil, hotel and other industries with a view to future joint ventures with Soviet companies. One of the first of these will be a large motor hotel at Moscow to be managed by Holiday Inns, Inc., of Memphis.

Bechtel Corp., the San Francisco heavy engineering firm, also is involved in the Occidental program.

The second deal was made by Pullman, Inc., of Chicago, which said it obtained a formal license from the Soviet Trade Ministry to maintain an organization and do business in Russia. Pullman's success grew out of Soviet satisfaction with the work of its Swindell-Dressler Division of Pittsburgh on the huge truck complex being built on the Kama River 350 miles west of Moscow.

Retail trade was disclosed to have been up 4 per cent from the previous week and 9 per cent from a year earlier.

A dispute between the railways and the unions that has alternately raged and smouldered for 35 years finally was settled. It was agreed that the firemen who fed fuel to boiler burners of the old steam locomotives shall be phased out of their jobs in the cabs of the diesels that now have totally replaced the romantic steam "hogs."

Peace hint gives mart big boost

NEW YORK (UPI)—A rumor about peace talks and favorable news on inflation and consumer prices turned the stock market around dramatically late Friday and gave it a substantial gain.

Trading was moderate on the New York Stock Exchange where the Dow Jones average of 30 selected blue-chip industrials gained 10 points to 920.45, after having been down 3 earlier in the day.

Advances overtook delines, 830 to 546, among the 1,745 issues crossing the tape. Turnover totaled 14,010,000 shares, down from the 15,050,000 traded Thursday.

A rumor circulated late in the session about progress at the Paris peace talks, according to a number of analysts. Shortly after the market closed, the White House said President Nixon did not have any plans to discuss the situation on national television.

During this session, the government reported that last month inflation was curbed sharply and the consumer price index rose at the slowest rate in months.

Occidental Petroleum was the most active issue for the fourth consecutive session, off 1⅛ at 15¾ on 688,500 shares. The issue rose earlier in the week on news the company had reached a trade agreement with the Soviet Union and made a second major oil discovery off Nigeria.

But a number of analysts said the rise in price of the issue was unwarranted. They said the company has too many problems to benefit greatly from the latest developments.

Other electronic and computer issues moved higher. Burroughs soared 8⅜. IBM gained 5¾, Motorola 5, Texas Instruments 3⅞, Fairchild Camera 3, and General Electric, Control Data and Memorex all around a point each.

U.S.-Soviet trade treaty possible

NEW YORK (UPI) — The United States and the Soviet Union moved this week in the direction of a trade treaty that ultimately could result in billions of dollars worth of business.

Such a treaty also could bring a formal end to an era of open hostility between the two giants that began with the partition of Germany after World war II.

No illusions were raised that the trip of Commerce Secretary Peter Peterson to Moscow to start trade negotiations could lead to an end of all conflicts of interest between the United States and the Communist bloc but it could mean that an era of relatively good feeling at last will lay the ghost of the cold war that has produced two hot wars in Korea and Indochina.

Hard on the announcement a week ago that Russia had agreed to buy $750 million worth of American grains over three years came two other important commercial deals. Occidental Petroleum Corp. negotiated a five-year agreement to make a huge technical survey in Russia of the oil, hotel and other industries with a view to future joint ventures with Soviet companies. One of the first of these will be a large motor hotel at Moscow to be managed by Holiday Inns, Inc., of Memphis.

Bechtel Corp., the San Francisco heavy engineering firm, also is involved in the Occidental program.

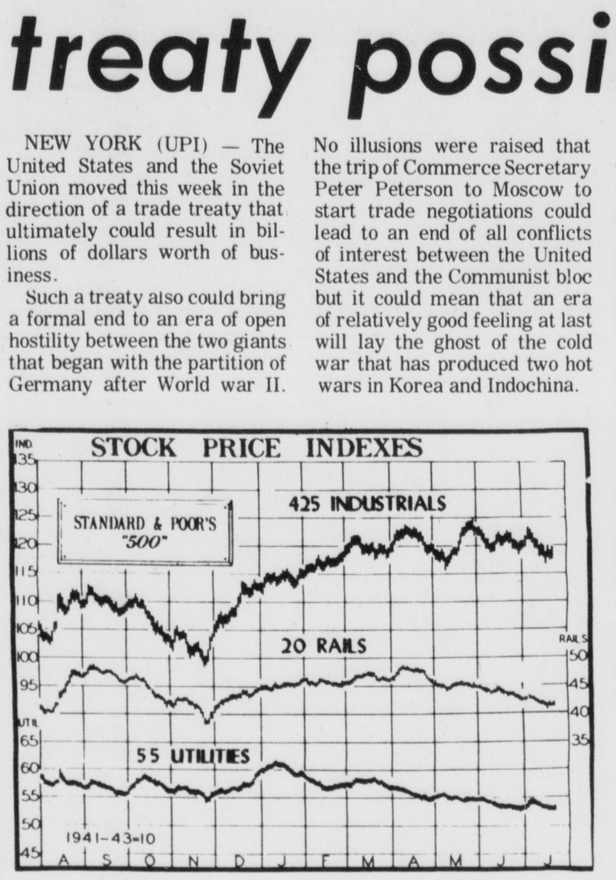

Formal license obtained

The second deal was made by Pullman, Inc., of Chicago, which said it obtained a formal license from the Soviet Trade Ministry to maintain an organization and do business in Russia. Pullman's success grew out of Soviet satisfaction with the work of its Swindell-Dressler Division of Pittsburgh on the huge truck complex being built on the Kama River 350 miles west of Moscow.

The stock market drifted lower but a brisk demand developed for shares of Occidental Petroleum in the wake of the announcement from Moscow.

Retail trade was disclosed to have been up 4 per cent from a week ago and down two weeks and 9 per cent from a year earlier.

A dispute between the railways and the unions that has alternately raged and smouldered for 35 years finally was settled. It was agreed that the firemen who fed fuel to boiler burners of the old steam locomotives shall be phased out of their jobs in the cabs of the diesels that now have totally replaced the romantic steam "hogs."

Peace hint gives mart big boost

NEW YORK (UPI)—A rumor about peace talks and favorable news on inflation and consumer prices turned the stock market around dramatically late Friday and gave it a substantial gain.

Trading was moderate on the New York Stock Exchange where the Dow Jones average of 30 selected blue-chip industrials gained 10 points to 920.45, after having been down 3 earlier in the day.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index climbed 0.85 to 106.66. It was in the minus area earlier. The average price of an NYSE common share increased by 30 cents.

Advances overtook delines, 830 to 546, among the 1,745 issues crossing the tape. Turnover totaled 14,010,000 shares, down from the 15,050,000 traded Thursday.

A rumor circulated late in the session about progress at the Paris peace talks, according to a number of analysts. Shortly after the market closed, the White House said President Nixon did not have any plans to discuss the situation on national television.

This rumor again demonstrated the sensitivity of the market to speculation about peace in Vietnam. Wall Street has paid little heed to other good economic news recently.

During this session, the government reported that last month inflation was curbed sharply and the consumer price index rose at the slowest rate in months.

Occidental Petroleum was the most active issue for the fourth consecutive session, off 1⅛ at 15¾ on 688,500 shares. The issue rose earlier in the week on news the company had reached a trade agreement with the Soviet Union and made a second major oil discovery off Nigeria.

But a number of analysts said the rise in price of the issue was unwarranted. They said the company has too many problems to benefit greatly from the latest developments.

Westinghouse was second, unchanged at 45 on 267,900 shares. Sperry Rand was third, up 4⅛ on 139,900 shares.

Other electronic and computer issues moved higher. Burroughs soared 8⅝. IBM gained 5¾, Motorola 5, Texas Instruments 3⅞, Fairchild Camera 3, and General Electric, Control Data and Memorex all around a point each.

Yanks like Britain

LONDON (UPI) — More Americans than any other nationality visited Britain in 1971.

Government statistics showed 1.7 million American visitors, more than double the 824,000 from France. West German tourists were third most numerous, at 655,000. The British Tourist Authority said a total of more than 4 million tourists came here last year, up 11 per cent over 1970.

Yanks like Britain

LONDON (UPI) — More Americans than any other nationality visited Britain in 1971.

Government statistics showed 1.7 million American visitors, more than double the 824,000 from France. West German tourists were third most numerous, at 655,000. The British Tourist Authority said a total of more than 4 million tourists came here last year, up 11 per cent over 1970.

Your tax problems

"Your Tax Problems" is published as a public service and is prepared by the Philadelphia District Office of the Internal Revenue Service. Send queries to the District Director, Internal Revenue Service, 401 N. Broad Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, 19108. For personal replies give name and address.

Q. My mother-in-law receives Social Security benefit payments. Will this have any effect on whether I can claim her as a dependent next year?

A. Yes. Although the Social Security benefits are not taxable to her, they must be included in determining the amount of support she furnished herself if the benefits were spent on support items, such as food, lodging, clothing, medical care, etc. She must meet the other dependency tests and you must have furnished over half of her total support. Thus, if the Social Security benefits were the only support furnished by your mother-in-law or anyone else, you must have spent more than that amount on her support in order to claim her as a dependent.

Q. I'm planning to sell my house next fall. Does the IRS have any publications on the tax effects of selling my home?

A. Yes. Write your Internal Revenue district office and ask for a free copy of IRS Publication 523, "Tax Information on Selling Your Home." This booklet will tell you how to report the gain or loss on the sale of your residence and under what conditions you may be able to postpone the tax on any profit from the sale.

Q. I know that I am entitled to a deduction of up to $4000 a month for the expenses of child care services performed in my household while I am out working. But would I still get a deduction if I paid a neighbor to take care of my children in her own home?

A. Yes. Expenses incurred outside the taxpayer's household for the care of dependents who are under 15 are deductible to the extent the expenses in any one month do not exceed: $200 in case of one such individual; $300 in the case of two; and $400 in the case of three or more. Of course, the expenses are deductible only if they enable the taxpayer to be gainfully employed.

For more information on the deduction for household and dependent care expenses, see IRS Publication 553, "Highlights of 1971 Changes in the Tax Law." It's available free by dropping a postcard to your Internal Revenue district office.

Q. I'm required by a divorce decree to pay life insurance premiums on a policy which names my wife as sole beneficiary. Can I deduct these payments on my income tax return?

A. If under a decree or agreement, you pay premiums on a life insurance policy absolutely assigned to your wife who is the irrevocable beneficiary, the premiums are taxable to her and deductible by you as alimony, even though under the agreement or decree your obligation to pay the premiums will cease in the event of her death or remarriage.

However, if you paid premiums on a policy not assigned to your wife, and on which she is no more than a contingent beneficiary, you cannot deduct the payments and they are not taxable to your wife.

Q. I found a copy of an old tax return of mine and noticed a deduction I neglected to take. Is it too late to correct the mistake?

A. You can correct an error by filing an amended return, Form 1040X. It must be filed within three years from the date your original return was filed, or within two years from the time the tax was paid, whichever is later. If you filed your original return before the due date, the three-year rule applies from the due date for that year.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 7-22

CANCER

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) Admonitions for this day: Be on your guard if you handle joint funds of any kind. Don't get involved in risky speculation, and do avoid extravagance for nonessentials.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) Another good day in which to seek information or knowledge you need. Study or creative writing of some kind will pay off in a sense of increased accomplishment.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) A somewhat mild day, yet you may be able to do more than you anticipate or realize is possible. Much depends upon what you take for granted and what you initiate.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) Don't work at anything without knowing proper procedure. Find out what associates think. Some excellent progress indicated through alert, comprehensive planning.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) The truly ambitious can well be proud of the new achievements possible now. But do avoid having too many irons in the fire at one time, and avoid extremes, too.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) False impressions, violent altercations may crop up in your vicinity. Be ready, eager to quell them. There's more than one way to get around an undesirable setup: Work at it!

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) This day calls for fair play, patience and understanding. You can give all this — and profit by it. In difficult matters, take sound precautions.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) Even if results you seek from past efforts seem slow in coming, do not worry. You are making a favorable impression. Curb extremes; be at ease.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) Avoid extravagance now. Friction about financial matters is possible with a partner — marital or business. Above all, don't gamble or take any risks.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) Be wary about signing papers or letters unless you've thought things out very carefully. Like Sagittarius, you may have some disagreements about money. However, romance is generously governed, and new attractions are likely.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) A mixed day, bringing some favorable and some adverse influences. Job associates are in tune with your efforts right now, but you can expect some ups and downs in a romantic situation.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) You can have a productive, enjoyable day if doing your best. But don't undertake a schedule so exacting that it leaves no time for creative ideas or relaxation.

YOU BORN TODAY are a highly sensitive and idealistic individual, often at a complete loss in a crassly materialistic world; should, therefore, avoid a business career unless you can develop a harder shell and live your dreams through an avocation such as writing, music, poetry or painting. Your love of family and friends is outstanding, as is your respect for heritage and tradition. You make intuitive, understanding companions, nurses, doctors, homemakers and teachers. In the proper niche, yours can be an extremely happy life, and your achievements of the enduring type. Birthdate of: A. Ashley Cooper, Eng. statesman.

Your tax problems

"Your Tax Problems" is published as a public service and is prepared by the Philadelphia District Office of the Internal Revenue Service. Send queries to the District Director, Internal Revenue Service, 401 N. Broad Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, 19108. For personal replies give name and address.

Q. My mother-in-law receives Social Security benefit payments. Will this have any effect on whether I can claim her as a dependent next year?

A. Yes. Although the Social Security benefits are not taxable to her, they must be included in determining the amount of support she furnished herself if the benefits were spent on support items, such as food, lodging, clothing, medical care, etc. She must meet the other dependency tests and you must have furnished over half of her total support. Thus, if the Social Security benefits were the only support furnished by your mother-in-law or anyone else, you must have spent more than that amount on her support in order to claim her as a dependent.

Q. I'm planning to sell my house next fall. Does the IRS have any publications on the tax effects of selling my home?

A. Yes. Write your Internal Revenue district office and asu for a free copy of IRS Publication 523, "Tax Information on Selling Your Home." This booklet will tell you how to report the gain or loss on the sale of your residence ane under what conditions you may be able to postpone the tax on any profit from the sale.

Q. I know that I am entitled to a deduction of up to $4000 a month for the expenses of child care services performed in my household while I am out working. But would I still get a deduction if I paid a neighbor to take care of my children in her own home?

A. Yes. Expenses incurred outside the taxpayer's household for the care of dependents who are under 15 are deductible to the extent the expenses in any one month do not exceed: $200 in case of one such individual; $300 in the case of two; and $400 in the case of three or more. Of course, the expenses are deductible only if they enable the taxpayer to be gainfully employed.

For more information on the deduction for household and dependent care expenses, see IRS Publication 553, "Highlights of 1971 Changes in the Tax Law." It's available free by dropping a postcard to your Internal Revenue district office.

Q. I'm required by a divorce decree to pay life insurance premiums on a policy which names my wife as sole beneficiary. Can I deduct these payments on my income tax return?

A. If under a decree or agreement, you pay premiums on a life insurance policy absolutely assigned to your wife who is the irrevocable beneficiary, the premiums are taxable to her and deductible by you as alimony, even though under the agreement or decree your obligation to pay the premiums will cease in the event of her death or remarriage.

However, if you paid premiums on a policy not assigned to your wife, and on which she is no more than a contingent beneficiary, you cannot deduct the payments and they are not taxable to your wife.

Q. I found a copy of an old tax return of mine and noticed a deduction I neglected to take. Is it too late to correct the mistake?

A. You can correct an error by filing an amended return, Form 1040X. It must be filed within three years from the date your original return was filed, or within two years from the time the tax was paid, whichever is later. If you filed your original return before the due date, the three-year rule applies from the due date for that year.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 7-22

CANCER

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) Admonitions for this day: Be on your guard if you handle joint funds of any kind. Don't get involved in risky speculation, and do avoid extravagance for nonessentials.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) Another good day in which to seek information or knowledge you need. Study or creative writing of some kind will pay off in a sense of increased accomplishment.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) A somewhat mild day, yet you may be able to do more than you anticipate or realize is possible. Much depends upon what you take for granted and what you initiate.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) Don't work at anything without knowing proper procedure. Find out what associates think. Some excellent progress indicated through alert, comprehensive planning.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) The truly ambitious can well be proud of the new achievements possible now. But do avoid having too many irons in the fire at one time, and avoid extremes, too.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) False impressions, violent altercations may crop up in your vicinity. Be ready, eager to quell them. There's more than one way to get around an undesirable setup: Work at it!

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) This day calls for fair play, patience and understanding. You can give all this — and profit by it. In difficult matters, take sound precautions.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) Even if results you seek from past efforts seem slow in coming, do not worry. You are making a favorable impression. Curb extremes; be at ease.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) Avoid extravagance now. Friction about financial matters is possible with a partner — marital or business. Above all, don't gamble or take any risks.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) Be wary about signing papers or letters unless you've thought things out very carefully. Like Sagittarius, you may have some disagreements about money. However, romance is generously governed, and new attractions are likely.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) A mixed day, bringing some favorable and some adverse influences. Job associates are in tune with your efforts right now, but you can expect some ups and downs in a romantic situation.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) You can have a productive, enjoyable day if doing your best. But don't undertake a schedule so exacting that it leaves no time for creative ideas or relaxation.

YOU BORN TODAY are a highly sensitive and idealistic individual, often at a complete loss in a crassly materialistic world; should, therefore, avoid a business career unless you can develop a harder shell and live your dreams through an avocation such as writing, music, poetry or painting. Your love of family and friends is outstanding, as is your respect for heritage and tradition. You make intuitive, understanding companions, nurses, doctors, homemakers and teachers. In the proper niche, yours can be an extremely happy life, and your achievements of the enduring type. Birthdate of: A. Ashley Cooper, Eng. statesman.

WE WILL NOT TIE YOU UP — NO SALE — NO PAY!

WE INVITE INQUIRES

Our office has been selected to negotiate the sale of two of the finest homes in the Stroudsburg area. One home, built within the past six years, has a beautiful situation affording a commanding, panoramic view. The lot about three-fourths acre is professionally landscapped with trees and shrubbery of choice quality.

The second older home is most interesting, and has imense character. It is suitable for a large family and offers the opportunity for gracious living and entertaining.

We welcome calls from interested buyers who may desire to make an appointment to discuss these offerings.

GLEN VIEW ESTATES
BUILDING SITES

A planned residential community combining the benefits of city living with country atmosphere. All lots have city water available and many have already been planted with nursery shrubbery. All home sites are priced individually based on size and location. Sizes range from 1/3 to ¾ acre. Lots are located off Dreher Ave., Stroudsburg. No poles to mar the beauty as utilities are all underground and streets are contoured to the terrain.

WE WILL NOT TIE YOU UP — NO SALE — NO PAY!

WE INVITE INQUIRES

Our office has been selected to negotiate the sale of two of the finest homes in the Stroudsburg area. One home, built within the past six years, has a beautiful situation affording a commanding, panoramic view. The lot about three-fourths acre is professionally landscapped with trees and shrubbery of choice quality.

The second older home is most interesting, and has imense character. It is suitable for a large family and offers the opportunity for gracious living and entertaining.

We welcome calls from interested buyers who may desire to make an appointment to discuss these offerings.

GLEN VIEW ESTATES
BUILDING SITES

A planned residential community combining the benefits of city living with country atmosphere. All lots have city water available and many have already been planted with nursery shrubbery. All home sites are priced individually based on size and location. Sizes range from 1/3 to ¾ acre. Lots are located off Dreher Ave., Stroudsburg. No poles to mar the beauty as utilities are all underground and streets are contoured to the terrain.

THE I. R. S. IS YOUR FRIEND.

I.R.S. Independent Rear Suspension. An expensive item not found on many other cars like Datsun. We offer overhead cam engine and safety front disc brakes, too. Standard. Datsun 510. It has expensive features but it doesn't cost a lot.

Special Offer: Test drive a Datsun before Oct. 15, and we'll pay to have a tree planted for you by the U.S. Forest Service in a national forest. And give you a free Ansel Adams poster, too. Drive a Datsun. Plant a tree. Nice for both of us!

Cartoons die out with magazines that printed them

By FREDERICK C. KLEIN
Dow Jones-Ottaway News

NEW YORK — Lee Lorenz, the cartoonist, is at his desk in his cramped office at the New Yorker Magazine.

A window air-conditioner buzzes noisily about six inches from his right ear, but he is used to it — and it's warm out. He is thinking about a half-finished drawing on his lap, which shows a benevolent-looking grandmother being confronted by her dog, cat and canary. The dog is about to say something, but Lorenz isn't sure what.

"You see, the animals are leaving home, and they are going to denounce Granny for exploiting them under the guise of affection," he says. "I've got to get the dog to express this without getting unwieldly about it. It's a funny idea, don't you think? Actually, the way things are going now, you half-way expect pets to start telling off their owners."

The casual, 39-year-old Lorenz chucks off ideas like that at the rate of about a dozen a week, and editors laugh at enough of them to make him one of the nation's most prolific — and best liked magazine cartoonists.

His distinctive talking animals, grumpy businessmen, anxious parents and other characters are an almost-weekly feature in The New Yorker, and his work also appears in Playboy and other magazines. For such labors, plus related book and advertising work, he pulls down upwards of $40,000 a year.

But magazine cartooning is a precarious field these days, and Lee Lorenz's prosperity is the exception rather than the rule. The number of those who can make a living at the once-flourishing art form is down to around 100 from more than double that 10 years ago, and it's dwindling. Those in the profession say that they feel like those raft-clinging shipwreck survivors they are so fond of drawing.

Magazine cartooning never was especially secure. Its practitioners are free-lancers who have to sell their drawings one at a time, unlike their brethren who draw syndicated comic strips or do daily editorial-page cartoons for newspapers.

Few magazine cartoonists have grown wealthy through their art, perhaps the sole current specimens being Ted Key, creator of Hazel, the bossy maid from the old Saturday Evening Post, and New Yorker regular Charles Addams, master of the macabre. Both cashed in because their cartoons formed the bases of television series.

"I made more money from Hazel's five years on the tube than I did drawing her for the Post for 25 years," says Key, who lives in Wayne, Pa., and now does six Hazel panels a week for a newspaper syndicate.

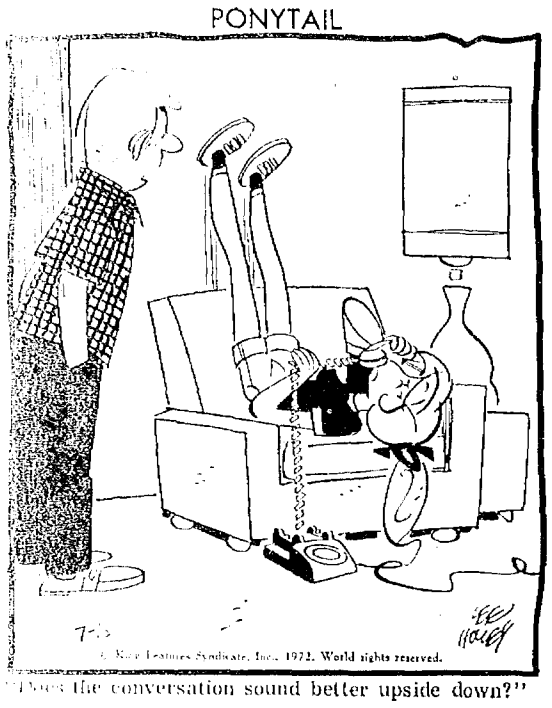

That's a lot more drawings than he turned out in his magazine days, but in many ways it's easier, continues Key, whose non-Hazel cartoons used to appear in many periodicals. "Before I had to sell my work all the time. That took more out of me than the drawing."

The main trouble with magazine cartooning today, though, is that there are fewer and fewer magazines to sell to. The Saturday Evening Post, Look and Collier's, which used to run many cartoons and pay well for them, have bitten the dust, and other former prime outlets, such as Esquire, now use few cartoons.

A cartoonist typically does most of his work for a single, well-paying magazine and sells his leftovers elsewhere. The demise of the Post and Look was particularly damaging because they were the main support of many in the field.

Other trends also seem to be working against the cartoonist. Jack Flagler, a former humor editor at Look and McCalls's, believes that the "new breed" of magazine art director looks with disdain on cartoons "because they think they spoil the so-called 'look' of a magazine. It's a triumph of form over substance."

Charles Addams, a genial individual of 59 who occupies a choice corner office at the New Yorker, thinks that people don't want to laugh as much as they used to. "Being funny seems to be out of style," he says. "You don't see as many humorous books or films as you used to, or as many people who relish a good joke. People aren't easily shocked any more . . . you really have to go out of bounds to make them laugh. I don't know what's behind it, but something sure happened."

"Does the conversation sound better upside down?"

PARIS (UPI)—Trouser suits are in trouble.

Trouser suits with skirts are likely to elbow faithful pants suits into second place in the Paris winter high fashion shows opening Monday, salon sources said this week.

Designers shows to private customers, store buyers and press from around the world also will star a new coat style: the three-quarter length "great coat," bulky as a teddy bear and with wide, ranglan sleeves taken from a Japanese kimono.

The advance hints from the fashion salons add up to well-covered clothes for girls like their mothers used to wear—that is, until the clothes revolution of pants and far-out tops shook the world.

"Absolutely no folklore or costume clothes and fewer trousers," sources at the House of Christian Dior insisted. Dior will stress suits with shorter jackets. Other suits will sport longer, cardigan jackets—the so-called college-girl look that famed designer Yves Saint-Laurent launched last season.

While Classic suits outdazzle pants outfits, the dress will take over from the opulat "covered look" of vests and double sweaters, salon officials said.

The big daytime dress will be the tailored shirtwaist a hit last year. Other Dior daytime dresses will follow the "princess" line, snug over the bust and flaring out from the waist.

One outfit that sounds fun in this quiet season will be the maxi dress for what fashion writers call "little evenings"—ankle-length tailored shirtwaist dresses in tailored fabrics for excursions to restaurants, the theater, friends, homes and all that. The House of Lanvin plans to show long shirtwaist dresses in glittering lame for bigger evenings.

"We will have very few cocktail dresses," added a Dior source. "Who goes to cocktail parties at 6 any more? Women work, they go out at 8, and in long dresses."

Dior sources also promised double-faced reversible wools high-heeled shoes, gray flannel, fur collars and little felt hats. Colors will be brighter than usual. The daytime hemline will hover around the knee, above at some houses but definitely well below the knee at Givenchy and Saint-Laurent.

The fashions kings approached the winter high fashion parades with more confidence than last year and apparently less panic the ready-to-wear boom in France might wipe out the art of hand-made expensive clothes.

The CVN, or union of high fashion designers, announced that members' exports jumped 25 per cent between 1969 and 1971. Officials said this proved Paris high fashions, not mass-produced ready-to-wear, still determines what women wear around the world.

The Chamber recently elected as President Alix Gres, one of the most classic creators of Paris, to emphasize its support of the timeless styles of high fashion.

Womens Wear Daily, the American fashion newspaper, said Givenchy's high fashion sales jumped 21 per cent last season and Saint-Laurents's 50 per cent. Wealthy women have given up their faded blue jeans and decided to return to the "couture look," according to

Lakes to be dedicated

MARSHALLS CREEK — Gen. Richard S. Schweiker will dedicate two lakes at ceremonies 11 a.m. Saturday at Resica Falls Scout reservation, Marshalls Creek.

Gen. Schweiker will deliver a tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Roger S. Firestone at the dedication, naming the two lakes Lake Roger and Lake Ann. Firestone was the head of Firestone Corp. until his death in 1970. He was on the executive board of the Valley Forge Council of Boy Scouts of America and worked to help expand the camp at Resica Falls.

C. Keith Funk, president of the Valley Forge Council, will preside at the ceremonies. Robert Brinker, council chairman, will give a history of Resica Falls before the dedication.

FHA cancels July 26 visit

STROUDSBURG — The July 26 scheduled office day for the Farmers Home Administration representative in the Civil Defense room at the Monroe County Court House in Stroudsburg has been canceled.

The representative from the Allentown office has been assigned to assist in the flood disaster area. The next scheduled office day will be from 1 to 3:30 p.m. August 9.

Oh those sadistic candle-makers!

By BRUCE POSTEN

SWIFTWATER — Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bullock of Swiftwater torture candles for an occupation and not just as a hobby.

If this sounds somewhat cruel and sadistic, it should also be added they burn, melt, mold, iron and flatten their products in the great tradition of colonial candlemakers.

The Bullocks are the owners of "Ye Olde Kandle Shoppe" of Jymbolynn Lodge in Swiftwater and the terms referred to above are an integral part of their trade.

"Our shop is a 'family shop' with members of the family doing most of the work," Bob Bullock said. He explains he does not hire employes to make candles, but instead "my wife, two children, and I are the real candle-makers."

A red barn, over 100 years old and uniquely decorated with antiques, houses "Ye Olde Kandle Shoppe" and displays a variety of candles along with ceramic and stained glass candle-holders.

Bullock described the process of making a candle, which he said takes approximately four hours, by presenting three candles of different textures.

A smooth red candle was made by placing molten wax in a tank of 65-degree water for a period of four hours, while a green-frosted candle was the result of a five to 10-minute water bath.

Finally, Bullock presented what he called a cottage cheese or snowflake bayberry candle that was cooled slowly after a long period of time.

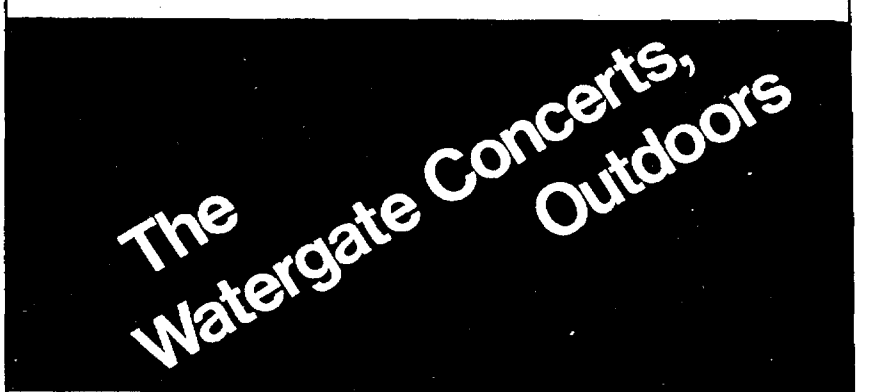

One of the specialities of the "Kandle Shoppe" is chipped candles of assorted colors made from wax squares and molded with liquid paraffin. The paraffin keeps the wax squares from running or

Puppetry reaches zenith at Oppenheim's

By BILL ZELLERS
Pocono Record Reporter

SNYDERSVILLE — Puppetry, which can be traced back as far as Greece in 300 B.C., has reached its culmination in the animated figures of Oppenheim's Magic Puppet World.

Ralph and Shirley Oppenheim have devoted 15 years of their lives to developing this form of entertainment and they have been running their automated show in the poconos for eight years now.

Oppenheim is not sure just what to call the shows he puts on since some of the figures are moved by strings like marionettes, but the fingers pulling the strings are automated and are moved by cams on a drumb.

He takes a couple of months to set up just one of these shows, Oppenheim says. First he has to think up a story for the little figures to act out. After this he must program the figures for each of their moves, each movement of the figures requiring weeks of work.

The intricate moves of each of the puppets has to be gone over time and time again to get them right, he says.

One of his creations, a ballet with seven ballerinas, took a year to create. It took him three months just to get one ballerina to move down a set of stairs.

The staging is also important in these shows. Oppenheim likes the small three-inch puppets better, because they can be moved more easily and can act out a more detailed story on the small stage and are more impressionistic.

The larger puppets such as a four-foot Gulliver and a shoemaker and elves are controlled by wires from underneath. This allows for more fluid movement, he says.

"If the squares do run, a marbelized effect occurs which is quite unique. Occassionally, we experiment by making this type of candle," he said.

Bullock explained after the candle is removed from the mold it is "tortured" to achieve brillance and smoothness.

"Torturing a candle is nothing more than melting the outside of the candle to remove the flaws," he said.

The final step in the candle-making process is to flatten the bottom with an iron and apply a label.

The store has several different molds, both metal and plaster of paris, including a grecian urn, owls, the American eagle, a honey bear and an Amish couple.

Interestingly enough, Bullock points out most of the equipment used in making candles can be found around the house. Scattered around his small shop, one immediately detects the familiar coffee pot, iron, gas heater, oven, paring knife and cooking and baking tins.

Bullock said he has owned the "Kandle Shoppe" for the past three years and his business has prospered greatly. His store is the exclusive outlet for Village Ceramics, noted for their beautiful glaze, and colorful stained glass candle-holders.

"Ye Olde Kandle Shoppe" is located between Route 611 and Route 191, 2½ miles east of Swiftwater.

In front of the barn which holds the automated puppetry is the Jewelry Fair and the Luck Lore Center. The Jewelry Fair contains ceramics and wood earrings, pins, rings and Bobos for string ties made especially for children.

The Luck Lore center is a new feature at the puppet world. Here are replicas of all sorts of amulets and good luck charms based on ancient beliefs.

There are signs of the zodiac, African fetish charms, South American and Middle Eastern amulets, a tranquility amulet and a Teraphim with divining stones which is supposed to help people make important decisions.

"I don't guarantee that they will work," Oppenheim says, "but the psychological effect of believing in one might leave you with a better feeling." Magic Puppet World is on business Route 209 between Snydersville and Sciota. It is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily from May 30 until Labor Day.

Old Mine Road offers scenery, attractions

DELAWARE WATER GAP — Winding along the east bank of the Delaware River, the Old Mine Road, reputedly one of the oldest roads in the East, still provides a scenic ride and some interesting attractions for the visitor.

The road was built in the last half of the 17th century by Dutch settlers. They built it from Kingston on the Hudson River in New York to a copper mine they had opened on the Delaware.

Early Dutch settlers moved into the Minisink country in the Delaware River Valley on this road. The mine was closed after the English conquered the Dutch in 1664.

The road was still used by settlers, though, and in 1725 Nicholas Depui came over it and built a home at Minisink flats at Shawnee-on-Delaware. This was the first settlement made by a white man on the Pennsylvania side of the river north of the Water Gap.

The present day counterpart of the old mine road is N.J. Route 521 which parallels the river. It is still called Old Mine Road, though, north of the old mines and River Road south of them.

About four miles from the Delaware Water Gap on this road is Worthington State Forest. The forest consists of 5,747 acres along Kittatinny Mountain adjacent to the Delaware River. The stretch extends six miles along the crest of the mountains which rise from 300 feet above sea level at the river's edge to 1,480 feet at the top of the ridge.

Within the state forest is the Dunfield Creek Nature Area. It covers a clear, rocky creek which falls 1,000 feet from Mt. Tammany to the Delaware River. The creek is lined with hemlock, maple and birch and supports native brook trout. The Appalachian trail parallels the creek before heading toward Mount Tammany or Sunfish Pond.

Swimming and camping were once allowed at the pond, but now they are prohibited because too many people were making use of the pond, which has no sewage facilities, according to Jerry Geraldutter, a part-time ranger at the state forest. "Some of the people stayed up there all summer and were hard to control," he added.

The state forest has 85 campsites along two miles of river frontage. Each site has a table, fireplace and space for a tent. There is no water, electric or sewer connections for trailers, though, and they are not planned for since the whole forest may be taken over by the federal government for the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area, Geraldutter said.

Fishing is allowed in the Dunfield Creek and in the Delaware and hunting is permitted on the mountain which harbors deer and grouse. There is a ramp in the picnic area for boating and miles of old woods trails on the mountains for hiking.

The picnic area is one mile north of the camping area. Fireplaces are not provided and picnic fires must be confined to stoves brought by the picnicker.

Programs are presented each Friday and Saturday at 8:45 p.m. at the state forest by the National Park Service.

North of the state park is the Watergate Environmental Study Area. Environmental awareness programs are held here for the public. Special tours and programs can be arranged for groups interested in history, natural sciences or environmental education.

Presently a group of high school students are engaged in summer field studies. Similar programs are held at Thunder Mountain farther along the road.

Millbrook once bustled beside Mine Road

for a series of concerts given at 7 p.m. each Saturday until August 12. Tickets for the concerts may be obtained free at the Kittatiny Point information station.

The park service hopes to make the village into a miniature Williamsburg, according to Yolton, working at the village.

The village had been dealt a serious blow by an arsonist who burned down the church and the country store earlier this year. Yolton is trying to salvage some of the metal items from the remains of the foundation of the store. Other antiques were destroyed with the building.

The Park Service could restore the old church in detail since the American Building Survey made drawings of it, Yolton says, but it will probably move another in from Dingman's ferry.

It would also like to bring in a mill and an blacksmith shop, Yolton said, but the budget is slim. "There is money for acquiring property, but not any for restoring it," he said.

The village presently consists of a one-room school, a graveyard with stones dating back to the 1700's, a wash house, a few old farm houses, hotel and 1,500 acres of land.

The hotel only consists of four rooms, but at that time a hotel was just a place to stop, water your horses and get a meal, Yolton said.

The community was started in the 1660's by Dutch explorers searching for mineral deposits. Some stayed and cultivated the fertile flatland along the Delaware. The earliest permanent resident was Abram Van Campen who settled in 1732.

The village reached its peak prosperity in the 1860's when most of the buildings seen today were erected. By the 1940's, though, it was deserted. It originally had a blacksmith's shop, a wheelwright's shop, a carpet weaver's place, a cider mill and a gristmill.

An information facility at the hotel is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on weekends and holidays. Millbrook days, featuring people dressed in period costumes performing chores of 100 years ago, are scheduled for Oct. 7 and 8.

Further information about any of these attractions can be supplied by the Kittatinny Point Information Station which is open from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. weekdays and from 9:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays during the summer. It is located just across the Delaware Water Gap bridge off Rt. 80.

The Collector's Corner

Yes, it is the same Paul Revere!

BEATRICE G. ROSENBLUM

This gravy boat was made by the famous American patriot and silversmith, Paul Revere. It fetched a record price at auction when sold at Parke-Bernet Galleries, New York City, bringing $53,000.
(Photograph courtesy of Sotheby, Parke-Bernet Galleries, N.Y.C.)

The Collector's Corner column receives a number of questions about antiques and collector's itmes. Many of these will be answered in the column providing they are of general interest and do not relate specifically to values. For appraisal and authentication we suggest that you get in touch with some of the established antique dealers in your area. Questions may be sent to the Collector's Corner, The Pocono Record, 511 Lenox St., Stroudsburg, 18360.

Q. I saw an item recently referring to silver made by Paul Revere. Does he have any connection with the Paul Revere of Revolutionary War fame?

A. Indeed—he WAS that famous rider — and one of the most important American silversmiths, as well. Revere (1735-1818) was the son of a silversmith (a French Huguenot named Apollos Rivoire who anglicized his name to Paul Revere. He was versatile craftsman, an ardent patriot and a very important man in public affairs in Boston. His silver, on display in many museums, fetches fabulous prices when sold at auction. The gravy-boat illustrated, for example, brought $53,000.

Q. We have an enormous kitchen in an old house which we want to decorate with appropriate antiques. What do

'Kiss Me Kate' opens at Camelback theater

Harrison Somers . . . kissing Kate

TANNERSVILLE — In "Kiss Me Kate", which opens Monday for a two-week run at the Camelback Summer Playhouse, Tannersville, there is a four-part harmony of talent which should make this Pocono production as successful as the Broadway original.

"Kiss Me Kate" is virtually a play within a play. It combines the Bard of Avon's "Taming of the Shrew" with a witty contemporary script by the Spewacks, the musical genius of the late great Cole Porter, and the skills of a top resident professional cast, which has already made Pocono history in its first two productions of the season.

From "Kiss Me Kate's" opening date on Broadway, when it was called "Merry, melodious and sophisticated" by Walter Kerr of the Tribune, through countless revivals and a successful Hollywood film to its present Camelback production, it has never failed to delight audiences with its combination of the wit of a literary master of the past with the genius of a modern day master of Musical Comedy — Cole Porter.

"Wunderbar", "So In Love", "Another Opening", "Always True to You Darling" and so many more Cole Porter hits make "Kiss Me Kate" the merriest, tunefullest way so far to "Brush Up Your Shakespeare".

Sharon Stuart assumes the role of Kate, a part she played successfully in New York last year. Other leading appearances for Miss Stuart have included leads in "Oklahoma", "West Side Story", and in the Howard Keel company of "Carousel."

Harrison Somers as Fred and Petruchio will be following the talented footsteps of his predecessor on Broadway, Alfred Drake. Somers recently returned from a tour with the Jacques Brel Revue, just one of his many national appearances which have included starring roles with Edie Adams, in "Damn Yankees" and Eileen Brennan in "Rosemarie".

A. You have no problem at all! There are dozens of attractive kitchen items made of wood, metal and china, which would add charm to the walls, shelves, window sills, floors, and tables.

Search antique shops, barn-sales, White Elephant tables at church bazaars, and auctions, for any of the following: large wooden bowls, old colored-glass bottles, cookie boards, jelly molds, butter-churns, stoneware crocks and jugs, implements such as fruit-peelers, cherry pitters and funnels; caster-sets (for use as well as decoration) pewter measures and plates, mortar and pestle sets, and large old-fashioned irons, for door-stops.

Q. I hear reference made both to "Staffordshire dogs" and "Staffordshire dishes." Are they both made by the same factory?

A. First, let us make one thing perfectly clear: Staffordshire is not the name of a factory, but an area in England where famous potteries have been located for several centuries. Nearly every type of pottery and porcelain object has been made in Staffordshire.

The term "Staffordshire dogs" refers to quaint sculptures (composed of people, buildings as well as animals) which the English refer to as "chimney pieces" and which were originally used to decorate mantles.

"Staffordshire dishes" generally refers to the sets of tableware made during the 18th and early 19th centuries, usually, though not always, blue on white, which were decorated with pictures of both real and imaginary scenes. An important group, described as "Historic Staffordshire" refers to the tableware decorated with American subjects, generally of historic interest.

It combines the Bard of Avon's "Taming of the Shrew" with a witty contemporary script by the Spewacks, the musical genius of the late great Cole Porter, and the skills of a top resident professional cast, which has already made Pocono history in its first two productions of the season.

From "Kiss Me Kate's" opening date on Broadway, when it was called "Merry, melodious and sophisticated" by Walter Kerr of the Tribune, through countless revivals and a successful Hollywood film to its present Camelback production, it has never failed to delight audiences with its combination of the wit of a literary master of the past with the genius of a modern day master of Musical Comedy — Cole Porter.

"Wunderbar", "So In Love", "Another Opening", "Always True to You Darling" and so many more Cole Porter hits make "Kiss Me Kate" the merriest, tunefullest way so far to "Brush Up Your Shakespeare".

Sharon Stuart assumes the role of Kate, a part she played successfully in New York last year. Other leading appearances for Miss Stuart have included leads in "Oklahoma", "West Side Story", and in the Howard Keel company of "Carousel."

Harrison Somers as Fred and Petruchio will be following the talented footsteps of his predecessor on Broadway, Alfred Drake. Somers recently returned from a tour with the Jacques Brel Revue, just one of his many national appearances which have included starring roles with Edie Adams, in "Damn Yankees" and Eileen Brennan in "Rosemarie".

A. You have no problem at all! There are dozens of attractive kitchen items made of wood, metal and china, which would add charm to the walls, shelves, window sills, floors, and tables.

Search antique shops, barnsales, White Elephant tables at church bazaars, and auctions, for any of the following: large wooden bowls, old colored-glass bottles, cookie boards, jelly molds, butter-churns, stoneware crocks and jugs, implements such as fruit-peelers, cherry pitters and funnels; caster-sets (for use as well as decoration) pewter measures and plates, mortar and pestle sets, and large old-fashioned irons, for door-stops.

Q. I hear reference made both to "Staffordshire dogs" and "Staffordshire dishes." Are they both made by the same factory?

A. First, let us make one thing perfectly clear: Staffordshire is not the name of a factory, but an area in England where famous potteries have been located for several centuries. Nearly every type of pottery and porcelain object has been made in Staffordshire.

The term "Staffordshire dogs" refers to quaint sculptures (composed of people, buildings as well as animals) which the English refer to as "chimney pieces" and which were originally used to decorate mantles.

"Staffordshire dishes" generally refers to the sets of tableware made during the 18th and early 19th centuries, usually, though not always, blue on white, which were decorated with pictures of both real and imaginary scenes. An important group, described as "Historic Staffordshire" refers to the tableware decorated with American subjects, generally of historic interest.

'Hello Dolly' at Pocono Playhouse

MOUNTAINHOME — When Rowena Stevens premieres her touring production of "Hello, Dolly!" at Pocono Playhouse in Mountainhome this Monday for two weeks, through Aug. 5, she will be presenting what everyone and the New York Times has hailed as "a musical shot through with enchantment."

And an actress in the leading role, Anne Russell, who has been making that magic happen for over two year in the National and International companies of "Hello, Dolly!", from Broadway, through all compass points of the U.S. and across the Pacific in Tokyo and Vietnam, where she was a favorite of the troops.

Miss Russell again takes over the starring role for Mrs. Stevens, playing that endlessly resourceful widow, Dolly Gallagher Levi, matchmaker and lady-of-all trades, who sets her enormous bonnet (crested with a huge pink bird) for the cumurdgeon "half-millionaire", Horace Vandergelder (played by audience favorite Coley Worth), the Yonkers hay, grain and feed merchant, whom she lands on her own terms, talking faster than a con-man without losing her innocent gleam, and all the while singing her heart out.

New Hope Auto Show has tops in classics

NEW HOPE — The fifteenth Annual New Hope Automobile Show will be held this year on Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 12 and 13 on the grounds of the New Hope-Solebury High School, Route 202, New Hope, Pa.

The show, sponsored by the New Hope-Solebury Community Association, is noted as America's most complete automobile show and is also the largest of its kind on the East Coast.

This year, according to director Roger Conduit, there will be twenty two divisions to be judged over the two day show.

Sunday's competition classes are Antique Trunks and Fire Engines, Classic Cars, Custom Cars and High Performance, Ferrari, Jaguar, Packard, Kaiser Frazer, Model 'A' Ford, Plymouth, Rolls-Royce, Vintage Chevrolet and new this year, Studebaker, and Antique Motorcycle.

The Governor's Cup, authorized by Pennsylvania's Governor Milton J. Shapp, and presented for the first time last year, will be awarded to the Best of Show in the Antique Automobile classification.

The cup will be engraved each year with the winner's name and make of automobile and the winner will receive a smaller trophy to keep permanently. These awards, along with each of the others winners' trophies, will be presented by the queen of the New Hope Auto Show, who will be chosen from among a group of candidates on opening day.

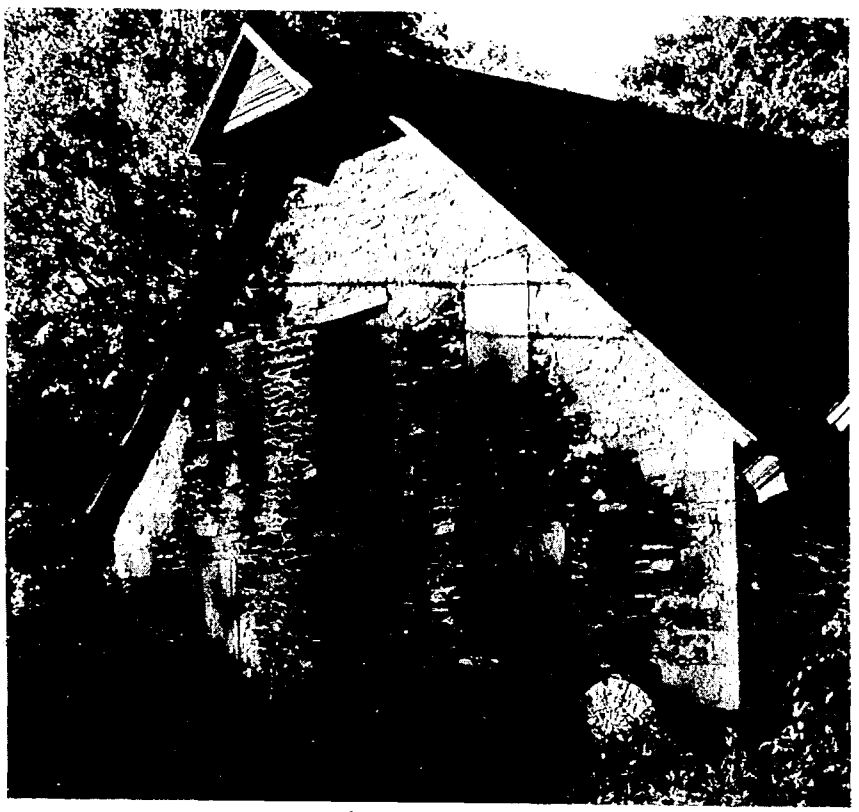

Many additional activities, competitions, events, and stands add to the Show's interest. Prime among them is the Automotive Flea Market which features a tremendous range of auto parts and is a gold-mine of hard-to-find automotive items.

Trophies are awarded to the winners and runners-up of a Gas Economy Run and each day to the owner of the car which has traveled the greatest distance to enter the show.

Two brand new events promise to add spark to this year's Show. There will be a fashion show of dazzling styles corresponding to the years of car entries and there will be a Model Car Meet, certain to appeal to the younger car builders and buffs.

There is still time to enter cars and application blanks may be obtained by writing to Mrs. Marie Cosner, "New Hope Automobile Show", Box 121, Mechanicsville, Pa. 18934. All entrants receive a souvenir plaque.

The Show opens at 10 a.m. and runs through the afternoon both days. The admission charge is $1.50 per person, no charge for children under twelve. Proceeds are used to offset costs of many programs and activities for the youth and adults of the community.

Colonial relic

Eastern Pennsylvania is replete with mementos of the colonial and later relics, and nowhere is the concentration so intense as in the Poconos. This barn, located near the Beltzville State Park, is a prime example of early American stone construction.

winning show that has been turned into a best-selling movie, lies, as the public knows and the critics echo, in its music.

"It's musical numbers are solid gold brass", Walter Kerr aptly puts it. With such numbers as "Dancing", "Put on Your Clothes", "Ribbons Down My Back" and with a parade for a finale, a first act like that would be hard to top.

But the genius of the show is that "Hello, Dolly!", for all the world to see, matches and outdoes the first act in the second with the highligh of the evening's fun in a scene in the Harmonia Gardens Restaurant opening with the "Waiters' Gallop", which segues into the title song of greeting to their old friend Dolly — incidentally, the song that helped elect Lyndon Johnson in 1964, the year "Dolly" opened its seventh-year run on Broadway.

Other incidental information of interest to the Pocono Playhouse production is that 26 years ago Walter Matthau, who starred in the movie version of "Dolly", was a young and unknown resident actor in Rowena Stevens' first company of actors at the Mountainhome theatre she had just founded.

Pocono birds enough to satisfy anyone

STROUDSBURG — The extensive forests of the Poconos provide food and nesting places for 135 kinds of birds.

An early walk in the woods will acquaint you with the varied color of their plumage as well as the clear shrill sound of their songs.

You are likely to see the brilliant red of the Scarlet Tannanger, the orange and black of the Baltimore Oriole and the bright blue of the Blue Jay.

Although visitors often admire them for their colorful feathers and the sweetness of their songs, these birds serve a useful function by keeping down the population of pests that are detrimental to man.

It is estimated that if all the birds on earth were to suddenly die or disappear, man could exist for only a few years. Birds destroy vast quantities of insects each day.

Some prevent insect pests from destroying crops and forests. Others feed on the seeds of weeds and other pest plants. Hawks and owls keep down the population of larger pests such as rats, moles and mice.

Each season in the Poconos brings different bird visitors who pass by in an endless parade.

In June the Robins, Whippoorwills, Ovenbirds, Flycatchers, Peewees and Chebecs abound. The Wood-Thrushes and Hermit Thrushes are also most plentiful.

Warblers may be seen among the rhododendrons at this time and Water Thrushes near ponds and streams. Song birds usually travel further north during July although many varieties remain.

In August many Night Hawks may be observed as well as cliff swallows and barn swallows. Along the Delaware River at Milford there is a large nest of bank swallows who have made their nesting holes in a vertical clay bank.

Siskins appear in the later summer, eating the seeds of the hemlock, weeds, sumach, aster and goldenrod. On into the fall the Redpulls search for the last of the berries and wild seeds and the Crossbills seek pines and hemlocks at the start of winter.

In the dead of winter the Rose-breasted Grossbeak. He has a stout conical bill to crack seeds and prefers those of the mountain ash or viburnum.

The Nuthatch and the Northern Black Caps search for insect larvae and eggs during the winter. And the thumping sound of the Ruffed Grouse beating his wings against a log is an indication of wild life.

In the fall and spring seasons game birds such as the wild turkey, Ruffed Grouse, Bobwhite Quail, Ringneck Pheasant, and woodcock can be seen. Also the wild ducks such as the Mallard and Black Duck as well as wild geese may drop by on their northward and southward migrations.

Walter Dam provides fun, games

BEAR CREEK — Reputed to be the largest earth-filled dam east of the Mississippi, the Francis E. Walter Dam is an outstanding feat of engineering on the Lehigh River.

The dam is 1,230 feet wide, 234 feet high and 3,000 feet long. It consists of 30,000 cubic yards of concrete, 150,000 cubic yards of rock and 4,700 cubic yards of earth.

The normal size of the reservoir is 50 feet deep, covering 90 acres. It has a capacity of 200 feet of water or 36 billion gallons of water.

As well as being a flooded control device, the reservoir has a picnic area beside it and boating and fishing is allowed on the reservoir.

The picnic area consists of 50 tables and there is a boat launch ramp for boating and fishing, which are allowed upon obtaining permission from the superintendent.

The reservoir is stocked with 20,000 to 50,000 trout each year. Sight-seeing and hiking are also permitted on the premises.

The project is open daily from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. seven days a week all year long. The gates are closed only when there is high water, according to head dam operator, Floyd Wildrick.

Both of the access roads were covered with water for part of their length because of the flood waters, Wildrick says, but the roads were useable within a week.

Always watch where you sit

While out on the water, many people throw caution to the wind and are careless about where they sit. Don't permit anyone to ride on the gunwales, transom, bow, or seatbacks. These are especially dangerous because they are not made for such use.

Fix that flat

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two out of three flat tires run for even short distances are damaged beyond repair, according to the National Automobile Club.

Pocono birds enough to satisfy anyone

STROUDSBURG — The extensive forests of the Poconos provide food and nesting places for 135 kinds of birds.

An early walk in the woods will acquaint you with the varied color of their plumage as well as the clear shrill sound of their songs.

You are likely to see the brilliant red of the Scarlet Tannanger, the orange and black of the Baltimore Oriole and the bright blue of the Blue Jay.

In pine forests at high altitudes live the blue-throated warbler and the cedar waxwing, while the blue-headed vireo is found around maple trees.

Although visitors often admire them for their colorful feathers and the sweetness of their songs, these birds serve a useful function by keeping down the population of pests that are detrimental to man.

It is estimated that if all the birds on earth were to suddenly die or disappear, man could exist for only a few years. Birds destroy vast quantities of insects each day.

Some prevent insect pests from destroying crops and forests. Others feed on the seeds of weeds and other pest plants. Hawks and owls keep down the population of larger pests such as rats, moles and mice.

Each season in the Poconos brings different bird visitors who pass by in an endless parade.

In June the Robins, Whippoorwills, Ovenbirds, Flycatchers, Peewees and Chebecs abound. The Wood-Thrushes and Hermit Thrushes are also most plentiful.

Warblers may be seen among the rhododendrons at this time and Water Thrushes near ponds and streams. Song birds usually travel further north during July although many varieties remain.

In August many Night Hawks may be observed as well as cliff swallows and barn swallows. Along the Delaware River at Milford there is a large nest of bank swallows who have made their nesting holes in a vertical clay bank.

Siskins appear in the later summer, eating the seeds of the hemlock, weeds, sumach, aster and goldenrod. On into the fall the Redpulls search for the last of the berries and wild seeds and the Crossbills seek pines and hemlocks at the start of winter.

In the dead of winter the Rose-breasted Grossbeak. He has a stout conical bill to crack seeds and prefers those of the mountain ash or viburnum.

The Nuthatch and the Northern Black Caps search for insect larvae and eggs during the winter. And the thumping sound of the Ruffed Grouse beating his wings against a log is an indication of wild life.

In the fall and spring seasons game birds such as the wild turkey, Ruffed Grouse, Bobwhite Quail, Ringneck Pheasant, and woodcock can be seen. Also the wild ducks such as the Mallard and Black Duck as well as wild geese may drop by on their northward and southward migrations.

With the return of spring comes the return of the songbirds. The Blue Birds, Robins, Redwings and Grackles come back to build their nests.

Walter Dam provides fun, games

BEAR CREEK — Reputed to be the largest earth-filled dam east of the Mississippi, the Francis E. Walter Dam is an outstanding feat of engineering on the Lehigh River.

The dam is 1,230 feet wide, 234 feet high and 3,000 feet long. It consists of 30,000 cubic yards of concrete, 150,000 cubic yards of rock and 4,700 cubic yards of earth.

The normal size of the reservoir is 50 feet deep, covering 90 acres. It has a capacity of 200 feet of water or 36 billion gallons of water. It caught 98 feet of water from the rains of tropical storm Agnes.

As well as being a flooded control device, the reservoir has a picnic area beside it and boating and fishing is allowed on the reservoir.

The picnic area consists of 50 tables and there is a boat launch ramp for boating and fishing, which are allowed upon obtaining permission from the superintendent.

The reservoir is stocked with 20,000 to 50,000 trout each year. Sight-seeing and hiking are also permitted on the premises.

The project is open daily from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. seven days a week all year long. The gates are closed only when there is high water, according to head dam operator, Floyd Wildrick.

Both of the access roads were covered with water for part of their length because of the flood waters, Wildrick says, but the roads were useable within a week.

Visitors can still get to the dam by the east entrance road and to the spillway by the west access road, he said.

Always watch where you sit

While out on the water, many people throw caution to the wind and are careless about where they sit. Don't permit anyone to ride on the gunwales, transom, bow, or seatbacks. These are especially dangerous because they are not made for such use.

Fix that flat

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two out of three flat tires run for even short distances are damaged beyond repair, according to the National Automobile Club.
